The American people, traditionally, have been sympathetic to the demands of labor. This attitude has its roots in the records of a past that many of us can still remember. In the rough-and-tumble fight for survival in a nation of pioneers there was much that was evil along with the good. There was much that was evil along with the good, exploitation of the weak, and labor was weak. There are many black pages in that record.

Labor no longer is weak. Big labor is strong, and there is justification for reasonable fears that is has become too strong.

One of our largest industries is now out of operation because of a strike. The steel industry, as such, is not loved by the people. The public reaction to this strike is not influenced by any sentimental interest in the financial welfare of the great corporations that are a part of this industry.

But in this instance, as we sense it, public sentiment is not favorable to the strikers either. Our guess is that the vast majority of the American people are hopeful that this strike will fail. This attitude is due, we believe, to the fact that the American people have come to realize that a union victory at this time would not be good for the American economy.

In a short time the people of America have become surprisingly conscious of the fact that we already have had too much inflation and that it is time to hold the line against any further reduction in the buying power of the dollar.

By the standards of most Americans the steelworkers are already well paid. Large profits by the industry do not in themselves justify wage increases if the present wage structure is already fair. Far better for all concerned, including the steelworker, that the price of steel be reduced. That would be a wage boost in the form of increased buying power for all of us.

But if the wages of steelworkers, already high, are further increased, this wage settlement will set the pattern for many other industries in which wage contracts are pending, and whether or not steel prices advance, a wage increase would trigger another round of general wage and price increases; another swing around the inflation spiral.

The closing down of the steel industry is terrifically expensive not only to the industry itself but to the entire economy. But better we take this loss now and get this inflation foolishness over with.

There is no good reason why wages and salaries, including the wages and salaries of public employees and officials, must be increased every year, year after year. These increases all add up to making us a nation of high production costs, and gradually sapping our strength in the competition of world trade.

The Item Veto

U.S. Senator Carl Curtis, Nebraska Republican, has introduced a bill that would give to the President the item veto power in approving appropriation bills. Under this proposed law the President would be given the authority to reduce or eliminate an appropriation for a particular purpose without vetoing the entire bill. Here in Minnesota and in many other states the Governors have such powers.

Such authority could be an effective curb on pork-barrel spending, of which there is much too much. There is little likelihood that this authority will be granted by the present Congress. Eventually, however, the force of public opinion will assure enactment of a measure of this kind.

Protest First

(Winnipeg Tribune)

Ezra Taft Benson, U.S. secretary of agriculture, pointed a reproving finger at Ottawa the other day and expressed concern over Canadian trade restrictions.

He mentioned barriers against the import of U.S. turkeys in particular. He also voiced misgivings about Canada's price support program for hogs. He seemed to think that over-production of pork in the Dominion offered a threat to U.S. pig raisers.

It is salutary from time to time for Ottawa to be reminded that tariffs and quotas, and surpluses caused by price supports are not an American monopoly. Sometimes Canadian protests against U.S. trade restrictions and marketing practices seem to ignore the fact that Ottawa has a few trade barriers of its own and objectionable surplus disposal practices.

Just the same, we are a little worried about the timing of Mr. Benson's criticism. At the moment, Mr. Benson is being pressed hard to get rid of surplus stocks of U.S. wheat and other agricultural commodities. He knows that off-beat deals in wheat by the U.S. can seriously and adversely affect Canadian export wheat trade.

It could be that Mr. Benson is getting his protest in first before Ottawa begins to complain about a new outburst of "aggresive" surplus disposal by Washington. This is a possibility that Ottawa should consider seriously.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

If all Minnesota citizens who are "legally blind" and who have only partial vision despite the best medical correction were to be grouped together they would make up a city larger than Rochester, Minnesota. I am sure many of you are as surprised as I was when I read that statement in a report on the services for the blind provided by our Department of Public Welfare.

Prevention of Blindness

Too many of us think of services for the blind as a program to provide subsistence for a few unfortunate people who can do little or nothing for themselves because of their severe handicap. This is very far from the truth. While aid is provided for the needy blind, the most constructive aspects of our state program include prevention, vocational training and counselling, medical restoration of vision and optical aids, and educational services. Prevention is certainly one of the most important activities.

Glaucoma Screening Clinic

A major cause of blindness is glaucoma, of which it is estimated there are a million undiagnosed cases in the United States. Blindness from glaucoma can be prevented if the disease is diagnosed and treated in time.

This year our Department of Public Welfare has taken the major role in initiating the first public glaucoma screening clinic to be held in Minnesota. It will take place September 21 and 25 in St. Paul. Similar clinics are planned in three other cities this year. Opthalmologists, nurses, and lay groups have volunteered their services to assist at such clinics. This program alone can save the eyesight of many who would otherwise come to need more of the specialized services for the blind.

Pre-School Children

Experts tell us that at least fifty percent of blindness is needless and preventable. Several types of eye disease must be detected and treated in pre-school years in order to prevent blindness. Yet it is sometimes difficult to discover defective vision and other symptoms in little children unless special effort is made.

Our Services for the Blind division has therefore organized representatives of the agencies concerned to draft recommendations for screening pre-school and school age children to discover eye diseases in time. Our consultant for prevention will then organize local units of health, education welfare, medical and lay groups to carry out those recommendations.

Prevention in Industry

We are also initiating a program of eye care and eye protection for industry, and have contacts with over five hundred plants in Minnesota. With more than 300,000 eye accidents in industry in the United States each year, it is important to do all we can to promote the development and use of the best possible preventive equipment and practices.

We are also beginning a program of regional workshops for groups of parents of children with visual handicaps. These are being organized in rural areas. Experts will give help and advice on how parents can meet and solve their mutal problems.

Special Optical Aids

A fair percentage of visually handicapped people can benefit from special optical aids, for which highly individualized and specialized procedure is needed in prescription, fitting and training. Our Services for the Blind division is cooperating with the University of Minnesota Hospitals in establishing an optical aid clinic this year at the Hospital. This clinic will serve as a resource for public assistance, private, and rehabilitation patients.

No Substitute for Experience and on the Job Training

Railroading is a complicated industry. Its financial, administrative and operational structure seems an endless maze to those outside the industry.

Equipment used in railroading is complicated, too. It takes plenty of practical knowledge and "Railroad Sense" to meet the schedules and deliver the goods.

In engine service there is no substitute for the practical experience acquired on the job in training of competent firemen and future locomotive engineers. On the job, the fireman builds up a fund of knowledge concerning his job and the equipment he is assigned to.

Generally, three to four years of experience as required in the various classes of service is necessary to qualify for promotion to locomotive engineer.

As a rule, the fireman is required to take an examination each year for three consecutive years, the last of which, if passed, qualifies him as a locomotive engineer, if needed.

The examinations include mechanical and electrical equipment, air brake systems, fuel economy, safety, timetables, train orders, and other operating rules and regulations.

The line of advancement is from extra fireman to regular fireman positions, then to extra engineer to regular engineer, and in the event of a reduction in number of engineers this operates in reverse order. As a result of the promotion-demotion rules, the entire burden of unemployment is borne by the junior fireman on the working list.

The fireman assists the engineer in maintaining a lookout ahead to observe the condition of the track and right-a-way. He must observe the wayside and cab signals and call their aspects to the engineer's attention, meanwhile keeping a vigilant lookout at grade crossing and while passing through stations. He also observes the condition of the train in regard to such things as dragging equipment and hot boxes, by looking back at frequent intervals on his side, particularly when rounding curves. This applies to his own train as well as others when passing enroute.

The fireman, together with the engineer, is held responsible for observance of operating rules and regulations. Violations usually result in discipline, sometimes dismissal from service.

In case the engineer becomes incapacitated, the fireman must be prepared to take over immediately. The fireman's ability to assume control in an emergency may be all that saves the train from disaster.

A fireman's job is of such a nature that constant and continuous supervision by an official is impractical. Therefore he must be able to think straight in an emergency; reach sound and rational conclusions when necessary; and must be trustworthy, dependable and an alert worker at all times.

Applicants for positions of firemen must pass physical examinations which have very rigid standards. Written and or oral examinations pertaining to the railroad operating rules and regulations are also required. At least a high school education is required by most railroads, or its equivalent.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Dad's a "Budding" Genius

Time to start planting flowers again, so here's a few details about the Fowler Garden Preservation System.

Youngsters used Dad Fowler's garden as a short cut to the playground. He had a tough time keeping them out until he started a new system.

He called the small fry together and had them print their names on cards. The cards were put on stakes near every clump of flowers. Right away, each kid began to root for "his" particular plants to come up first, voluntarily kept trespassers off "his" area — and Dad's garden thrived!

From where I sit, there's a system for just about everything . . . even for getting along with people! The best one I know is tolerance. It means respecting your neighbor's preferences as well as your own. For instance, I prefer an occasional glass of beer with dinner. You may like iced tea. If we accept each other's choice, we're on our way to making our friendship "flower."

Health Department Advises Public to Get Salk Polio Protection

Persons vaccinated with the recommended series of three doses of Salk poliomyelitis vaccine have maintained a high degree of protection against polio, according to a memorandum to physicians from the Minnesota department of health.

A review of cases in the state during 1958 indicates that the probability of contracting paralytic polio has been reduced on the average of 75% for individuals who have received the basic series of three injection of vaccine as compared with unvaccinated individuals. For some groups of children, the probability of contracting paralytic polio has been reduced in the vicinity of 90% for those who have received the full course of three doses.

"Case of paralytic polio have occurred in persons who have received the basic course of injections of vaccine but the great majority of paralytic polio cases occurring in 1958 were among unvaccinated persons," according to the report.

Completion of the basic series of three injections of Salk type polio vaccine is recommended for all persons under 40 years of age who have not yet been vaccinated or who have not had the full series of three doses. Vaccination of persons over 40 years of age can also be beneficial but it is less urgent since polio occurs less frequently in older individuals.

Three doses are recommended for all persons except young infants who should have a fourth injection. The polio vaccine may be given as separate injections or in quadruple vaccines which combine polio vaccine with diptheria, pertussis and tetanus vaccine.

A booster shot of polio vaccine is recommended for persons under 40 years of age who have completed the basic series of three doses at least one year previously and especially if several years have elapsed since the series was completed to provide possible added protection.

A booster shot for vaccinated persons is especially indicated when individuals may be entering situations or traveling into areas where the incidence of polio is high. The extra vaccine should be given when local epidemics of polio are beginning, when preschool children are to enter school, to pregnant women prior to the polio season and to persons traveling into areas where sanitation is poor or where polio is known to be present.

Burglars Obtain $1,500 at Church in Crookston

Theft of about $1,500 from the Trinity Lutheran church in Crookston was reported Friday.

Burglars entered the church office last Sunday night or early Monday morning and took the receipts from two church collections from a locked steel filing cabinet.

Police said the theft was not reported until Tuesday and it was agreed the incident would not be disclosed until letters were mailed to the congregation to check the amount of their contributions for filing purposes.

The pastor, the Rev. Ralph Tellefson, was on vacation when the burglary occurred.

FARMERS AND BUSINESSMAN

A YES vote in the Wheat Referendum on July 23 will save a cut of 78c a bushel. That means $234,000 in Pennington County. This figure is based on the wheat production in Pennington County last year. Read the information in the ad below.

YOU have a date to VOTE YES in the WHEAT REFERENDUM JULY 23

On Thursday, July 23, you and other wheat growers will decide between wheat price supports and the open market. That means you'll decide between $1.78 a bushel for your 1960 wheat—or anything from 60 cents to a dollar. Acreage allotments or no allotments, you'll still be at least 60 cents a bushel ahead if you keep what you've got by voting YES. And, besides, you'll gain another year in the fight to end the attack on your farm prices. Remember. 1960 is an election year.

A two thirds vote is necessary to win. So every vote is important. You, your wife and anyone else in your family with an interest in your 1960 wheat crop can vote. So can your landlord or your tenant, if you have them.

Remember your date—Thursday, July 23—to vote YES in the wheat referendum. See your local ASC office for voting place.

Willmar Co. Offers Lowest of 11 Bids on Huge Project

A total of slightly less than a quarter-million dollars in bids for three projects in Thief River Falls was accepted by the city council Tuesday evening, July 21, in a session which set a new recent record for length, adjourning at 2 a.m.

The biggest contract awarded was to the Central States Construction company of Willmar which offered the low bid to construct the storm sewer in district three, including the replacement of some water mains, for $231,937.10. The contract, awarded contingent on the approval of the state department of highways, includes the replacement of street surfaces which will be damaged during the project.

Other bids received were: Casper Construction company, Grand Rapids, $255,492.10; Barbarossa & Sons, Inc., St. Cloud, $259,056.25; Abbott, Arne, Schwindt, Inc., Moorhead, $246,976.95; George E. Haggart, Inc., Fargo, $243,638.70; J. J. Nagel, Perham, $248,731.95; Sornsin Construction company, Fargo, $257,562.55; Nodland Construction company, Alexandria, $257,464.50; Genkoski & Holmes, Cloquet, $258,632.20; and Rootes and Johnson, Inc., St. Cloud, $277,857.16.

The difference of $45,920.06 between the high and low bids was less than is usual in a project of this size and the low bid was about $48,000 less than preliminary estimates indicated.

Five firms bid on the two phases of construction work at the airport with Harry Dahl of Thief River Falls the successful low bidder on the entrance road and grading work as well as the installation of an Imhoff tank, drain field and water service line, for a total of $8,885.66.

Bids for the entrance road and grading work included: Harry Dahl, Thief River Falls, $1,626.16 and Mosbeck Brothers, Red Lake Falls, $1,657.20. Bids for the sewage disposal system and water service line were: Barbarossa & Sons, Inc., St. Cloud, $10,411.25; Harry Dahl, Thief River Falls, $7,374.50 and Ranum Construction company, Thief River Falls, $7,941. The Dahl bid was reduced $115 in the event that both bids were accepted and the bid of J. J. Nagel of Perham was rejected as not being complete in all items, making it unacceptable by the state. The bid award of Dahl was accepted subject to the approval of the Minnesota department of aeronautics which will provide two-thirds of the funds, while the city pays the other one-third.

New St. Lawrence Seaway Brings Big Cargo to Soo Line

Railroad Moves Huge Steel Mill from Duluth to Canada on 21 Cars

The St. Lawrence Seaway brought the Soo Line a nice piece of extra business in moving a steel mill from the port of Duluth to Regina, Canada, according to division superintendent Ed Hameraki. The complete mill, which was shipped from England to Duluth on the British ship Montreal City, required 21 railroad cars.

Two of the largest pieces, weighing more than 100 tons each, were loaded on two special depressed flat cars, of which there are only a few in the United States, available for special needs on a rental basis. This mill had been fabricated originally in Pittsburg and was shipped to Port Talbot, Wales. It will be erected at Regina for the Interprovincial Steel Company, Ltd., of that city.

A bulletin from the traffic department of the company telling of this operation stated, "We hope this is only the start of a great deal of Soo Line business resulting from the St. Lawrence Seaway."

Grygla Couple Adopt Korean Orphan, Age 8

An 8-year-old Korean orphan was home Monday at Grygla.

Hong Kyung Sook, dressed in a pink skirt, white blouse and white shoes, was met at Wold-Chamberlain airport in Minneapolis Saturday by the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Dale. They adopted the girl after supporting her for seven years in Seoul, Korea, thru the Christian Children's fund.

Mr. Dale, minister of the Evangelical Lutheran church in Grygla, and his wife arrived at the airport shortly before 9 a.m. Saturday.

They wanted "to be on time" for Northwest Airlines flight 536 from Seattle, Wash., due at 9:20.

"We've been sending 10 dollars a month to Hong Kyung Sook," said Mrs. Dale, watching the waiting room clock and pausing to listen to flight arrivals.

"We had been married about a year," said Mr. Dale.

"We saw an advertisement in a religious magazine to help support an orphan 'where the need is greatest.'

"That was during the Korean war," said Mrs. Dale, "and the greatest need was in Korea."

Hong Kyung Sook was brought to a Seoul orphanage "by an unidentified old lady," Mr. Dale said.

Time went by, and last year—"because we'd been in touch with her for so long"—the Dales decided to adopt the girl.

"She doesn't speak English," said Mrs. Dale.

The Dales have three children, Sarie Lynn, 5; Sonia Lee, 3; and Tommy Arthur, 17 months.

Other possible sources of revenue, in addition to the Community Chest, were discussed, but action was deferred. Reuben Lockrem is secretary of the board.

4-H'ers Offer Well over 1,000 Fair Exhibits

Big Increase Noted in Dairy, Sheep and Swine to Be Shown

4-H exhibits at the 1959 Pennington county fair July 27-30 are expected to set a new record, according to county agent Paul Stelmaschuk. Pre-registration is now underway at the office and over 1000 exhibits have been registered. This is the first time in the history of the fair that the 1000 mark will be passed in the 4-H department. The fair has been growing in recent years with greater interest shown by 4-H'ers.

Practically all of the 420 4-H members have registered exhibits at the fair with the biggest percentage increases shown in dairy, sheep and swine. The increase in enrollment in these projects is from 50 to 100 per cent. A large increase is also registered in demonstrations, an important part of the 4-H program.

A judging contest is scheduled for Monday, July 27, and all 4-H members interested are requested to contact the extension office before that date. The first day of the fair, which is Monday, is entry day and all 4-H exhibits must be in place by 4 p.m. Most of the exhibits in the 4-H building will be judged Monday evening. Livestock and the balance of the exhibits will be judged Tuesday, starting at 9 a.m.

Poultry exhibitors need to bring their own poultry feed, also a feed and water container to set in the cage. All livestock exhibitors need to take care of their own exhibits properly during the fair. Grains for livestock as well as poultry must be provided by the exhibitor.

Old Mill to Grind Flour Next Sunday

Will Be in Operation at Old Mill State Park

A glimpse of the days of yore will be available to residents of the Red River Valley Sunday, July 26, when the 1878 Case engine will power the mill stones of Marshall county's famed and historic Old Mill.

The mill will be operated during the afternoon at Old Mill State park, 18 miles northeast of Warren under the supervision of Ernie Jewell, park superintendent. Admission is free although spectators will be urged to purchase a small souvenir bag of the stone-ground flour. This will be one of two or three times the mill will actually be in operation this year.

Residents of the Valley are urged to bring their picnic dinners and suppers and take advantage of the large swimming pool during the afternoon. Special arrangements are being made to handle the expected large crowd.

The engine, Case number 359, was restored to working order by Mr. Jewell under the auspices of the Marshall County Historical society after lying unused since the 1890's.

The restored engine and mill completed last year was a major factor in Marshall county receiving a national citation from the American Association for State and Local History and also a Freedoms Foundation George Washington medal.

Pennington Fair Opens on Monday

Thrill Show Monday; Grandstand Revue Last Three Nights

The 58th annual Pennington county fair, serving as a climax to the summer season in Thief River Falls, will open its gates next Monday, July 27, for four days of top-notch entertainment, combined with instructive exhibits in the various departments.

Monday is Entry Day, when exhibitors will flock into the grounds with their entries of livestock, grain, vegetables and homemakers' products. A predominant role will be played, as usual, by 4-H club members, who, in addition to their exhibits, will offer a series of demonstrations. Judging of the entries will be completed Tuesday.

Monday also has been designated as Thrill Day at the fair, featuring an evening performance by Aut Swenson and his Thrillcade in a series of death-defying automobile and motorcycle stunts, with a group of attractive girl performers as an added attraction.

Tuesday will be Children's Day, with special low prices in effect during the afternoon on Kiddies rides on the midway, where the Art B. Thomas Shows will provide the carnival entertainment.

The Mario Shows revue will appear in front of the grandstand the last three nights of the fair, presenting the Eddie Smith dancing girls in addition to circus and vaudeville acts.

Acts to be offered include Dennis White, emcee and acrobatic dancer; Balabano duo, accordionists, Williams brothers, comedians; Roby and Bell, acrobatic act and flying ballet; Irma and Rio, unicycle act; Zavatta's trained dogs; and Bobby Smith, juggler.

For Wednesday and Thursday nights only, an added attraction will be Bud Jacobsen, billed as "The Gentleman Pickpocket", who performs mystifying sleight-of-hand stunts.

Other offerings at the 1959 fair, will include stock car races Wednesday afternoon, in which drivers from this city and other towns will compete; while Thursday afternoon there will be saddle horse races, with nearly 30 entries from a wide area indicated.

Thrillcade to Offer Hair-raising Stunts at Fair Monday Night

The run-of-the-mill automobile driver cringes at the sound of crumpling metal, particularly if it happens to be one of the fenders of his own care, but when the Aut Swenson Thrillcade appears Monday evening, July 27, at the Pennington county fair, he can hear and watch automobiles wrecked beyond repair and suffer no qualms.

For the destruction of automobiles — ancient ones considered a highway hazard — is one of the primary purposes of the International Gold Cup Crash Roll tournament staged at every thrillcade performance.

Daredevils entered in the destruction derby have a mercenary purpose, however, for they are competing for points which will bring the winner—if he survives—a $5000 purse and the Swenson Gold Cup at the conclusion of Thrillcade's tenth annual international tour.

To deliberately crash an old model car, a stuntman gets it traveling as fast as it will go, then speeds up an elevated jump and holds on for dear life and the vehicle goes tumbling over and over.

However, to make their "game" more difficult, the daredevils agreed that only end-over-end crashes would earn more points toward the season championship. Often, if a car still runs after one plunge from the ramp, a daredevil will make another try to see if he can accomplish an additional end-over-end roll.

Only precautions that these hell-drivers take is to remove all glass from the old machine's windows. They wear safety belts and helmets, but have no other protection from the crumbling metal or shock of the crash.

This results, of course, in some of them being injured from time to time, but so far this season, Thrillcade has had no fatalities in this event.

The Thrillcade performances here will feature many other spectacular feats, including motorcycle and automobile broad jumps from ramp to ramp, blazing barrier crashes, precision driving on the elevated ramps, Roman Steeplechase riding by the Thrillcadettes and Australia's fabulous Honey Girls, Motor Polo competition and the like.

State Men Make an Inspection of TRF Airport Tuesday

Officials Stake out Site of TVOR Installation to Be Set up in Near Future

The Thief River Falls municipal air port was the subject of an inspection by Ray Brown, inspector for the state department of aeronautics Tuesday, with Brown making several recommendations toward improvement of the local field.

Accompanying Brown was Carl Hanson, construction engineer, and Robert Engelhart, radio engineer of the state aeronautics department.

Among the points inspected were the runways, taxiways, field markers and buildings. Brown said the main runway needs repairs to some cracks and that it should be resurfaced before too long. He also called attention to several low spots in the turf taxiways and tie-down yards where water accumulates during wet weather.

While here, the trio from the aeronautics dept. staked out the site of the TVOR installation here, on which construction will probably begin within the next two or three weeks. The installation at Park Rapids is being built at present and work will begin here after it is done. The work is being done by a Wadena firm.

TVOR is an electronic navigation aid emitting both coded signals and voice transmission. The letters stand for "Terminal Visual Omni-Range." It is a very high frequency (VHF) device and makes it possible for pilots whose planes are equipped with VHF and Omni-range receivers to "home" on the transmitter from any direction of the compass.

Brown cited the growth of aviation facilities in the state in conversations while here, saying that in 1944 there were only 28 licensed airports. Now the figure has leaped to 140 airports, not counting seaplane bases and private airports.

Another improvement to the local airport is the addition of another pump to dispense 91 or 100 actane aviation gas, making it possible to service a wider variety of transient and home-based aircraft here. Installation will be completed in the very near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Stengrim of Sitka, Alaska, were Tuesday evening dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Leslie. Mrs. Stengrim is a sister of Mrs. Leslie.

N.W. Assn. of Conservation Clubs Revived

Howard Kramer, EGF, Elected President at Meeting in City

After being in a state of semi-hibernation since 1954, the Northwest Association of Conservation clubs was revived at a meeting held here Monday evening. The gathering, which was attended by representatives of conservation clubs from Lancaster, Roseau, Crookston, Warren, Red Lake Falls, East Grand Forks, and Thief River Falls, was in answer to a call issued by J. A. Harren of Red Lake Falls, the president of the group in 1954.

The group, with George Raymond of East Grand Forks as presiding officer, elected a slate of directors and executive officers, with the following being named: Howard Kramer of East Grand Forks, president; E. H. (Cap) Nelson of Roseau, first vice president; Dr. Ken Albertson of Crookston second vice president; John Anderson of Thief River Falls third vice president; director for the northern district, Roy Jesme of Baudette; director of the southern district, J. A. Harren of Red Lake Falls; and director-at-large, Gay Warnecke of Thief River Falls.

President Kramer was authorized to name the secretary-treasurer.

There are approximately twenty active conservation clubs in the 19th district, comprising the northwestern part of the state, and it is hoped that all of these clubs will affiliate with the association.

No More Land to Go into Soil Bank in County in 1960

Due to Fact That Soil Bank Acreage in County Exceeds 25 Pct. of Total

Patrick W. Culkins, office manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, announced today that he had received a directive from the Minnesota state ASC office informing him that the soil bank program will not be opened up in Pennington county in 1960.

The directive points out that whenever soil bank acreage equals or exceeds 25 per cent of the total crop-land in any county no further contracts will be accepted in that county.

The percentage of crop-land in the soil bank in Pennington county at the present time is 30.0 per cent of the county's total crop-land acreage. Culkins stated further that a considerable acreage of soil bank land would expire in 1959, but he said this acreage would not be sufficient to reduce the percentage of crop-land to below the 25 per cent limitation stablished by congress.

Sandra Jensen, Ruby St. Martin and Faye Fuller were elected delegates from St. John's Lutheran Walther League to the state convention of the Walther League at Ortonville July 24 to 26.

Area Creameries Urged to Consolidate

Representatives of six creameries in the Thief River Falls area who attended a meeting at the Rex Cafe Tuesday night, were told that consolidation and reorganization of the marketing facilities in the area should result in substantial increases in the net returns to producers. This conclusion was based on a study of the operations of seven creameries of the area and their annual reports of the last five years, conducted by Martin Christianson, University of Minnesota extension service marketing economist.

Dr. William Dankers, also of the University and an authority on dairy marketing, summarized the statistical report and pointed up the need for such a consolidation. "Our job is not to tell people what to do," he said, "but to suggest what they can do to help themselves."

He reviewed the history of creameries and the trend to consolidation that already is well advanced in many producing areas. The small creameries and cheese factories of the horse and buggy days were justified at that time and served a good purpose, he agreed. Good roads and the automobile have made the larger and more efficient units possible.

Questioned about increased transportation costs when milk stated that one creamery in the is concentrated in a larger area, he stated that the cost increases were largely offset by the savings made possible by the elimination of duplications in the pick-up service. In an area where creameries are competing with each other for volume it is not unusual to find several pick-up trucks covering the same territory, he pointed out.

But the big advantage is in the lower manufacturing costs that are possible only with the larger operations he said. Asked if a saving of five cents a pound of fat would be possible in this area, he stated that manufacturing costs in the state vary from less than three cents a pound to more than twelve cents. Northwestern Minnesota is an area of comparatively high manufacturing costs which could be greatly reduced by consolidations and more efficient operations.

Mr. Christianson's report indicated a big increase in the volume of fat marketed in milk while for the seven creameries, the volume of fat marketed in cream is less than half the total of five years ago. In 1958 the total volume of fat purchased by the seven creameries was 2,357,542 pounds. Dr. Dankers area could process this volume with existing facilities.

There was a general discussion of various ways in which creamery consolidations could be effected and the problems involved.

Creameries represented at the meeting were Gatzke, Viking, Warren, Plummer, Goodridge and Thief River Falls. Albert Hanson, president of the Thief River Falls creamery and chairman of a study committee consisting of the presidents and secretaries of each creamery, presided. It was agreed that the next meeting of the study committee should be held subject to the call of the chairman.

West Side Storm Sewer Contract Awarded Tuesday

ing, heating and ventilating work for the liquor store remodeling was the Lee Plumbing and Heating company of Thief River Falls. The firm bid $8,967 in comparison to the bid of $10,447.58 by Ace Hardware of Thief River Falls.

Considerable time was spent by the council in examining the proposals of two parking meter companies which have offered to install meters in the city on a one-year trial basis. After a trial period, the Park-O-Meter corporation of Oklahoma City has offered to sell meters complete with stands and installation for $62.85 each to be paid by the city with 50% of the meter revenue. The Duncan-Miller Corporation has offered the same trial period and the meters, at $65.50 each would be paid for by 50% of the revenue or $1.50. The two proposals will be studied by the council and a decision will be made at a special meeting which will be called.

The first reading of an amending ordinance was given following the request of William LaFave that the city give its permission to the Great Northern railroad to vacate its alley south of the Bridgeman Creameries plant on Main ave. S. The property is needed by Bridgeman for expansion of its milk handling facilities, according to LaFave.

Work will begin on the TVOR building at the airport about August 1, according to two state department of aeronautics representatives who attended the council meeting. Their request for the use of city equipment to level the building site was granted. The facility, one of seven in the state, will be constructed by Midsota, Inc., Wadena, which was given the contract to build all seven stations for the sum of $60,000. The TVOR system will be used by flyers as a guidance system.

Other business of the council included a resolution approving the proposal of Juran & Moody, St. Paul bond consultants, in the matter of bonds to be issued for the construction of the storm sewer in district three and the acceptance "with regret" of the resignation of Bruce Reski, city and county civil defense director effective Aug. 1.

Building permits totaling $6,258 were approved including: Lawrence Aase, 616 Horace ave. N., residence remodeling, $3,500; Ray Johnson, 323 Kendall ave. N., garage, $800; Edgar Longren, 320 Kendall ave. N., garage, $1,000; and Dr. E. T. Nelson, 106 Spruce ave. N., garage, $958.

Applications for licenses approved included: E. H. Fallman, plumbing license renewal; Phillips Auto Wrecking and Joe Evans, junk dealers; Elmer Poole, 208 Second st. E., cigaret license; John Maney, 319 Third st. E., Isabella Lofgren, 717 Atlantic ave. N., Elmer Poole, 208 Second st. E., and M. G. Higlein, 212 LaBree ave. N., renewal of on and off-sale beer licenses and Olaf Vraa, 516 Eighth st. E., and Inga Shetler, 811 Atlantic ave. N., off-sale beer licenses.

Resolutions were passed approving the enactment of special legislation by the state legislature which permits the city to enter into a lease agreement with the school district for the shop building being constructed and for the payment of the following construction and other work: estimate number two for the construction of the Riverside park comfort station to Victor Besancon, $1,455; estimate number 1 on the airport shop building to Prichard Brothers, $6,280; final estimate on storm windows and doors for the power plant to the Ilanum Construction company, $699.30; partial estimate on filter plant equipment to Clow & Sons, $2,148.83; engineering for storm sewer district three, D. H. Stewart & Associates, $8,410.58; and $7,100 to the General Electric company for repairs to a power plant generator.

Following the other items of business, considerable time was spent in reviewing the work being done in street construction and work to be done in the future. It was emphasized that the concentration of work is on the east side of the river at present because of the storm sewer project which will begin soon on the west side making street work in that area impossible.

Council President Bob Carlson and Alderman E. B. Benson were absent at the meeting and Vice-President S. A. Honebrink presided.

Arrangements were made then for the delivery of the bonds to Allison-Williams company of Minneapolis, who headed the syndicate that purchased them. Delivery was made on Tuesday of this week at which time a check was issued to the District in the amount of $87,212.64. The amount in excess of the $87,000 was for accrued interest from the date of the bonds to the time of their delivery.

O. R. Springsted, president of the bond consulting firm, advised the Grygla board officials that since the bonds were sold on June 11th, the market rose as much as .14% which would have meant an additional cost of $1,000 to the district.

Officials of the board at Grygla report that the work on the new addition is progressing on schedule.

OVER THE BACK FENCE

By STAN PETERSON

For the greater part, the working population of this nation falls into three categories when the paycheck is considered.

First, there is a large segment whose take-home pay is tied to a cost-of-living index which provides for more wages when prices increase—a sort of life preserver which keeps their economic noses above the rising tide of inflation.

Second, there are those who can increase their incomes whenever the cost of living goes up by raising the prices of their goods and services.

Last, and apparently least, there is the forgotten man—the poor sucker caught in the middle whose income never keeps pace with increasing costs but who is among the first to suffer a salary cut or find himself without a job when things get a little rough.

A further examination of this unsung goat and his shabby brethren reveals many visible points of similarity despite their disparity of positions. Relatively well trained for their jobs through education and experience, their badge of distinction is the white collar which is oftentimes a bit grimy from being used two successive days because the wearers don't own enough shirts to put clean ones on each morning.

Collectively, the individuals who belong to this group have much in common. They work for someone else; because of the nature of their jobs, there are not enough of them in one place to get together for collective representation and their job tenure is a precarious thing depending upon the whims, physical well-being and idiosyncrasies of their superiors.

Considered by the hourly workers as a "strange breed of cats who work in jobs which do not require grimy hands" and by their superiors as persons who should be representatives of top management with all the attendant expenses but none of the compensating income or expense accounts, these representatives of the much-heralded "backbone of the nation," the middle-class semi-white collar workers, are due for more substantial recognition than the cheap plaudits and pats on the backs that have been their dubious rewards for so long.

On the national level, the "forgotten men" of business deserve some consideration when the time comes for another round of price and wage increases such as those already agreed upon by the management and workers of the steel industry. Neither will lose, of that you can be sure. The wages of steelworkers will be increased and the cost of steel will compensate for the industry's extra cost. The losers will again be the general public, especially those on fixed salaries.

The joyous news recently from the statisticians of Washington was that "Personal income of Americans climbed in June to a record rate . . . of more than 1½ billion dollars higher than the May rate."

This may come as quite surprise to salaried workers for it is rather dubious that they are seeing any of this increased wealth so glowingly described by the slide-rule magicians of the nation's capitol.

The time will come, perhaps in the not too distant future, when the fixed-salary worker will be looked upon by labor, industry, management, government and politicians as a force to be considered before action is taken. That day is closer than some realize.

Squeezed between prices which have increased rapidly while the value of his take-home pay has diminished, the white-collar worker is gradually giving up hope of buying new products or replacing aged ones, of putting something aside to educate his children, of having a dollar which is not earmarked for necessities, of providing adequate medical care or of leaving something for his family when he is no longer able to provide for them.

Workers of other kinds have joined together to obtain economic relief and it is entirely possible that it could be done again.

Whether the group finally finds itself allied on the side of management or labor is up to management and labor. The field, at present, is open on a "first come—first served" basis.

Christ Evenson Honored on Golden Wedding

The Rindal church was filled with relatives and friends Tuesday night, July 14 who came to honor Mr. and Mrs. Christ Evenson of Springfield, Ore. on their golden wedding.

The Evenson's are old timers from our community having spent 37 of those 50 years of wedded life on the Evenson homestead here and their youth before that. Christ and Clara were very active in the Rindal church and all other community activities. Their friendliness made everyone their friend.

Mrs. Carl Olson of Newfolden, a niece read the family history and recalled pleasant times in the Evenson home. Two anniversary readings were given by Mrs. Irwin Schmitke and Mrs. Emil Anderson. Many friends and relatives also gave short talks to wish the Evenson's continued good health and to say "God Bless You Both."

Eldred, 3, at Fosston, 7.

Schedule, Sunday, July 26
Thief River Falls at Eldred (afternoon)
Erskine at Cass Lake (afternoon)
Winger at Fosston (night)

Russ Smith's Cass Lake team, idle last Sunday as far as league competition was concerned, continues to hold the top rung in the Northern Minny league standings, but their margin over the second place Bagley Merchants was pared to one-half game.

In last Sundays' play, Bagley scored a 9 to 1 win over the Winger Tigers at Winger to edge up on the first place position. Thief River Falls broke their third place deadlock with the Erskine Merchants by marking up an 11 to 4 win over Erskine in a game played at Thief River Falls. And the cellar-dwelling Eldred club dropped a 7 to 3 decision in a night game played at Fosston.

This week's schedule will be featured by the afternoon game at Cass Lake, with the league-leading Cass Lake club meeting the Erskine Merchants. With Bagley drawing a bye on Sunday, Cass Lake must score a win over Erskine in order to maintain their undisputed position as the league leaders.

Other games on Sundays' bill will find Thief River Falls playing at Eldred, in an afternoon game; and Winger at Fosston in a night game.

The league is slated to conclude play on its 1959 schedule on Sunday August 9.

Bridgeman's Hold Lead in Softball

Defeat Bums Thursday by Lopsided 26-5 Score

Results of the week's games:

The week's schedule:

Tuesday, July 28
Bridgeman's vs. Hamm's Beer
Wednesday, July 29
V.F.W. vs. Dow-Key Company
Thursday, July 30
Len's Tire Service vs. Sportsman's Store.

The Bridgeman's team, scoring a lop-sided 26 to 5 win over the Bums on Thursday evening continued to hold down first place in the city softball league standings. The Bridgeman's hold a half-game lead over the Hamm's Beer (who have played one game less) and the Len's Tire Service (who have played one game more).

Perhaps the highlight of the week's play was the resounding 25 to 6 win that the Sportsman's Store marked up over the Bjorkman's on Monday evening. Manager Lowell Collins' Bjorkmans' club was without the services of pitchers Milt Peterson and Del Schob, and the results were disastrous.

A pair of important games are on this weeks' slate, with the Hamm's Beer team playing the Len's Tire Service squad tonight, Thursday; and the Hamm's meeting the league-leading Bridgemans' on Tuesday evening, July 28. The Thursday evening schedule will find the Hamm's and the Bridgeman's resuming play on their game of June 9, which was halted by rain in the second inning with the Bridgeman's leading by an 8 to 2 score. Following the completion of this game, the two teams will play their scheduled game for July 28.

Lions Best Rotary in Golf Tourney

60 Members Attend Party in Spite of Showers

In spite of intermittent showers Monday evening, 60 Rotarians and Lions turned out for the annual inter-club party and golf tournament at the golf club.

With the Lions as hosts, Dr. O. D. Beich officiated as master of ceremonies and announced that the Lions had won the new trophy featuring an oil can and funnel, prepared by John Anderson, local jeweler.

A complicated system was used in arriving at the scores of the opposing teams, consideration being given to such factors as size of hats and shoes and waist measure.

For a variety of mysterious reasons, including service to self, Dr. Beich presented trophies to Lloyd N. Bennes, W. E. Dahlquist, E. B. Benson, Jarvis Prichard, M. C. Gulbranson and Russ Embury.

Thieves Trim Bums in Exhibition Game 8-3

Scoring four runs in the last half of the first inning, with Jack Junker poling a three-run home run over the fence in left-center, the Northern Minny league Thieves defeated the Pen-Ro-Shall league Bums, 8 to 3, in an interesting seven-inning exhibition game played on the Fair Grounds diamond Wednesday evening.

The Bums, on a line single by Dean Anderson, a walk to Larry Gilbertson, and a sharp single into right field by Fred Dablow, tallied a run in the top of the first inning.

The Thieves added a tally in the third inning, taking advantage of an error and following with singles by Junker and Glenn Carlson.

After the Bums, on a walk to Pat Poole, a single by Ken Bickel, an infield force, a walk to Anderson, and an infield out, had scored a pair of runs in the fourth inning off the pitching of righthander Dennis Bakke; the Thieves on a walk, an infield hit by Rod Max, a double by Marv Mansfield, and a single by Frank Gunderman, punched across three runs in the last half of the fourth frame, closing out the game's scoring.

Righthander Mickey Hanson, who hurled the six innings for the Bums, struck out nine batsmen and gave up but three walks. Gene Leslie, Dennis Bakke, and Harley Drees, all righthanders, shared the Thieves' hurling duties.

It is probable that the two teams will arrange another game in the series to determine the city's senior baseball championship.

Legion Tournament Time

One of the highlights of the summer sports program will start this week as the American Legion's junior baseball teams begin play in sub sub-district competition.

Crookston's Highland Park diamond will be the site of the Ninth district's sub sub-district tourney, with games being slated for Thursday, July 23. Today's schedule will find the Newfolden juniors playing the Warren juniors at 10:30 A.M. At 1:30 P.M., the favored Crookston juniors will play the East Grand Forks juniors. And at 4:00 P.M. coach Ralph Skay's local juniors will meet the winner of the Newfolden vs. Warren game.

The winners of the 1:30 P.M. and the 4:00 P.M. games will be given berths in the sub-district tournament that will be played at Warren on Wednesday, July 29, and Friday, July 31. The Warren tourney will be a four-team affair, with the other two teams being the winners of the north sub sub-district tournament.

Monday evening's rain washed away the Twin Valley vs. Thief River Falls game scheduled for the Fair Grounds diamond. This game, though, has been rescheduled and will be played on Monday, July 27. If the Fair Grounds diamond is not available, and it's doubtful as the county fair will start on that date, an effort will be made to transfer the game to Red Lake Falls' Riverside Park diamond.

On Tuesday night, the local club had been scheduled to play the Bemidji juniors, but on Tuesday morning coach Skay received a call from Will Antel the Bemidji coach asking for a postponement. The Bemidji juniors had a district playoff game slated for Wednesday night, against Baudette, and the Bemidji coach requested a postponement of the Tuesday night game here, for the reason that his stellar righthander, Pete Barthelemy, would be reserved for the Baudette game, and he did not wish to play the locals without Barthelemy's services. The game has been re-billed for the Fair Grounds diamond here on Friday night, July 24, at 8:00 P.M.

Pirates' Tryout Camp

The Pittsburgh Pirates will conduct a tryout camp at the municipal ball park at Grand Forks on July 24 and 25.

The session will begin daily at 9:00 A.M., and will be under the direction of Syd Thrift, the Pirates' scouting supervisor in the North Dakota territory. He will be assisted by Jim Adlam, the Grand Forks Chiefs' manager.

Players must be at least 16 years of age to be eligible to attend the camp, and no American Legion junior baseball player will be permitted to participate in the camp drills if such participating would interfere with any of the player's Legion activities. Such participating will be only permitted with a letter of approval from either his Legion coach or the commander of the Legion Post he represents in Legion play.

We had an interesting conversation with Hawley's Vint McDonald during an interlude in the golf tournament here Sunday. McDonald, who has been a factor in promoting athletics, particularly baseball, in the Detroit Lakes-Hawley area, stated that he was taking Hawley's Dick Reidberger to the Pirates' tryout camp. In all the years that he, McDonald, has been following high school and Legion baseball in his area, Reidberger possesses the greatest potential and is a prime big league prospect. Reidberger, an all-state choice in basketball, and a tremendous football player, is a first baseman in baseball.

Archery Competition

The local archery club will be host, at its range south of town, to the Northern Bowhunters organization on Sunday, July 26.

The tournament, which will be one of the series that is being conducted at the various ranges in this area, will begin at 10:00 a.m., and will continue throughout the day.

While the matches will be restricted to the league members, it was announced that visitors will be welcomed to the range. And there is a possibility that an open classification of archers will be arranged so that archers who are not affiliated with a club will be able to compete.

TRF Bums Clinch Title Sunday in Pen-Ro-Shall Loop

Extend Winning Streak to 7 Games by Victory over Grygla Team 17-9

Plummer	4	4	.500
Grygla	3	4	.428
Goodridge	3	4	.428
Greenbush	2	4	.333
Badger	2	5	.275

Results of the week's games:

Goodridge, 4, at Badger, 11
T. R. Falls Bums, 17, at Grygla, 9
Greenbush, 5, at Plummer, 12

Schedule, Sunday, July 26
Goodridge at Thief River Falls
Badger at Greenbush
Plummer at Grygla

Manager Wally Grovum's Thief River Falls Bums clinched the Pen-Ro-Shall league championship on Sunday by scoring a 17 to 9 win over Grygla in a game played at Grygla. With but three scheduled games remaining to be played, against Greenbush (a postponed game), Goodridge, and Plummer, the Bums could lose these three tilts and finish the season with a seven wins and three losses record, the league's best. To date the Bums are undefeated, having posted a record of seven wins and no losses.

The Plummer Red Sox made a big jump in the league standings by scoring a win over Greenbush, and that triumph lifted Plummer into second place with a four wins and four losses mark.

This week's schedule will find manager Curly Gasperlin bringing his Goodridge nine to Thief River Falls for a Sunday afternoon game against the Bums on the Fair Grounds diamond. Righthander Don Lokken is expected to pitch for Goodridge, and the former Goodridge high school Husky, now attending Concordia college, will undoubtedly be a problem for the local hitters.

Four Roll-overs Mark Car Races on Sunday

Four roll-overs featured the program of stock car racing at the speedway west of town on Sunday night. None of the drivers that were in these mishaps were injured as the cars are equipped with safety features, such as roll-bars, etc. The season's largest crowd witnessed the program, and were treated to some of the best racing of the year.

A number of out-of-town entries were included in the nineteen-car field.

Duane Sevre and Jim Pierce posted identical 19.5's to pace the time trials.

And as has been the case for the past couple of weeks, Sevre and Don Joppru engaged in a duel for top honors, with the two drivers dividing the consolation and feature events. Joppru scored a first in the consolation event, with Sevre runner-up; and in the feature event, Sevre came in to get the checkered flag as the winner with Joppru in second place.

According to present plans, the Northwestern Racing association will present a program of stock car racing as a feature of the Pennington county fair next week.

The regular program of Sunday night racing at the speedway will be held on Sunday, July 26.

Strontium-90 in Milk Far Below Permitted Level, Officials Say

Investigations by the Minnesota department of health of strontium-90 levels in milk produced in the state over the past eight months reveal an average concentration of 14.4 micromicrocuries per liter in 35 samples taken at six sampling stations.

This level represents only 14 per cent of the maximum permissible level for lifetime exposure, according to Dr. Robert N. Barr, executive officer of the state health department.

The concentration of strontium-90 in Minnesota milk has shown a slight decrease during the first four months of this year. Strontium-90 levels in milk in the Upper Midwest are higher than the national averages reported by the U.S. Public Health service, but national averages have shown a slight increase at a time when Minnesota averages have been falling.

Nineteen samples of whole milk collected at six sampling stations from January through April reveal an average concentration of 13.9 micromicrocuries per liter. During the first four months of the department's milk surveillance program, September through December, 1958, the concentration of strontium-90 in 16 samples of whole milk was 15.0 micromicrocuries per liter.

All of the Minnesota samples have been well within the permissible maximum of 100 micromicrocuries per liter, a figure set by the National Committee on Radiation Protection and Measurement. The range and average of the readings also compare generally with those reported by the U.S. Public Health service in recent months.

In September, 1958, the average of state samples was 18.9, compared to the national average of 8.4 micromicrocuries per liter. In March, the national average reached 10.4, compared to 13.5 in Minnesota. April readings, the most recent available, reveal a state average of 12.6, compared to the national average of 9.1 micromicrocuries per liter.

A micromicrocurie is the radiation equivalent of one millionth of one millionth of a gram of radium, and a liter is approximately one quart. The units of measurement are the same as those used by the USPHS in its milk surveillance program.

The 35 Minnesota samples range in value from a low of 6.4 micromicrocuries per liter to a high of 24.0. Dr. Barr points out that the high reading, taken last September, was far below the maximum permissible level for lifetime exposure. The highest level among the April samples was 20.3.

The state health department data is based on samples collected monthly since last September from Duluth, Brainerd, Faribault, Minneapolis, Thief River Falls, and Worthington. Samples from the Worthington station have been submitted only since March, and the Faribault station was discontinued in April. The sampling stations were selected to give as complete geographical coverage as possible.

It is difficult to evaluate realistically the information collected in Minnesota since the samples have been collected for such a short time, Dr. Barr states. Studies of long-term trends and variations must be correlated with other data and information to evaluate the health hazard from strontium-90 or any other source of radiation, he points out.

1,476 Deer Killed by Accident in '58

Die from Auto, Train and Similar Mishaps

Deer kills from car, train and miscellaneous other causes increased greatly in 1958, reports Dr. Lytle Blankenship, state big game specialist.

"Some 1,476 animals, or nearly twice as many deer were killed from these causes in 1958 as in 1957," explained Dr. Blankenship. "This may be another indication of a general population increase."

October and November were the months of greatest mortality from cars and trains: 354 deer were killed during these two months of which 163 were bucks. This period of heavy kill coincides generally with the rutting season.

Another period of heavy kill occurred in April and May when deer were moving from winter to summer ranges, and feeding on green vegetation near the roads. At this time, 254 deer were killed.

THRILLCADE

MONDAY AT FAIR Australia may be noted for its kangaroos but now it's the fabulous Honey Girls of Brisbane who are making the land "down under" famous, as they accompany the Aut Swenson Thrillcade on its tenth international tour, including appearance at the Pennington county fair Monday night. Roman Steeplechase racing with the Thrillcadetes, a motorized ballet and whirlwind acrobatics are the forte of the comely Australians. In the background of the above picture may also be seen the Thrillcade Ride of Death, another spectacular stunt of the 2-hour show.

Small Business Adm. to Open Fargo Office

The new Fargo branch office of the Small Business Administartion will make it more possible for the businessmen of North Dakota and western Minnesota to make use of the services of the SBA, Paul [illegible]lander, manager, announced to[illegible]. In addition to the entire state of North Dakota, this office will serve 21 northwestern Minnesota counties.

The Fargo office will open July 27. A major function of the new office will be to acquaint persons in this area with the various programs of the SBA. One of these programs assists small business concerns by helping them obtain needed financing on reasonable terms.

The agency makes loans to small manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers, service establishments, and other businesses when financing is not otherwise available to them on reasonable terms. Loans are made to finance business construction, conversion or expansion, to finance the purchase of equipment, facilities, machinery, supplies or materials and to supply working capital. Loans are made either in participation with banks or on a direct basis. A direct loan cannot be made by the SBA if credit is otherwise available or if private lending institutions will participate in the loan. Loans are made up to $350,000. The SBA interest rate is 5½%. To be eligible for financial assistance a firm must be independently owned and operated and must meet certain size requirements.

The potential borrower must meet certain credit requirements which include: Being of good character; evidence that he has the ability to operate the business successfuly; there must be enough capital in the business so that with SBA assistance it will be possible to operate on a sound financial basis; the loan as required by the Small Business Act "must be of such sound value or secured as reasonably to assure repayment;" and the past earnings record and future prospects of the firm must indicate ability to repay a loan out of income from the business.

Persons desiring financial assistance are requested to bring with them a recent balance sheet, profit and loss statements for the past several years, and a statement from their local bank as to whether or not the bank will make the loan itself, or participate with the SBA, and to what extent.

"Just because you've done your work a certain way a long time doesn't always mean that's the best way. In fact, this might be one of the best arguments for hunting a new method . . . One businessman suggests, 'After you've done it the same way for two years, look over the method carefully. After five years, view it with suspicion. After 10 years, at least try a new method'." —Anonymous

Isolation or Commerce

Wheat farmers are voting today to decide whether acreage should be further reduced and the higher government price support maintained. The alternative is a big reduction in the support price and unlimited production.

Ours is not the only country that has a surplus of wheat. Canada is one of several others that are groping around for a way to dispose of large stockpiles, and the Canadian Financial Post last week reported the discouraging news that Canada probably would lose a part of its European market this year because of lower priced wheat being offered by Russia. The outlook for next year is even less encouraging, according to this report, which states:

> "In our 1957-58 crop year, Russia sold only about 250,000 bushels wheat in Holland. This year, Dutch sources estimate, Russia will sell over 11 million bushels of our sales and about two million bushels of U.S. sales.
> "Method: Russia sent a representative to nearby Antwerp, Belgium, apparently with instructions to underbid Canadian prices.
> "Next year, we face the probability of further losses to the Russians in the Dutch wheat market, and perhaps in other European, markets as well, especially if the Russians can manage to export some high-grade wheat."

American cotton growers last year voted for a lower support price and increased acreage in an effort to regain lost ground in the international market. As a result this year's cotton acreage is up 28 per cent and a much larger crop will be marketed. The American market is expected to absorb a part of this increase and the lower export prices are expected to bring greatly increased sales in world markets.

We have our own price support program to thank for the fact that production of wheat and cotton, and some other farm products, have been so greatly increased in other countries. In maintaining fixed prices for these commodities we automatically maintained a high price for them in world markets that encouraged increased production.

The foreign cotton grower shared with our cotton growers the benefit of higher prices but without the curtailment of acreage we imposed upon ourselves. As we planted less cotton they planted more. The millions of bales our government bought and put into storage, at the expense of our taxpayers, added greatly to the value of the cotton grown abroad.

It was recognition of this fact that induced our cotton growers last year to ask for lower support prices and increased acreage. The alternative was to lose the world market completely.

And that, basically, is the problem all American industry is confronted with today. We can isolate ourselves by barriers that will enable us to keep out the lower cost goods produced by the rest of the world. The alternative is to encourage commerce with the rest of the world, exchanging our products for theirs. To hold our own in such commerce we must remain competitive.

By isolation we would eventually destroy ourselves. By commerce we will continue to grow and continue to contribute to higher living standards throughout the world.

Uneconomic Farms

Canada too, has a farm problem and there, as here, there are many conflicting ideas about what should be done. A recent study by a Senate Land Use Committee called attention to the uneconomic farms and the large contribution they make to the overall probem. The following editorial comment by the Winnipeg Tribune calls attention to some aspects of this problem, and the conclusions could very well apply to our difficulties south of the border.

> The Senate Land Use Committee has rendered a valuable service in calling attention to the nationwide problem of uneconomic farms.
> According to the report tabled Thursday, the problem is common to every economic region of Canada but it is most severe on the Prairies where an estimated 43 per cent of the farms are too small to return an adequate living to the operator.
> Of course, the problem varies from region to region. It will require different remedies on the wheat lands of Saskatchewan than those which may be useful in southern Ontario or the Maritimes.
> The specific remedies proposed—research, greater extension service, more vocational and technical training in rural areas, and consideration of resettlement assistance—are all good in themselves. If the problem could be tackled in isolation, these would probably be the solution.
> But the uneconomic farm situation is inextricably intertwined with the problem of the agricultural economy as a whole.
> Every system of deficiency payments, parity prices or other aid to agriculture runs into the fact that the level of support needed by the uneconomic units leaves a lot of gravy for the economic units as well as reducing the incentive for the submarginal farms to be shifted to more economic use.
> It is of greatest importance that these general farm assistance programs be framed so they will not undo the work of the researchers and economists who are trying to solve the submarginal farm problem.

Our Best Exhibition

It is estimated that 200 East Germans are making their way each day into West Germany. Normally this would create quite a refugee problem but apparently West Germany has been able to absorb them. At any rate, recent reports indicate that there are more jobs in West Germany than there are workers.

West Germany, seriously depopulated by the war, needed manpower for its reconstruction program, and 12 million refugees from the east have been an important factor in the rebuilding of the economy. A large number of these refugees were skilled workers and no doubt their migration has been a loss to the areas from which they escaped.

It is not difficult to understand why Khrushchev is so anxious to gain control of West Berlin, an island exhibition of Western progress that no doubt creates much dissatisfaction behind the iron curtain.

Changing Measures

(Ottawa Citizen)

Acceptance by Britain and the United States of a common standard for the inch and pound is a step forward.

The advantages to commerce and science are obvious. A thousand yards of cloth in one country will mean exactly the same in the other; so will a thousand tons of coal, or steel.

The difference now is minute. But where precise measurements are needed, either for weight or distance, a nuisance is created.

Canada has played a leading role as mediator in arranging the agreement, with scientists at the National Research Council taking an important part. Now that an accord has been reached on the inch and pound, they feel a further step should be taken.

The countries still using these units of measurement—and bushels, quarts and other unrelated units of measure—should adopt the metric system. But the metric system itself should be standardized throughout the world, with the basic measure based on light waves.

The reform would, indeed, be desirable. The metric system, whether for weights or distances, is based on decimals; it makes calculation easier and more exact.

If it were standardized throughout the world, science and commerce would benefit. Scientists checking one another's calculations would no longer have to translate figures into the type of measurement used in their own country; trading corporations would also gain.

Canada is in a good position to plead for this change with the two great non-metric countries—Britain and the U.S. The Canadian government would be performing an important service if it tried to obtain an agreement on the metric system.

Things had been extremely quiet around the police station for quite a while, and the desk sergeant was worried. "I don't know what to think," he exclaimed one morning. "Here's a whole week gone by and no robberies, no murders, no drunks — not even a traffic arrest. If something doesn't happen pretty soo, they'll be laying us off."

"Don't worry about a thing, Sarge," replied a patrolman, "Something's bound to happen soon. I've still got a lot of faith in human nature."

Your Office in Washington

by Congressman
ODIN LANGEN

Obscenity in Mail

Obscene pictures, stories and movies are now being solicited and sold through the U.S. mails by racketeers operating a half-billion-dollar-a-year business. This year 700,000 to 1,000,000 minor children, a great many of whom have indicated no interest in the material, will be solicited by these racketeers to purchase some of this filth.

Because of these deplorable facts, I joined with a group of other congressmen in a trip to the Post Office department for the purpose of discussing the problem with Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield. He stressed many points at this meeting. First, because the American taxpayer is paying for the post office department, he is an unwilling partner in this racket. Secondly, because of this, the federal government has a responsibility to the taxpayer to control the traffic of obscene materials through the mails. Third, that although a law enacted by the congress last year permits prosecution of the "filth businessmen" either at the point where they mail the material or at the point where it is received, the postal service must honor the privacy of first-class mail. And fourth, therefore, the key person in defending our children from this abuse is very often, of necessity, their parents.

What can you as a parent do? If material is received in your home which is obscene or solicits the sale of obscene materials you can (1) Save all the material, including the covering envelope; and (2) Put it promptly in the hands of the local postmaster either personally or by mail, so prosecution can be started. By doing these two things, and by doing your part in keeping your community alerted to this problem, you will be safe-guarding the welfare of your children.

"Do-It-Yourself Peace"

The snail's-pace activity on the Floor of the House recently, caused by the necessity of ironing our final compromises of Senate and House bills an by the difficulty which some committees are having in reaching agreement on bills to be reported has given me at least one thing to be thankful for. Last Friday I was pleased to have the time to visit with six foreign exchange students who had spent the past year in our Ninth District and who were visiting the Nation's capitol prior to returning to their homelands. The six and their "two homes" were Elke Uhl, (Germany—Pelican Rapids), Akiko Sudo, (Japan; Lebanon—Fergus Falls), Anne Stendahl, (Sweden—Moorhead), Maryse Palles, (France—Detroit Lakes), Gisela Meissner, (Germany — Barnesville), and Mary Demetrellou, (Greece—Thief River Falls). It was indeed a privilege and enlightening to speak with these girls about their impressions of America, its education and customs. Very accurately, one member of Congress described the program under which these students study and live in our country for a year as a "Do-It-Yourself Peace Kit."

HERE'S TO YOU
Brewer's Coffee
Here is a delicious, exotic summer drink. It is easily prepared, and will pique the taste buds of your guests. Prepare coffee as you usually do, brewed drip or vacuum method or instant —but use beer in place of water. Use sugar if you like, and serve hot or iced in old-fashioned glasses with whipped cream.
Corny—But True
Originally corn meant a small, hard particle of grain, salt, or gunpowder. What we call corn is really Indian corn or maize. It is of American origin. Columbus introduced it to Europe, and within two generations it spread all over the Continent and Asia. The brewing industry buys about one BILLION POUNDS of corn each year, adding hundreds of thousands of dollars to farm income and buying power.
Early State Brewers
Rising tall above St. Paul's West End is the smokestack landmark of another Minnesota brewing firm that has grown with the Great Northwest and has been in business for over a century. Originally the North Star Brewery in 1855, it became the Jacob Schmidt Brewing Co. in 1901. Two other names, famous in early Minnesota history, Adolph and Otto Bremer, guided the firm into the 20th century. Today the firm is known as the Pfeiffer-Schmidt Brewing Co., and Schmidt and North Star Beer are still being produced.

No wonder more people are buying Chevrolets in '59 than any other car

most miles per gallon
ONE OF THE 7 BIG BESTS CHEVROLET GIVES YOU OVER ANY CAR IN ITS FIELD

Take it, not from us, but from official results of this year's Mobilgas Economy Run: Chevy's pennypinching 6 delivers the most miles per gallon in its field. For a pair of these Chevrolet sixes with Powerglide walked away with the first two places in their class, getting the best mpg figure—a whopping 22.38—of any full-size car. And here are more expert, impartial opinions and on-the-record facts backing us up on Chevy's other six bests:

BEST TRADE-IN
Check the figures in any N.A.D.A.* Guide Book. Chevrolet used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

BEST STYLE
It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "Chevrolet establishes a new high in daring styling."

BEST BRAKES
In direct competitive tests of repeated stops from highway speeds, conducted by NASCAR†, Chevrolet out-stopped both of the other leading low-priced cars—and why not: Chevy brakes are far larger, built with bonded linings, to help lengthen brake life by as much as 66%.

BEST ROOM
Official dimensions reported to A.M.A.‡ make this clear. For example, Chevy front seat hip room is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

BEST ENGINE
Every motor magazine has given Chevrolet's standard and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: "Indeed this device is surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

BEST RIDE
MOTOR TREND magazine calls Chevy ". . . the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." You'll be able to tell this yourself, instantly. And your Chevrolet dealer can tell you about a long list of other advantages besides these 7 big ones!

Photos Available to Next of Kin of Vets' Graves Overseas

Rep. Odin Langen was informed Wednesday by the American Battle Monuments commission that it is making arrangements whereby next of kin may have a picture of the cemetery concerned and an insert picture of the grave of every serviceman and servicewoman interred in one of our cemetery-memorials abroad.

The commission told Langen that these pictures consist of a black and white close-up of the gravesite and headstone, or name inscription in the case of those listed as missing, mounted in the corner of a colored photograph of the appropriate cemetery and memorial.

Requests are now being processed, according to the commission, for photographs of the Cambridge, Normandy, Brittany, Rhone, Epinal, North Africa, Netherlands, and Sicily-Rome cemetery-memorials, with delivery about 45 to 60 days after receipt of the next of kin's request. Photographs scheduled for late 1959 or 1960 availability will be of the Manila, Ardennes, Lorraine, Luxembourg, Henri-Chapelle and Florence cemetery-memorials with requests being welcomed at this time.

Next of kin may address their requests to Congressman Odin Langen, 1120 New House Office Building, Washington 25, D.C., or directly to the American Battle Monuments Commission, Washington 25, D.C. These requests should consist of the decedent's name and service number, (if known), and the name, relationship, and mailing address of the next of kin making the request.

Farm People More Prone to Mishaps

Report Made on Recent Minnesota 'U' Survey

There's no getting around the fact that farming is more dangerous than many other ways of life.

A recent University of Minnesota survey showed that almost a fourth of all farm families interviewed had an accident during the previous year.

By comparison, only an eighth of the nonfarm families reported mishaps.

George Donohue, extension rural sociologist, and Glenn Prickett, extension farm safety specialist, point to results of the survey as a reminder for National Farm Safety Week, July 19-25. The study was in one southern Minnesota county, and clearly shows a need for more attention to hazards and ways to avoid them.

About a third of all accidents involved the husband, and another third the son. Wives were victims in only one-fourteenth of the cases.

More than a fifth of the accidents happened while the victim was driving, and about the same proportion occurred during playing. Chores, housework and yardwork were each involved in less than 10 per cent of the accidents. Field work accounted for about 15 per cent of the mishaps.

Most accidents happened to persons between 15 and 30 years old. But some mishaps occurred in all age groups. Regardless of age, chances were always at least once in 20 of having an accident.

200 Thief Lake Ducks at Glenwood

Game Biologists Hope to Set up New Colony

English gamekeepers are renown for their ability to provide good hunting, and Minnesota game officials report taking a lesson out of their book of management techniques.

In an effort to establish a resident mallard population in Pope county, state biologist Robert Benson seized upon an idea described by Lord Percy.

Two hundred female mallards, trapped at Thief lake, were held over winter at the Carlos Avery Game farm. Their wings were clipped and the birds fed a high protein diet. In April they were moved to an area prepared for them near Glenwod. Stumps of the clipped wings were pulled in a manner described by 'his lordship' so that the ducks would regain power of flight approximately three weeks later.

When the mallards could fly, Benson hoped the nesting urge would exceed any urge to travel, and the birds would remain in the area. This method of handling ducks and causing them to nest in "planted" areas was first used in England a number of years ago.

The birds have been marked so that their dispersal and movements may be followed.

N.W. School Seeking to Develop New Wheat

Wheat from the plains of eastern Africa is playing a major role in development of a new spring bread wheat variety for Minnesota.

University of Minnesota scientists are combining disease resistance of wheats from Kenya with the yielding ability and milling quality of Lee and Thatcher, two famous midwestern varieties developed earlier at the University.

The new variety isn't here yet, visitors to the Northwest Experiment station's annual Field Day at Crookston were advised Tuesday morning. But plant breeder Donald W. Sunderman and station agronomist Olaf Soine said work on it is progressing well.

The goal, according to Sunderman and Soine, is a variety that will resist the dreaded race 15B of stem rust and other races of both stem and leaf rust, yield well and have good milling and baking quality.

None of the wheats used in the breeding of a new variety are good enough by themselves. Lee was devastated by stem rust in 1953 and 1954, when many a wheat farmer suffered heavy losses as a result. Besides, Lee and Thatcher, although they yield well and are fine for breadmaking, are both susceptible to leaf rust. This disease is not so much of a problem now, but is a potential menace for the future.

The Kenya wheats resist 15B and some of the newer strains of leaf rust, but don't have good milling and baking quality and don't yield well. So the idea now is to combine the desirable characteristics of all these wheats into one new and better variety.

Since the heavy stem rust attack, Selkirk, a Canadian variety, has become so common that it now accounts for some 90 per cent of the bread wheat acreage. While it has fairly good resistance to stem and leaf rust, Sunderman explained, the milling and baking industries would still prefer a variety with better quality.

Work on the new variety is being done by Elmer R. Ausemus and Sunderman, U.S. Department of Agriculture agronomists, in cooperation with other University scientists. Soine and R. E. Youngquist, Crookston station superintendent, aid in the program by testing new selections as they are developed.

Sunderman said it would be at least two years before the new variety is ready to be released. But preliminary tests indicate that it will meet quality standards and should equal Selkirk and Lee in yield.

Another agronomist, Laddie Elling, told Field Day visitors that forage crops in northern Minnesota survived last winter better than they did in counties farther south. The reason, he said, was better snow cover in the north.

Wildlife Exhibit Set for State Fair

Conservation Dept. Is Planning Annual Show

Considered one of the top attractions at the state fair is the wild animal and fish display of the Minnesota game and fish division. Hundreds of thousands of people file through the Conservation building to admire the examples of Minnesota's wildlife. For many youngsters it is a "first" as they excitedly ask questions about bears, bobcats and the fish that are "bigger than the ones Daddy catches."

With the 1959 fair getting closer some feverish behind the scene activities are underway. At the Carlos Avery Game Farm, Manager Alvin Johnson is readying the array of wild animals for the trip to the fairgrounds. This means giving each animal a good grooming, a final check on its physical condition, and getting the transfer cages in shape.

Meanwhile, Assistant Game Supervisor Donald Ledin, has put out a call to the division's field man to be on the lookout for certain needed species. Soon the game farm will be receiving new tenants like striped gophers, herring gulls, woodchucks and weasels.

Equally busy is Albin Anderson, fisheries supervisor, as he readies his finny charges for the big display tanks in the Conservation building. Always looking for better specimens, Anderson works closely with fisheries headquarters around the state. With the aid of nets and traps, all the species are gathered and the bigger, better looking specimens sorted out.

AT FAIR The Williams Bros., recently arrived from Denmark, will present a comedy act with pantomime in front of the grandstand at the Pennington county fair next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings. The brothers are acclaimed as outstanding laugh producers.

Farm Safety Includes Highway Safety, Too

"Highway safety is an important part of farm safety," Harry A. Sieben, state highway safety director, said today commenting on the 1959 Farm Safety Week program. Thursday is "Safety on the Highway" day for the week which ends July 25.

"While traffic safety is a year-round activity, this week it is well to remind everyone of the dangers existing when slow moving farm equipment mixes with faster trucks and passenger cars," he said.

During the last two years, nearly 300 collisions between farm tractors and other motor vehicles have been reported to the Minnesota highway department. Of these, more than a third produced personal injuries to operators; while 17 deaths resulted in these and others when tractors ran off the roadways.

"Farm Safety Week comes at an opportune time to warn operators of self-propelled and towed farm equipment that dangers lie ahead of them," Sieben warned. "Most of the accidents and three out of four of the fatalities occur in the last months of the year.

"As dusk comes earlier in the fall, and more vehicles are on the highways moving products harvested on our farms, the exposure to possible accident is much greater. This simply means that greater care must be taken to avoid tragedy.'

Driver error was a major factor in tractor accidents, according to the reports received by the Minnesota department of highways. Improper signals and turns, failure to yield the right of way, wrong side of the road, failure to stop for signs were among the driver errors noted in official reports.

"These reports show that operating a tractor or other farm equipment on the highways is not different from driving a passenger car, except for the different skill involved," Sieben said. "Operators must obey the same regulations regarding right of way, traffic lanes, signs and signals, if they wish to remain safe."

Defective or improper lighting was found in nearly every evening or night time accident. Failure to have lamps visible to the rear or adequate reflective material allowed fast moving cars to overtake and collide with farm equipment.

"Farm Safety Week is a reminder that highway safety needs a 24-hour day, 365 days a year," Sieben said. "That is, if one wishes to Slow Down and Live."

Arrest 290 Game Law Violators

Game wardens made 290 arrests during June for violations of the game and fish laws, reports Arthur Emme, assistant chief warden.

Fishing infractions accounted for 151 arrests, while license violations accounted for 79 apprehensions. Illegal transportation of fish resulted in 34 being nabbed. Eleven persons were fined for transporting loaded or uncased firearms in a motor vehicle. The balance of arrests resulted from a variety of game and fish infractions.

Fines levied totalled $6,688.

the leap of FAITH

The paratrooper has faith in his "chute." The motorist has faith in his brakes. The shopper has faith in the brand-name she buys. All of us exercise our faith a hundred times a day.

Religious faith is like its every-day cousin. It is the same implicit reliance . . . the same daring confidence.

Religious faith comes when we seek it. But there is always the leap. Man has to step from his worldly floor into the spiritual space where God reveals his power and love. He must decide to believe what he cannot prove!

Like the leap of the paratrooper, the leap of faith begins months earlier in careful training.

The day a family starts to attend Church regularly . . . the training begins.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Only 140 V[illegible] Cast on W[illegible] Quotas Here

County Joins Other Areas in Supporting Marketing Quotas

Patrick W. Culkins, manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee office, stated today that results of the wheat referendum which was held in Pennington county Thursday, July 23, reveal that only 140 ballots were cast in the entire county.

Of these 140 votes, 128 voted in favor of allotments and marketing quotas, 2 votes were cast against, and 10 ballots were challenged by the referendum committee.

The county committee will meet on Tuesday, July 28, for the purpose of reviewing the results of the election and determining the status of the challenged ballots.

Culkins stated further that there are 244 eligible voters in the county, and the vote indicates that only 57.37% actually voted, whereas 71.74% of the eligible voters cast ballots in 1958.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson said Friday it is exceedingly regrettable that wheat farmers did not have a better choice in Thursday's wheat referendum.

They voted by a decisive margin to continue the present program under which huge surpluses have piled up.

"This means," Benson said, "that many farmers will soon begin planting wheat under the thoroughly discredited program which has already cost several billion dollars and which has seen the building of costly, burdensome surpluses."

SIXTY YEARS The Silver Creek church congregation will celebrate the 60th anniversary of its organization with special services next Sunday, August 2, in the handsome edifice located three miles east and seven miles north of Thief River Falls. The present building was built in 1919, with C. W. Pope and Russell Olsen serving as contractors. The first service Sunday will be at 10:30 a.m., followed at noon by a dinner served by the ladies aid.

60th Anniversary of Silver Creek Church to Be Observed Aug. 2

The Silver Creek church congregation will celebrate the 60th anniversary of its organization with special services starting at 10:30 Sunday morning, August 2, in its spacious edifice located three miles east of Thief River Falls and seven miles north.

Several former pastors will speak, and the ladies of the church will serve dinner at noon.

Following its organization shortly before the turn of the century, the congregation held services in the homes of members until 1905, when Hans P. Pederson donated a one and one-half acre site for a church building, and in 1906 an edifice 20 by 21 feet in size was erected at a cost of $125.55.

Additions to the structure were built in 1916 by Bert Norby, local contractor, at a cost of $620, and in 1936 a basement was added. This building served until 1919, when the present large edifice was erected by C. W. Pope and Russell Olsen, contractors, with Pastor V. E. Sorenson and the building committee assisting with plans.

The following pastors have served the congregation during the years: Rev. H. Bjornson, 1898-1918; Rev. M. B. Ordal, 1918-27; Rev. L. M. Redal, 1928-36; Rev. T. C. Hanson, 1936-44; Rev. Urness, 1945-47; Rev. V. E. Sorenson, 1947-50; Rev. Raymond Brandt, 1950-54; and Rev. James Peterson, 1955-59. Rev. Jacobson of Halliday, N. D., recently accepted a call to serve the parish.

The Silver Creek congregation now numbers about 35 families.

At that time he was inducted by Peter Graves, long-time leader of Chippewa Indians on the reservation, as an honorary member of the tribe.

Soybean Plots on Silas Hanson Farm Await Inspection

Interested Farmers Are Invited to Examine Plots Four Miles East of City

Soybean plots on the Silas Hanson farm, four miles east of Thief River Falls along Highway No. 1 are now ready for observation. Farmers are invited to check these plots and to observe the different cultural practices involved in the trials says County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk. The plots are directly opposite the fertilizer trials also located four miles east of town.

The soybean plot was seeded on June 2 using the Flambeau bean variety. The plot was 18 and 36-inch spacing between bean rows. All of the bean plots were fertilized and different rates of cultivation were used. In the first plot, 24 feet, one rotary hoeing and one cultivation was applied. In the second plot the cultivations are the same and randox was applied for weed control. In the third plot one hoeing and two cultivations were used. The fourth plot is the same as the second with randox added. The last two plots were duplicates of the third.

All farmers are invited to view the soybean plots and the fertilizer plots. A meeting is being planned for August to view the results obtained. At that time half of the fertilizer plots will be harvested so farmers can see the results after harvest, and also see the half o fthe plots prior to harvest. More details on this meeting will be released later, Stelmaschuk stated.

Carl Peterson left Saturday morning for Alexandria where he will spend a week at Mount Carmel Bible Camp.

Harvesting of Barley Starts in Pennington

High Temperatures Hasten Ripening of Grain in This Area

The warmest temperature recorded in July was posted Sunday, July 26, when a humid 89 drove area residents into the shade of their trees, to the river for a swim or to picnic areas where they could find some relief from the sticky weather.

The dry weather of the past few weeks has ripened grains and the barley harvest has already started on ridges in the western part of Pennington county, and is expected to be general within a few days.

The coolest daytime temperature during this period was the 70 last Thursday and night time temperatures, which were in the 50's late last week moved up to the middle 60's over the weekend.

Fair to partly cloudy with a few scattered thunder showers have been predicted by the KTRF weather station. Continued warm is expected today and tonight but cooler temperatures are predicted for tomorrow.

Auto Backs into River Here Sunday

The 1955 sedan owned by Donald M. Olson, city, had a cooling bath Sunday afternoon, July 26, when it backed down the north ramp in the boat park into the Red Lake river.

Olson, who was launching a boat from a trailer at 1:30 p.m., set the emergency brake on his car and opened the door to use the trailer winch. As he left the car, his knee unlocked the brake handle and the car started to back into the water. He was able to set the brake again but the tires slipped on the ramp boards and Olson and his car went into the water.

The driver was able to get out of the car with only a good dunking but a wrecker was necessary to remove his submerged vehicle from the river.

Bemidji Resident Drowned Sunday

Joseph Burnham, 26, Loses Life in Lake Bemidji

The 1959 Minnesota drowning toll, already shockingly high, got another boost over the weekend with the drowning of a Bemidji man and a North Dakota youth.

Joseph Burnham, about 26, Bemidji, drowned about 3:26 Sunday when he and another man, Maurice Beighley, also of Bemidji, were thrown from their boat as they were towing Richard Mullin around Lake Bemidji on water skis.

Beighley and Mullin swam to shore but Burnham's body had to be recovered by divers, who found him in 15 feet of water about 50 yards offshore at 5:15 p.m.

The other drowning was that of Kenneth Otten, 16, of Jamestown, N. D., who drowned when the flat-bottomed boat in which he and three others were riding capsized in the rough waters of Lake L'Homme Dieu near Alexandria Sunday. Nearby boaters rescued the other three youths, Douglas county Sheriff Howard Urness said. Deputies were dragging the north shore of the lake late Sunday to recover the body.

Creameries Decline in Number Past Year, But Volume Holds up

Minnesota dairy processing plants have declined in number, but the volume of milk processed has continued to increase during the past year. Some establishments which were once creameries are now receiving plants. Small counter freezer operations have increased slightly, and Minnesota continues to retain its position as the leading butter manufacturing state.

"The industrial revolution in agriculture continues and the trend toward bigness is constantly making an impact on many Minnesota small towns and villages," said Byron G. Allen, state commissioner of agriculture, following an analysis of information gathered at the end of the deartment's fiscal year.

The total number of dairy plants operating in Minnesota as of June 30, 1959, was 686, down from 718 a year earlier. The milk processed in these plants increased in amount more than 14 per cent, from well under nine billion pounds to nearly 11 billion stated Comissioner Allen.

The number of butter manufacturing plants at present is 444 compared with 479 during the previous year, and they made only slightly less butter than the larger number manufactured the year before. Counties having the highest butter producion during the past year were Stearns, Olmsted, Otter Tail and Morrison in that order. During the previous year the same four counties were in the lead, but the ranking order at the time was Olmsted, Otter Tail, Stearns and Morrison.

Another comparison includes 157 Grade A milk bottling plants now, down from 166 a year ago. It should be taken into consideration that there are now 107 plants operating as receiving stations only and not as processing plants, compared with 91 on June 30, 1959. Presently there are 761 ice cream and frozen food plants licensed which is a notable increase over the 708 of a year earlier. These figures include drive-ins or other establishments which manufacture and sell ice milk as well as ice cream.

Plants manufacturing non-fat dry milk for human use total 83, the same as a year earlier. The state ranks second in this division, and manufactures better than 20 per cent of the nation's output. Minnesota has 26 plants which manufacture cheese, compared with 27 a year earlier. Some of these plants are of large capacity and enable the state to hold its place as the fifth largest producer of all types of cheese and the fourth largest producer of Americah cheese.

The trend among producers is toward the production and sale of whole milk rather than farm separated cream. In 1955 Minnesota dairy farmers sold 64 per cent of their production as whole milk and 36 per cent as cream. Present-day trends have changed this to 82 per cent whole milk sales and only 18 per cent cream sales.

Income from dairy products amounts to 21 per cent of the $1,330,000,000 cash receipts from annual farm marketings in Minnesota.

Two 4-place Planes Added to Fleet at T. R. Falls Airport

Helicopter Stationed at Airport Here Thru Next Wednesday, July 29

The number of planes based at the local airport was given a sizable boost last week, when two four-place ships were purchased by well-known local pilots.

Arthur "Manny" Forsberg, Jr., brought a Piper Stinson Station wagon from Pueblo, Colo. last Wednesday. The plane will be used in the Forsbergs' business and as a pleasure craft.

The newest and fastest plane on the airport these days is the Mooney Mk 20A purchased from Walters Flying Service, Fertile, by Martin Rantanen. Both Rantanen and Walters are Mooney dealers and the newly purchased plane will be used for demonstration purposes as well as for charter and rental.

Top speed of the sleek Mooney is near 200 m.p.h. and it cruises at 160 or better at 8000 ft. altitude.

A large number of people also got their first good look at a helicopter the past week-end, when Lt. Kenneth Miller of the national guard landed a "whirlybird" at the airport. Miller is a pilot assigned to the local guard company and often brings guard aircraft here in line of duty.

Miller said the 'copter, a Hiller H-23, will be here until Wednesday and that he will be flying it around the city from time to time until then.

Newfolden Youth Warns Soo Freight, Crew of 'Hot Box'

Son of Station Agent V. M. Merell, Newfolden, Wins Praise for Action

A 12-year-old boy, the son of Soo Line Station Agent V. M. Merell of Newfolden, possibly saved Soo Line freight No. 125 from a serious accident Saturday when he signalled the crew of a hot-box.

Saturday is normally the station agent's day off. However, as the northbound train of 95 cars passed the Newfolden Soo Line station young Merell was on the platform and trainmen in the caboose noted he was pinching his nose with one hand and holding the other up—the standard signal for hot-box.

The train was halted north of Newfolden and sure enough, a coal car near the middle of the train had a very hot box, one which would not have made many more miles before causing serious trouble.

When a hot-box is discovered the offending car is cut out before the train proceeds, which was the case Saturday. Local "rails" crewing No. 125 were loud in their praise of the Merell boy for helping them avert possible disaster.

Occupants of Two Boats Unhurt in Mishap Saturday

Boat Operated by John Solheim, 17, Collides with Another at Bridge

Two boats were damaged in a mishap which occurred about 3:45 p. m. Saturday, but occupants of the boats, which did not capsize, were not injured.

The mishap occurred when the 15 ft. boat driven by Dennis V. Klatt, 28, Duluth, was struck by another boat driven by John Solheim, 17, city. At the time, Sheriff Charles Richards said, both boats were passing under the Third st. bridge, each between different piers.

After going through the piers, Richards said, Solheim turned and struck the Klatt boat, causing an estimated $200 damage to the fiberglass hull and windshield. The Solheim boat sustained only an estimated $25 damages.

Neither driver was charged in the mishap, the first reported on the river this year. Each boat had two passengers in addition to the operators, none of whom were injured.

Dr. G. Sholy Heads Nat'l Foundation in Marshall Co.

Dr. G. I. Sholy, Warren superintendent of schools, was elected chairman of the Marshall County Chapter of the National Foundation to succeed Mrs. William Robertson of Argyle. The election was the main order of business at the annual meeting held at Argyle Tuesday night.

Mrs. Robertson reported that the county had raised 16¼ cents per capita or $2,622 for the 1959 March of Dimes which was much below the goal. Larry Rieder, field representative, spoke of the new and somewhat more difficult qualifying for National Foundation funds made necessary when the national drive also failed this year, raising only $30 million of a $65 million goal.

Curtis Cornelius, State Bank of Warren cashier, was elected treasurer of the organization to succeed Oliver Tollefson who has moved from Argyle.

Free Vision Tests Offered Drivers at Fair This Week

Pennington Co. Safety Council Offers Test by Drivers License Examiner

"Is your vision adequate to meet the minimum standards of the drivers license requirements?"

Visitors to the Pennington county fair July 27-30 will have the opportunity to have their eyes checked without obligation in a booth which is being sponsored by the Pennington county safety council. The booth, in the industrial building, will be manned each evening by two drivers license examiners.

A spokesman for the Safety council emphasized that the results of the visual screening are only for the information of those tested. No record will be kept and no names will be taken. The tests will be of benefit to everyone, especially those who may have visual deficiencies which may endanger their lives and property.

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

Where He Puts the Oats in the silo last summer, Carl Johnson, Mahtowa, now has better forage stands. And according to William Hueg, University of Minnesota extension agronomist, Johnson is mighty certain of that result; he purposely cut half the field as silage when the oats started to lodge. Now, he says, you can easily tell which half of the field had the oats removed early, because the legume stand is heavy and thrifty. Where the oats were harvested as grain, the alfalfa and red clover is sparse, short and spindly.

Need to plant some emergency crops on land where alfalfa stands or other crops have petered out? University of Minnesota agronomists say Acme, Norchief, Flambeau, Capital, Comet or Grant soybeans can be planted up to July 15 in southern counties and produce good forage. Sorghum varieties like Waconia, Rox orange or Black amber may be seeded up to August 1. Piper sudangrass and millet may be seeded that late, too. The county extension office has information on seeding rates.

Sometimes a crop rotation including a grass-legume mixture can help solve minor drainage problems. At least, it did for Gordon Nelson who farms in Big Stone county's Artichoke township. After seeding alfalfa-brome and leaving it for two years, Nelson says several troublesome wet areas have dried up. He figures that penetration of the alfalfa roots allowed the excess moisture to move down through the soil.

Maple Trees can sweeten the farm business in more than one way. For Carl Blom, Brook Park, they mean more income. According to Kanabec county agent Roland Skelton, the trees were doing Bloom no good up to last year. Then he bought an evaporator and converted an old potato warehouse into a small maple syrup factory. He made 125 gallons of syrup this spring and expects to double the output in coming years. "Those trees are going to be a real source of income," he feels.

GRANDMA SEES THE LIGHT

by John Evan Jones

GRACE BRADBURY glared at her husband. "How do you expect Grandma to lend us any money if you go to see her in your expensive new suit? Put on your old clothes and then maybe she'll feel sorry for us."

George frowned. "Isn't that like lying? After all you want the money for a trip to Europe, which isn't a necessity. And we never did give her back that last thousand we supposedly borrowed, which isn't honest either."

Grace sighed. "Look, I've said this a dozen times before. Grandma is going to leave us everything in her will; she has told us that much hasn't she?" George nodded. "All right. Then we're just getting a little on account."

"But I just don't feel right about it," George said unhappily.

Grace began to lose her thin supply of patience. "Then, dear George," she said sarcastically, "I suggest you try and make enough money so that we can get some pleasure out of life." George flushed deeply and began to put on his old suit.

Grandma lived in a neat little cottage at the edge of town with Susan Smith, twenty years her junior. Susan had been her companion for fifteen years. She had had few opportunities in life but had a lovable disposition.

Susan had just put another log into the open hearth fireplace when they heard a car pull up into the driveway. Susan peeked through the curtain and commented, "It's the George Bradburys."

Grandma sighed. "Bring me my check book." Susan started toward the desk. "Hold it," Grandma said suddenly. "By cracky, maybe I won't be such a soft touch this time. Let's hear what the sales pitch is before we buy."

"Hello, Grandma," Grace said sweetly. "You look wonderfully well."

"Poof," Grandma snorted. "You know," she said with a glint in her eye, "I believe you sounded a little disappointed."

"Grandma," Grace said finally, "George and I were wondering if you could help us out on a little project."

"How much?" Grandma said bluntly.

Grace was startled. "Well-I-er-we thought about $2,000."

"That's a lot of money. What for?"

"A trip to Europe. You see, almost all our friends are going this year and we feel that while we are young and can enjoy it we should go." Grace was working right into her sales pitch. She finally produced some travel folders and showed Grandma scenes of England, France and Germany. Grandma was very interested and Grace was congratulating herself.

When she ran down Grandma looked thoughtful. "It will take me about a week to raise $2,000 as I don't keep that much in a checking account. Why don't you come back next Saturday?"

Grace was delighted. "Of course, Grandma," she said heartily, "It will be lovely to come and see you again."

The following Saturday they arrived and were surprised to find Grandma's door ajar. They were even more surprised when they went in to see suitcases and clothes piled up all over the room. "Hello dears," Grandma greeted them. "I'll be leaving in the morning." "Leaving!" Grace stammered.

"Yup," Grandma said, grinning. "Those travel folders sure stirred me up. I've drawn the $2,000 and Susan and I will be catching the non-stop jet for London. She's been wonderful to me ever since she came here and I've wondered what I could do for her in return. I'm glad you gave me the idea."

Mack's CANDID COMMENT

BY V. M. DRAPER

The thought occurred that perhaps this week would be a good time to reinstate the old column . . . not that we couldn't find trouble enough elsewhere, but there hasn't been anything controversial published lately so perhaps we can liven things up a little.

It isn't intentional at all but it comes out that way.

Last spring it was the daylight saving time problem. Thank goodness, that has been resolved for some time to come. Yes, the folks with young children were right about DST — it upsets the family schedule something awful. That, of course, hits home as we have a 22-month-old boy.

But, we gained in one respect. Remember Betty from Goodridge, who suggested we use a certain chemical on our onion crop to eliminate worms? We did, and now we have the hottest crop of wormless onions in seven counties. The radishes weren't worth a hoot, though. Thanks ever so much, Betty!

As far as DST is concerned, we're more neutral than ever!

Norm Holen spoke about the absence of mosquitoes in the city much too soon. He should have been at our place Thursday evening — they chased yours truly indoors pretty early then, the worst we've seen them all year! Actually they haven't been bad up until then, even at the lake. Summer isn't over, however, so we may still have a plague of them. A couple of years ago hunters were swatting the pesky critters on the opening day of duck season. That's just too much to take!

Late July and early August seems to be a favorite vacation time with lots of folks. We had ours early, didn't go anywhere in particular. Even so, it was quite a memorable occasion. It was the first vacation we've had in all our umpteen years of marriage that we didn't have company or didn't go anywhere. It seemed quite strange, to put it mildly.

I must say we enjoyed our week immensely. Although I'd like to make the trip home every year because the folks are getting old, I can't afford to take a week off on my own time—and the trip entails six days of travel round-trip, leaving only a short seven or fewer days to spend there, as we always try to get back in time to get a few days rest before going back to work. As you can see, such a trip is quite a grind to make even in two weeks.

Is it any wonder I'm a nut about aviation?

Speaking of aviation, here's hoping Delmar Hagen's Flying Farmers' picnic at Gatzke was a success. Delmar is a credit to private flying, wish there were more like him. We need more because the big operators (military et al) would crowd the "little guy" right out of the air if they had their way.

Now is the time for all good guys to come to the aid of the fellow who owns and flies a light airplane. If the citizenry isn't aroused to the danger YOU may lose your privilege to own and fly your own ship—whether or not you do so now is beside the point because the time may come when you don't have such a choice. Think it over, and speak up!

Harvest Speeded in Area as Result of Late Hot Spell

There will be little change in the humidity.

The high today will be from 90 to 95 and the low tonight from 65 to 70.

The West Polk county area had its second hailstorm in 1½ weeks last Monday, July 20, when a storm called by many "the worst in the history of the area" left hailstones two inches deep on the ground.

The storm, which hit the area at about 4 p. m., stripped an area four miles wide and six to seven miles long just north of East Grand Forks. Accompanied by 80-mile-an-hour winds, the storm flattened grain, potato and beet crops just as farmers were getting ready to harvest what looked like a bumper crop. The earlier storm hit north and east of the July 20 disaster and also caused 100 per cent losses.

Only a small portion of west Polk county in the northern part and in the area along the river between East Grand Forks and Crookston remains with little damage, according to the report.

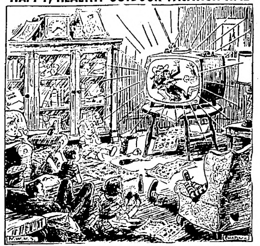
HAPPY, HEALTHY OUTDOOR VACATION TIME



Attendance and Receipts Hold up at Marshall Fair

Approximately 12,000 Persons Attended Event In Warren July 17-19

Marshall county's 53rd annual fair came to a close Sunday night of last week, hailed as another success with approximately 12,000 people in attendance during the three day run.

The 1959 fair compared quite favorably with the record fair of 1958 which was combined with the county's official Statehood Centennial observance, Ken Nelson, secretary, reported. Attendance and total receipts will be approximately 10 per cent less than a year ago, but still well over the average of recent years.

Receipts from fair operation, including gate and grandstand admissions, carnival, concessions and space rentals will total in the neighborhood of $10,000. Expenses of operation will be approximately on the same level as last year which should leave the fair's fiscal condition in good shape, the secretary stated.

There were 5,351 paid admissions to the grounds during the three days, in comparison to 6,490 last year while there were 1,692 parked cars in 1959 comparison to 2,151 a year ago. All children under 12, as well as all 4-H club exhibitors, club leaders, other workers and officials, county ministers, performers, etc., are given free admission to the grounds for services rendered.

Parley on Indians Slated in Bemidji

Governor's Conference to Be Held Sept. 11-12

The third Governor's Conference on Indian Affairs will be held at Bemidji State College Sept. 11-12, Gov. Freeman announced last week.

Gov. Freeman said he expects participation by state legislators, government officials and Indian leaders, state, county and municipal officials, and leaders in labor, industry, agriculture, recreation, religion, commerce and education.

The Conference is scheduled from 9:00 a. m. on Friday to Saturday noon.

"We have been able to make considerable progress toward improving the welfare of our Indian citizens in this state. Serious problems, however, still exist—some inherited from conditions that prevailed in the past, while others are new problems arising out of changing economic conditions and from recent and contemplated legislation," said Gov. Freeman in announcing the conference.

The afternoon program will feature a lie detector demonstration by the University of Minnesota.

President of the association is Richard Gaynor of the Fargo police department.

TRF Car Catches Fire in Warren

A car driven by Clarence Gustafson was probably saved from destruction by two Warren men last Monday when a blaze developed under the hood of the car in Warren. Gustafson was trying unsuccessfully to put out the gas-fed flames, the Warren Sheaf reports, when County Attorney Warren Saetre heard the cry of "Fire" and rushed to the scene with a blanket, which he threw over the flames, which were nearly extinguished when Fireman Andy Anderson arrived with fire extinguishers to finish the job.

Book Memories

Every adult has at least one and usually many favorite books which he remembers and associates with childhood. These titles may range from our best literature as exhibited by The Children's Bible Stories, Dickens, Alcott, Wilder, to those of somewhat poorer quality, which nevertheless retain an important place in our memory. As you may have noticed these titles are of our generation or that of our grandparents.

Today our children thrill to a few of the ageless favorites as well as Dr. Seuss, Kraus, Bemelmans and countless others. Are these names unfamiliar to you or can you smile in recognition, remembrance, and appreciation? If you can't you may be denying your child or children a very precious memory. Almost anything today can be bought or replaced if we need it, but memories are more fragile and illusive. They can only be received and kept through experience.

Just what do you remember? Can you associate a quotation, a half forgotten line, plot or character; do titles and names delight and warm you? You and your child will not want to miss this intimate association and creative experience. Reading together a few minutes each day, sharing experiences with each other result in feelings of pleasant association which can't be destroyed or totally forgotten after they have once been shared.

Adults without memories of childhood reading can only with difficulty substitute similar associations. Reading together can yield large dividends with but a minimal investment of time and energy. No parents will want to neglect so satisfying and enriching an opportunity.

Summer Mulches

A mulch can make gardening easier. One reason is that a good mulch will control weeds by smothering them and so cut down on the need for hoeing and cultivating. Often the roots of the plants we are growing are cut off in the process of cultivation and the plants suffer from lack of moisture. Blossom-end rot of tomatoes may not be as troublesome when the weeds are controlled by mulching instead of cultivating.

A mulch will also act as a sponge and conserve moisture for the surrounding plants. A uniform supply of moisture by mulching tomato plants will also help in preventing blossom-end rot.

Many rots of fruits and vegetables may be caused by their contact with the soil. Mulches keep the fruits and edible parts of vegetables off the ground, free of grit and dirt.

Under a mulch the soil temperature is cooler—a condition especially desirable for roses, pansies and delphinium.

Some good mulching materials are ground corncobs, sphagnum moss, finely chopped straw, sawdust, wood shavings and grass clippings. Apply the mulch to a depth of two or three inches around the plants and between the rows in mid July, preferably after a heavy rain.

Sometimes you may notice a yellowing of foliage with the use of a mulch. This yellowing indicates a nitrogen competition which can be corrected by adding a little ammonium nitrate.

HAZEL . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Vincent, Becca and Mary Lou of Hibbing and Oscar Sealand of Thief River Falls visited Friday evening at the Carl Alberg home. The Vincents and Mrs. Alberg also called at the Pete Nelson and Norman Nelson homes.

Thieves Trim Eldred Sunday by 9-4 Score

In a sun-baked Northern Minny league game played at Eldred on Sunday afternoon the Thieves, racking up six runs in the second inning, and driving Eldred's starting pitcher, lefty Tom Fenno, off the mound, defeated Eldred, 9 to 4, to continue in a strong position for the league championship.

The league-leading Cass Lake team scored a 2 to 1 win over the Erskine Merchants at Cass Lake on Sunday and hold a one-game lead over Bagley and Thief River Falls, who share the runner-up spot. Cass Lake will bring their league lead to Thief River Falls next Sunday for an afternoon game on the Fair grounds diamond.

Sunday's game with Eldred found manager John Drury's club piling up a commanding lead early in the contest. In the second inning, Frank Gunderman led off with a single, Gene Leslie and Charley Kankel were issued walks, loading the bases; Dennis Bakke bounced to shortstop, and Gunderman was erased at the plate. Arlan Hjelle stroked a double into left-center, scoring three runs. Rod Max grounded out, short to first; Marv Mansfield, Jack Junker, and Glenn Carlson all singled, with two runs scoring. A passed ball allowed Junker to come in with the Thieves' sixth run. Gunderman, up for the second time in the inning, was given a walk, and that brought the end of Tom Fenno's hurling chore. Righthander Curt Hannah came in from third base and he retired Leslie on a fly ball to left field.

The Thieves picked up a run in the third inning on a single by Bakke, an infield out, and an error. And in the fifth inning, a single by Leslie, a walk to Kankel, a single by Bakke, and an Eldred error, plated the Thieves' final runs.

Eldred entered the scoring column in the second inning when John Kraft, who poled out three hits in four tries, singled, stole second and scored on Fenno's solid smash to center field. In the fourth inning, Eldred mounted a three-hit attack, with Russ Sylvester, Kraft, and George Taus getting safeties. Taus' double scored the two runs that Eldred tallied in the inning.

In the ninth inning, with righthander Harley Drees pitching for the Thieves (he had taken over the pitching duties in the fifth inning) a hit batsman, a walk, and a throwing error gave Eldred their final score.

Schedule, Thursday, July 30
Wilson Bros. vs. Disse's Optimists
Starekow Clinic vs. Oen's Appliance
Northern Chevrolet vs. Coast-to-Coast
The Pharmacy vs. Times

With but two weeks of league shooting remaining on the schedule, the Thief River Trap shoot league has developed into a three-team race for the championship. The Coast-to-Coast and the Northern Chevrolet squads are tied for first place in the league standings, having seventeen points apiece. The defending champion Times trail the leaders by one point, having sixteen points.

The league lead will be at stake next Thursday evening when Don Olson's Coast-to-Coast squad meets the Northern Chevrolet. The Times will be facing the ever-dangerous Pharmacy squad.

In last Thursday's matches, only five shooters were able to mark up "23's". The gusty northwest wind that swept the range caused the "birds" to behave erratically, and the results were that the high-average guns were posting low totals. The five gunners posting "23's" were Erling Torgerson of the Northern Chevrolet, a 21-4; Stan Ranum of the Pharmacy, a 22-3; Fred Mittelstadt, with a 19-8, and George Hale, with an 18-0, both of the Coast-to-Coast; and Bob Baker of the Disse squad, a 19-8.

Polk Co. Sheriff Carl Knutson Has Resigned Office

Carl Knutson, 65, Polk County sheriff, Thursday presented his resignation to the county board of commissioners.

Knutson said the resignation is effective Aug. 31 and that he is resigning to "pursue other occupations." He said he planned to remain in the county for some time, at least, looking after his farming interests near Fertile.

At the effective date of the resignation Knutson will have served eight months of his second term as sheriff.

BEATS BEMIDJI Righthander Arlan Hjelle pitched and batted the local junior team to a 1 to 0 win over the Bemidji Juniors in a baseball game played here Friday night. Hjelle, who gave up but one hit, that a single through the mound by Reggie Lawrence in the second inning, struck out thirteen batsmen. Hjelle drove in the games' only run when his ground single into right field scored Paul Klungness from second base in the third inning.

Bemidji Jrs. Get One Hit off Hjelle, Bow to Locals 1-0

Local Pitcher Strikes out 13 Batsmen and Bats in Game's Winning Run

Coach Ralph Skay's American Legion Junior team, in a splendid exhibition of baseball played on the Fair Grounds diamond Friday night, defeated the Bemidji Juniors, 1 to 0.

Arlan Hjelle, the local stellar righthander, gave up but one hit, struck out thirteen batsmen, and batted in the game's lone run as the local juniors avenged an earlier defeat at the hands of the Bemidji juniors.

The local club marked up their game-winning tally in the third inning when, with one out, Paul Klungness doubled down the right-field foul line. Jim Wegge lifted a pop fly to catcher Dean Fossand, for the second out. Hjelle lined one of southpaw Russ Anderson's slants for a ground single into right field, and Klungness beat the throw in to the plate for the game's lone score.

The locals slapped out seven hits during the game, and they were unfortunate in not adding to their run total. In the fourth inning, Jerry Larson poled out what appeared to be a three-bagger to right-center, but the runner was called out for not touching first base. Eddie Lietzow followed with a single into left field, which would have scored Larson. In the fifth inning, Gary Klungness beat out a bunt to open the frame. Younger brother Paul Klungness drove a ground single into right field, and Jeff Venasse, playing very shallow, fielded the ball quickly and erased Gary on a throw to third base.

Local Man Shares in Bowling Alley Setup at Fosston

New brick and tile building being built in Fosston to house a bowling alley setup, which is scheduled to start operations about October 15, the Fosston paper reported Thursday. The structure is being built by Lyle Rone of Thief River Falls and Harris Broin of the Fosston community, in cooperation with the Fosston Development association.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Respect and Admiration

That gritty group of Warren American Legion junior baseball boys gained our respect and admiration by their performances at the sub sub-district tournament played at Crookston Thursday.

First, they lost the services of their coach, Ray Burwell, because of illness; and second, their top-ranked pitcher decided to forego the tournament in favor of a fishing trip. But these mishaps didn't prevent the boys, and there were just nine of them, from playing in the tournament, and playing creditably, too.

Duane Yeado assumed the responsibility of playing-coach in the absence of adult supervision, and he led the Warren team to a 11 to 1 win over Newfolden in a first round game. Yeado, who is a fine all-round athlete, pitched that game.

In a second round game, played late Thursday afternoon and against a well-rested Thief River Falls club, the Warren nine lost by a 16 to 2 score. The combination of sharp fielding by the Thief River Falls club, turning in a vital double play with the bases loaded that snuffed out a Warren rally, and the lack of capable pitching proved the undoing of the Warren team.

But we respect those boys greatly for the manner in which they played the game against the heavy odds imposed on them.

Up For Grabs

As the saying goes, the championship of the trap shoot league, for the 1959 season, is "up for grabs," with three teams being in contention.

But two weeks of competition remain on the schedule, and the league standings couldn't be closer. Don Olson's Coast-to-Coast team and Roy Jorgenson's Northern Chevrolet, with Frank Rinkel supervising the strategy, are tied for first place with seventeen points apiece. And the defending champion Times are in the runner-up spot, having sixteen points.

Dr. Jim Disse's fourth place squad has a mathematical chance of tying for the league championship but this tie can only occur if the Northern Chevrolet and the Coast-to-Coast deadlock their crucial match of next week and then lose their matches of the following week while Disse's squad is winning its two remaining matches. The Times, too, must drop its two league matches. So it's a far-fetched chance for Disse's young squad.

From the sidelines it appears that the Northern Chevrolet squad is the "hungriest" and will make the most serious bid to regain the championship they dropped last season. Last week, in their match against the Pharmacy, the Chevy's were trailing on the scoreboard until a hurry-up call was made to Henry Granum to make an appearance. Henry posted a 21, and his total enabled the Chevy's to defeat the Pharmacy, 116 to 112.

Why not drive out to the range on Thursday evening and watch the matches on the schedule?

That Was a Surprise

That Bob May, coach of the NCAA hockey championship titlists, the North Dakota Sioux, should resign his position there to accept the position of head coach of the Denver team in the newly-formed International hockey league, a professional circuit, was a surprise.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Denver group offered an attractive salary, considerably in excess of his North Dakota wage, and tendered a three-year contract, with the salary for that period being placed in escrow, we doubted that Bob would leave the confines of college hockey.

May, who has had remarkable success in climbing the hockey coaching ladder, moving up from Roosevelt high school in Minneapolis to the North Dakota Sioux and a national collegiate title in a few short years, will find that the professional brand of hockey is a "dog-eat-dog" affair. And unless the Denver club has a National hockey league affiliation, May will have difficulty in organizing a competent hockey club. Practically all of Canada's juvenile and junior hockey players are on the negotiation list of some big league club. These professional clubs are jealous of these lists, too.

Of course we all wish Bob May success in his new venture; and what is Denver's gain is North Dakota's loss.

U.S. Orders Cut on Long Distance Interstate Calls

The Federal Communications Commission Friday ordered charges on interstate long distance telephone calls cut by about 50 million dollars a year.

The order to American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and its affiliates brought a statement from ATT&T President Frederick R. Kappel that his company was being penalized for "good research and good management."

Kappel asserted the rate cut would not be in the best interest of the public because ATT&T needs "to spend millions to make the quality of our service still better."

TRF Legion Juniors Enter Subdistrict

As a result of victories in the sub sub-district tournament played at Crookston Thursday, East Grand Forks and Thief River Falls gained berths in the American Legion's junior baseball sub-district tournament to be played at Warren on Wednesday and Friday. Coach Ralph Skay's locals will meet the winner of the Lake Bronson bracket in a first round game at 8:00 P.M.; while East Grand Forks will move into action at 6:00 P.M. Both games being played on Wednesday. The sub-district finals will be played at 8:30 P.M. on Friday.

In sub sub-district play at Crookston, Warren, by an 11 to 1 score, defeated the Newfolden Juniors on Thursday morning. The East Grand Forks juniors produced an upset by eliminating the top-rated Crookston juniors, winning by a 4 to 3 score in an afternoon.

Coach Skay's squad, with an exhibition of heavy hitting, defeated Warren, 16 to 2, in a five-inning game. Leading the locals' attack on the three Warren pitchers were Arlan Hjelle, who poled out an in-side-the-park home run; Mike McEnelly, who clubbed out a pair of triples & a double; and Gary Anderson and Eddie Lietzow, who banged out three hits apiece in three trips to the plate. Anderson drove in four runs as righthander Jack Goulet posted a well-earned triumph.

Expert Says Rails Are Being Taxed to Death

If roads, airways and canals are freed from taxation as precious national assets, why not exempt the railroads, too?

David I. Mackie, chairman of the Eastern Railroad Presidents Conference, raises the question in the August Reader's Digest.

"Somebody will have to start talking in these stark terms soon," he writes, "for this tax shakedown is inflicting such deep financial wounds that the railroads' very existence is threatened."

Mr. Mackie points out that the railroads' state and local tax bill for 1958 was a whopping 400 million dollars, while the rails' fastest-growing competitors benefit from the government-subsidized facilities that railroad taxes help support.

Railroads pay huge taxes because they are the largest industrial owners of real estate in the United States. Their tracks take them into 96 percent of our 3067 counties. "Whacking the railroads hard" is well established tax practice throughout the country, Mr. Mackie writes. "In New Jersey, the Pennsylvania Railroad paid $5,800,000 in taxes last year while earning only $700,000." When a railroad serving Jersey City sold 33 acres assessed at $621,296, it could get only $19,472 for the parcel.

"One of the odd results of the multiplicity and overlapping of tax jurisdictions is that the railroad industry contributes more tax money directly to education that does any other private institution," Mr. Mackie discloses.

Railroads pay the full costs of building, maintaining and administering their rights of way, while airlines and water carriers pay nothing towards them. According to Mr. Mackie, the railroads pay about 9 million dollars in taxes on their New York City passenger facilities, some of which goes to support the city's two giant airports.

Sale of Watered Milk Is Charged to Seven in State

Commissioner Byron Alen Says Practice Is Easily Detected

The recent court action of the state department of agriculture, dairy and food against a Wadena county farmer for selling watered milk brought to light the fact that seven different prosecutions for this violation have been instituted in Minnesota during 1959.

"While the sale of milk to which water had been added was a fairly common violation early in the century, it seems almost incredible that dairymen are still willing to take a chance by deliberately adulterating milk with added water," stated Agriculture Commissioner Byron G. Allen today.

Modern laboratory methods make it possible to determine if any water whatever has been added to the milk.

During World War II there was a rash of watered milk violations against farmers who tried in that way to increase their volume. Apparently some are still willing to attempt evasion of the law and obtain bigger milk checks by this means.

Addition of water to milk is a violation of Section 32.21 of Minnesota Statutes, and usually brings a fine of $50 to $100, plus court costs. Department of Agriculture records show that the seven violations this year were for addition of water ranging from 18 percent to 52 percent in amount.

New Tax Laws Fail to Help Industry

State Taxpayers Group Criticizes Legislature

One of the most serious objections to the tax legislation finally agreed upon by the 1959 Legislature was its failure to do anything to improve the Minnesota tax climate for business and industry, according to Charles P. Stone, General Counsel for the Minnesota Taxpayers Association.

"Almost everyone agrees that Minnesota's burdensome and inequitable property taxes on farm and business inventories and productive machinery are a handicap to expanding Minnesota business and industry, and a drawback in attracting new industry," Stone said.

"Although both the administration and the Legislature were fully aware of the necessity of straightening out our tax structure to eliminate this handicap no such action was taken.

"Instead of granting tax relief to business and industry, new tax burdens were added. Increasing the corporate income tax rate from 7.3 per cent to 9.3 per cent will subject this job creating part of our economy to an additional $11,800,000 of taxes in the next two years.

"The only saving feature of this treatment of our corporate taxpayers is that it was preferable to the administration's proposal to raise approximately the same amount of new revenue by lowering the corporate income tax rate to 5 percent but at the same time denying our corporate taxpayers the privilege of deducting their federal income taxes paid in computing their state income taxes.

"The increase in the occupation tax rate from 13.65 percent to 14.25 per cent will have a further unsettling effect upon our iron ore industry. And the additional ½ of 1 per cent increase in individual income tax rates in each income bracket will have a very direct negative effect on attracting new industry into our state."

MINNESOTA DAIRY FARMERS are well represented at the colorful Seaway Dedication ceremonies in Duluth, Minn. Princess Kay of the Milky Way, their full-time ambassador of good-will, is shown some points of interest aboard the U. S. Destroyer Forrest Sherman by crew member Guy D. Nickerson of Weston, Mass. The Sherman is one of three warships which visited Duluth for the celebration. Dozens of Nickerson's shipmates line the railings of their ship and volunteer aid in showing Princess Kay, pretty Diane Schroeder of Rindal, their "home." As representative of Minnesota's largest single industry, Diane is keen in her interest in what the seaway will mean to the economy of Minnesota and the Northwest. "With 82 per cent of Minnesota's dairy production being consumed outside our state, you can bet our dairy farmers are interested in this new avenue of domestic and foreign trade," Princess Kay says.

Women Told to Share in Political Affairs

The club women of America represent a "sleeping giant—of gigantic scope and enormous political power," more than 500 delegates to the North Central Regional Business and Professional Women's Conference were told Friday at their meeting in the Radisson Hotel in Minneapolis.

Pointing out that there are three million more women voters than men, Mrs. Louise Bushnell of New York, program director of women's organizations, National Association of Manufacturers, declared:

"Through enlightened political education and action, the soft sleeping giant—or the millions of American club women—can indeed, if they wish, right wrongs and return our economy to a sensible sound level.

"Don't underestimate yourselves," Mrs. Bushnell said, "there is work to be done—and in the field of politics as in the field of business and the professions—your talents are sore needed. To you who are leaders, in politics you can come to grips with all that is challenging in human life."

In urging the businesswomen to use their leadership qualities in the areas of civic life and politics, Mrs. Bushnell quoted Charles Edson, former governor of New Jersey as saying:

"Some people put themselves above politics, saying 'politics is dirty', or 'I have no patience with politics.' In the name of all that's American, how can any good citizen feel superior to politics? We achieved our independence by politics. We freed the slaves by politics. Our businesses flourish or wither by politics."

Mrs. Bushnell declared that "it doesn't matter at all whether you are a Republican or a Democrat. Thank God for the two-party system. It doesn't matter whether you or your husband are members of management or an officer or staff member of a labor union. It does matter that you work hard within your chosen political party to promote candidates and platforms which help the growth, and extend the services, of free competitive enterprise in America."

Estimated Fire Losses for June Total $77 Million

Estimated fire losses in the United States during June amounted to $77,867,000, the National Board of Fire Underwriters reported.

According to Lewis A. Vincent, general manager, this loss represents a decrease of 13.5 per cent from losses of $90,048,000 reported for June, 1958, and a decrease of 4.8 per cent from losses of $81,597,000 for May, 1959.

Losses for the first six months of 1959 now total $560,860,000, a decrease of 3.5 per cent from the first six months of 1958, when they amounted to $581,235,000.

President Humphrey?

We cannot believe that Senator Hubert Humphrey is seriously considering himself as a candidate for the office of President of our country. His recent speech on civil rights did not improve his position in the South. If he had been speaking as a candidate he would have approached this problem with more moderation.

Our guess is that his real objective is to strengthen his position in the party as the No. 1 liberal of the North. That would add to his power in the convention and in the next administration which probably will be Democrat.

We are sure Senator Humphrey is aware of his own shortcomings and realizes that he is not qualified by temperament to do a good job as a chief executive. He has a sense of humor and has a lot of fun being in the Senate. There he can do what he likes to do most — talk, and he enjoys the reputation of being the talkingest Senator in Washington.

Senator Humphrey has a ready solution for every problem, and in the Congress it isn't too important that a member be right at all times. In so large a group, time is generally a leveling influence and individual errors of judgment are seldom important.

H. L. Mencken once observed that there is always an easy solution to every human problem — neat, plausible and wrong. Senator Humphrey bubbles over with easy solutions, and they get him a lot of headlines, nationally and internationally. All of them are interesting, but many of them are wrong. The solutions to most of the important problems are not easy and as the champion of the easy out, Mr. Humphrey has a high average of errors.

Senator Humphrey probably serves a useful purpose in the Senate. As President he would be a dangerous leader, mainly because he talks too much. We think he understands this and has no intention of giving up his seat in the Senate which is the best possible sounding board for his constant chatter.

Smaller Classrooms

The state board of education has suggested a classroom limit of 30 pupils, and if such a limit were adopted the board presumably could withhold state aid from any school district that failed to comply with the rule. This would mean that hundred of additional classrooms would have to be provided throughout the state.

But top-ranking educators themselves are not in agreement on the question of class size insofar as it may affect the quality of education. The pressure for smaller classes comes from those whose main objective is to further lighten the work load of the teachers. The teacher of a class of 20 pupils would have less to do than one who had 40 pupils to instruct, but for some courses a reasonable class size might be 50 or 150.

In other parts of the country, studies are being conducted on how new teaching aids can be used beneficially to improve the quality of teaching and at the same time increase the efficiency of the teacher. Here in Minnesota there seems to be no interest in possible progress of this kind. Here in Minnesota our system of public education at all levels seems to be directed by officials who are completely unaware of what is happening in this field in other states. Our approach is tragically provincial.

It is unfortunate that the legislature, in its recent session, did not provide for a cooling off period and an overall study of our education needs before more millions of the taxpayers' dollars are wasted. Apparently what we most need now is an effective taxpayers' organization to provide a little organized opposition to the spenders.

Respect for Authority Needed

Governor Orville Freeman has ordered a crackdown on young hoodlums and that, we agree, is very much in order. But from our observation the police are generally doing a pretty fair job of apprehending juvenile delinquents. Our real need, as we see it, is a re-examination of what we are doing with them after they are caught.

In recent years we have shifted the emphasis from punishment to rehabilitation, and that certainly is a laudable objective. But Governor Freeman's appeal is convincing evidence that our well-intentioned program has not been successful.

No one will find fault with the idea of rehabilitation as such, but there is much to be said in favor of punishment as an important, and often essential, part of a successful rehabilitation program.

We will go along with the Springfield Advance-Press in the following comment on this problem:

> "Our juvenile courts and judges are too easy on offenders. It brings to mind the fact that young Starkweather down in Nebraska was recommended for confinement by his probation officer and it was not carried out. Shortly thereafter this young criminal murdered 11 persons. He paid for his crime recently by death in the electric chair.
> "We favor making every reasonable attempt at rehabilitation of juvenile delinquents, but chronic offenders are in line for for more severe treatment.
> "Obvious flouting of the law by juveniles—and getting by with it—is not conducive to moulding good law abiding citizens out of our boys and girls."

Our youth conservation program has not been successful mainly because it has failed to instill in the minds of our potential youth delinquents a respect for authority. The consequence of law breaking is no longer a thing to be feared.

In our efforts to rehabilitate the erring individual we are overlooking the importance of punishment as an example to others. And in dealing with youth there is much to be said in favor of corporal punishment. The old-fashioned back-to-the-woodshed movement has straightened out the thinking of a lot of youngsters.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by obtained by writing or visiting the VA contact representative at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—Is there a grace period for late payments of installments on GI loans?

A—No. Veterans should make their GI loan payments on or before the date they are due. An extra charge may be made by GI lenders when payments are received late.

Q—A neighbor of ours, the widow of a war veteran who died of a service-connected cause, has a 15-year old son who has a physical impairment. Would this boy have to wait until age 18 to start training under the War Orphans Education program?

A—No. Recent changes in the law now make it possible for physically handicapped children who are otherwise eligible to begin special types of War Orphans training when they reach age 14.

Q—I have a disability I believe is traceable to my service in the Armed Forces. Is there any deadline for filing a claim for disability compensation with VA?

A—There is no deadline. You may apply any time. However, if you apply within a year from the date of your release from service, payments may be back-dated to your first day as a civilian. If you apply after a year, you may be paid only from the date your application was filed.

Q—I am thinking of using my right under the Korean GI Bill to attend college this fall, but am not sure of the course of study I should pursue. Can I get help from the VA in choosing the right course?

A—Yes. You can obtain expert assistance from VA in planning a course o fstudy under the Korean GI Bill. The VA will set up a session of vocational counseling for you, to help you determine scientifically what you do best. You should make application for VA vocational counseling early, if you plan to attend school this fall.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR
by Orville L. Freeman

An interesting incident occurred during the last few weeks of the legislative session. As some of you recall, the date of July 1st was approaching, and no appropriations had yet been authorized for the period after June 30th. Since the state cannot spend any money that has not been appropriated, many people were concerned about what would happen to state services if no appropriations should be passed in time.

Who Need State Services?

Some were concerned about what would happen to dependent children and to those on old age assistance. But the incident that pointed up the fact that it isn't only the unfortunate who need state services occurred when companies engaged in an important business approached the head of the department that serves them, expressing their great concern as to what might happen if the lack of appropriations would prevent that department from functioning.

Eager to Pay

These businesses pointed out that they would be so severly handicapped if that department could not operate that they would be willing to contribute the money needed to keep it in operation. This, of course, would not have been legally possible. But the incident highlighted the importance of state services to some of our most profitable businesses.

Ten Millions for Business

Too many people think of state services as relating solely to the provision of welfare and education. Too few of them recognize that business simply could not operate in most cases if it were not for services provided by the state. I asked for an analysis of the appropriations just passed to find out just how much of the taxpayer's money is earmarked for departments that exist primarily to serve business. I find that, excluding those for agriculture and for functions to help in the processing of agricultural products—and this is an important business in Minnesota—these appropriations total more than ten million dollars.

Mixed Functions

Of course, the regulatory functions of many of the departments concerned are of value to the public as well as to business. It might be argued, therefore, that some of this ten million ought to be assigned to some other function than the assistance of business. On the other hand, much of the money appropriated to departments not included in this total—such as the huge expenditures on highways—are of direct assistance to business. If this were to be included, the figure would be much higher than ten million.

Broad Coverage

The mere listing of some of shows how broadly the state provides business services. There are the departments of banking, securities, insurance, and the compensation insurance board and the real estate division. Others are the Railroad and Warehouse Commission, the departments of aeronautics, labor and industry, business development, and the Iron Range Resources and rehabilitation Commission. Still others include the surveyor general of logs and lumbering, and the forestry and lands and minerals divisions of the Department of Conservation.

Better pastures for his milk cows that's what Paul Patton, Bovey, wanted. His 432-acre Itasca county farm just wasn't doing as it should, so he called in Morris Blackburn, SCS worker at Bemidji and George Saksa, Itasca county rural development agent. What they suggested: complete soil tests, heavy nitrogent and potash fertilizer treatments on his corn and potash for his alfalfa, a ration-a-day pasture grazing plan, and a good crop rotation plan. Patton's forage yields doubled the first year and his farm profits are on the way up.

A woodland soil study in Minnesota is underway, thanks to cooperation between the SCS and the Minnesota and Ontario Paper company. Purpose is to find out how much wood can be produced each year on different types of soil. Tree measurements were taken in 1948, 1953 and 1958 from 719 forest plots, averaging a seventh of an acre each. This way, the researchers can closely determine annual growth.

One key to higher feed value in hay, particularly first crop, is early cutting. William Hueg, extension agronomist at the University of Minnesota tells why. As the crop matures, it rapidly drops in TDN, protein and palatability. Early-cut forage has more leaves than later cuttings, and leaves contain twice or two and one-half times as much protein as stems. If cut at the right time (early bloom stage) first-cut hay is equal in every respect to second or third cuttings.

If it were all in one direction, the waterways built in Kandiyohi county in 1958 would stretch clear across the county. Twenty-nine miles of the waterways were established, according to Dick Grussing, chairman of the Kandiyohi soil conservation district board. Playing a big part in this development were SCS technical help and ACP cost-sharing.

YOUR SENATOR REPORTS
from the Desk of SENATOR HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

A Living Wage—Millions of American workers have been left behind by our rising standard of living. Most of them are at the lowest rung of our economic ladder, in the weakest bargaining position. Few of them have a trade union to act in their behalf. In line with the policy set by Congress in the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, the Senate Labor Subcommittee has now recommended extension of wage and hour protections to 10 million new workers and a gradual increase in the minimum wage —up to $1.25 an hour.

Low Income Families—Rising living costs put a heavy burden on low income families. These families have just as much right to a decent living as the rest of our fellow citizens. And, of course, one reason for continuing unemployment is the inability of low income families to buy the goods put out by our amazingly productive economy. Gradual increases in the minimum wage will boost purchasing power among those who need it most and will put their money back into circulation.

Hourly Rate Goes Up—For the 24 million Americans already covered by the wage law, the $1 minimum would rise to $1.15 when the bill is signed into law and $1.25 a year later. The 10 million workers to be extended coverage in the current proposal would get new wage and overtime protections starting at $1 an hour. Logging firms with 8 of fewer workers will be exempt from the wage-hour law, but many workers in retail establishments, hotels, restaurants, laundry and dry cleaning establishments, local transit firms and workers in food processing and canning plants would get new protections. Let us remember that there are still more than 10 million Americans at the bottom of our wealthy economy without wage and hour protection against excessive hours and low pay.

Food For Hungry Americans—It is a shameful thing that anyone in our country should suffer hunger in the midst of our food abundance. Yet many of our fellow citizens who need good nourishing food—the elderly, the disabled, the unemployed, the blind and orphans—are not getting it. Ever since I came to the Senate I have worked for a program to get our surplus food commodities to these needy people. Senate approval last week of my amendment to the Mutual Security Act will make sure that surplus foods for sale or gifts to foreign nations shall also be available to our own needy. And the Senate Agriculture Committee is now considering my pilot food stamp demonstration project to follow through on this vital humanitarian program. This pilot project can develop the information needed to build a broadly-based food-stamp program to channel high nutrient foods to our needy families.

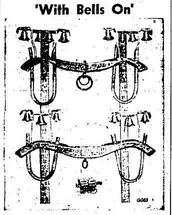
PEEKIN' into the PAST

'With Bells On'

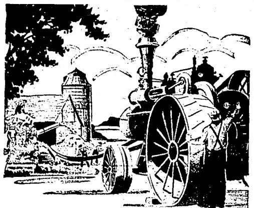


The part the ox-yoke played in pioneer days is known, but less known is the story of yokes "with bells on."

The story goes that the leader of a wagon-train attached a bell to his ox-yoke making his wagon easier to follow. It was an honor to be selected to lead the "train."

So, after a series of trips across the prairie, the wagon-train leader had a collection of bells and when he pulled into town after eluding hostile Indians, surviving heat or cold and days between waterholes, the cry went up, "He is here with bells on!"

Thus was born a tradition and our language was enriched by an expression still heard today.



The "threshing ring" never made a penny

The old time "threshing ring" had just one purpose . . . to get the threshing done for each member at lowest cost. The farmers who belonged, put up the money to buy a steam engine, a water wagon, a grain separator, and a shed in which to keep the rig between seasons. During the threshing run, each member contributed his share of labor for the crew.

Everybody paid their share of the costs; each received threshing service. There were no profits.

Today's cooperatives work in much the same way. They are service organizations supplying a need at cost. Some people wonder why a cooperative doesn't have profits on which to pay income taxes. It's just like the old time "threshing ring." There are no profits to the cooperative.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Moving and Security

In our highly industrialized society, many families find it necessary to move for the sake of their jobs or health. It is said, that on the average, an American family moves once every two years. This moving from one locality to another and one town to another can be somewhat trying for parents and children alike and may result in increased uncertainty and insecurity in some children.

We more or less assume that to a baby moving makes little or no difference, while as a matter of fact, even a very young baby feels the difference when the parents are living under a strain, when the household arrangements are disturbed, and when even the sounds that he hears are not the old familiar ones. Mother is apt to be overtired, while unpacking and getting settled, and may not be able to give the amount of attention the baby is accustomed to receiving. Then, too, during travel, the baby's hours of sleeping and eating have been disturbed. He has to learn not only to sleep in a different place, but to get used to new noises and new faces.

Of course for older children who go to school moving from one neighborhood to another can be even harder. For while the schools may be quite a lot alike in their methods and rate of progress, to get acquainted with a new group of children becomes harder and harder as children grow older. To make new friends at six is relatively easy; to do so at 13 or 14 requires more skill.

How can we help to reduce these feelings of insecurity in our children? Perhaps most important of all is the consideration given to the children's situation in locating the new home and neighborhood. Plan to visit the new area a number of times, if possible meeting some of the people who live there. Find out about schools, playgrounds, number of children, dominant ethnic and religious groups, if any; visit schools, churches and community centers preferably with the children in the course of sampling a new area before buying into it. A home and community chosen only from the adult point of view may prove in many ways an unfortunate choice. Relocating a family is sufficiently difficult without the complications which can arise from overlooking the children's welfare and interests.

An ocean-going tanker passes under the tallest highway bridge in the south, on Highway 87 from Port Arthur to Orange, Texas. The bridge crosses the Neches river, which connects with the Sabine-Neches ship channel, an inland waterway to Port Arthur and Beaumont.

When the bridge was built to replace a ferry, Beaumonters specified it must be tall enough to clear the highest ship that had ever gone up the river. This ship, it turned out, was the USS Patoka, which mounted the mooring mast for the Navy dirigible Macon.

SCANNING THE NEWS

A LONG view of the ownership and distribution of U. S. Government securities as compiled by the Treasury Department gives an insight into the manner and the effectiveness with which the Federal Government has managed the public debt—a debt which has grown sixfold over the last two decades to its present level of about $285 billions.

There have, of course, been problems at times, inherent in a debt of the size it has attained, its enormous economic influence, and the fact that a chronic shortage of savings to meet the nation's capital and investment needs has characterized most of the post-World War II period.

Over the past year, for example, the debt and its management have attracted widespread attention as the result of the impact of a record peacetime budget deficit in an inflation-charged atmosphere and in a period when the demand for savings and investible funds rose rapidly in keeping with the economy's rebound from the 1957-58 recession. Under such conditions, the rigidity of the interest rate structure on the public debt has put Federal securities at a competitive disadvantage with funds needed to promote production and economic growth.

Through it all, nonetheless, the basic principle of Federal fiscal policy has been maintained, to finance the public debt out of the savings of individuals and other investors to the maximum possible extent to promote economic stability and to keep inflationary forces in check.

Under the circumstances, it is significant to note that the banking system still holds only about a third of the public debt, a proportion which has changed little in recent years. Holdings of the public debt by the nonbanking public, amounting to $140 billions at the end of February, are now near their all-time high and represent about half the total debt as they have for years. The balance of outstanding Federal securities is held by U. S. Government trust funds and investment accounts, such as the Social Security System.

Succession Plantings

A continuous harvest of good-quality vegetables may be obtained by succession plantings. These should be made at 7 to 10-day intervals. Crops that lend themselves to succession plantings include peas, beans, carrots, beets and sweet corn.

Early maturing crops like lettuce, radish, spinach and turnips grow best when weather is cool. These can be planted in late July or early August for a fall crop.

Carrots and beets are usually overmature when harvest time comes if planted early. To get good storage roots, sow seed of carrots in mid-June. Chantenay is a good variety of carrots for winter storage.

Sweet corn and beans may be planted up to July 1 in most parts of the state. Make succession plantings every 10 to 14 days.

Cabbage, broccoli and cauliflower are often set out in mid-June so they will mature during the cool fall weather.

In making succession plantings an application of a complete fertilizer is desirable. Apply one pound per 25 feet of row. Apply in a furrow 2 inches deep and 2 to 3 inches on each side of the seeded row.

Wheat Quot Final Vote Is Little Changed

Voting Was Nearly Unanimous in Favor of Market Quotas

Patrick W. Culkins, manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, stated today that the final results of the wheat referendum recently held in the county changed only slightly from those released in the last issue of the Times.

He said that two of the ten ballots challenged by the county referendum committee were accepted as eligible by the county ASC committee at the time the county's entire ballots were canvassed Tuesday, July 28.

The final results are: 130 for marketing quotas, 2 against the quotas, and 8 challenged ballots that were not counted.

Wheat marketing cards are being prepared by the county office for all eligible wheat producers in the county. The cards will be ready for distribution by Friday, August 7, 1959. Producers are requested to call at the county ASC office and pick up their cards on or after the above date.

200 at Picnic on Delmar Hagen Farm Airstrip Sunday

President of Minnesota Flying Farmers Talks to Aviation Enthusiasts

The Delmar Hagen farm airstrip at Gatzke was the scene of a Flying Farmer picnic last Sunday, which was attended by over 200 persons. The event brought planes from five northwest Minnesota communities to the Hagen airstrip.

Following the picnic Gene Miller, Crookston, president of the Minnesota Flying Farmers, gave a short address. He outlined the role of the Flying Farmers organization in protecting the interests of the private pilot, specifically the flying farmers, and private aviation in general. He also described the annual scholarship given by the Flying Farmers.

Were it not for the Flying Farmers and similar groups representing the private pilots, he said, restrictions affecting the use of airplanes by individuals would become so severe as to almost exclude the private plane owner from the use of airspace.

After Miller's address rides were sold to the crowd at the airstrip, with the proceeds going toward the state FF scholarship, which is awarded to a deserving student in the interests of private aviation.

Another feature of the picnic was a parachute jump by an ex-paratrooper from the Gatzke area.

Those who flew to the picnic were, in addition to Miller, Floyd Anderson, Bernie Wilkins and Tom Hagen, Crookston; Melvin Wilkens, Grygla; Martin Rantanen, Wayne and Jerry Johnson, Middle River; Hilding Grahn, Selvin and Clarence Erickson, Roseau, and Roland Klamar, Gatzke.

Rev. Abbott Holds Farewell Service

Rev. Robert Abbott preached his farewell message to the congregation of the Assemblies of God Tabernacle on Sunday morning, July 26, before leaving with his family today for Alexandria. Following the service, a pot luck dinner was served in the church basement to 160 guests.

At 2:30 p.m. a program was presented directed by Richard Larson and members of the board of the church. In addition to musical numbers presented, members of the board and heads of departments spoke words of appreciation for the Abbott family's eight years of ministry here.

The Abbotts were presented with a gift of money from the members and friends. Lunch was served following the program.

dded Facilities to rnish Electricity eeded, Rotary Told

"All power companies serving northwestern Minnesota and North Dakota will have inadequate supplies of electricity by 1965 unless additional facilities are built," Andrew Freeman, manager of Minnkota Power Cooperatives, Inc., Grand Forks, told members of the Rotary club at their meeting Monday noon.

Freeman said that the solution to more power and the development of industry in the area being served could be individual plants built by each power company, government-built plants or a cooperative plant built by all power companies without government help.

The speaker said that the best plan was the latter located at a cheap source of power (the lignite deposits of North Dakota) and near an adequate supply of water needed in the generating process. A location near the Garrison dam would meet these requirements, he said.

Other factors for producing low cost power as listed by the speaker included generating units large enough to handle future needs, adequate standby power, low cost money, low taxes and experience in using lignite as a fuel. All these would be satisfied by the location of the plant in the Garrison dam area.

"Whatever is done, Thief River Falls will be affected by the decision," Freeman said. He called the occasional interruptions in service to the city "75% the result of Bureau of Reclamation" troubles and predicted that most of the interruptions would be prevented as improvements are made.

"The larger amount of cheap power you can have, the greater the chance of development. The amount and cost of power will have an effect on the economy of this area," he concluded, adding that there should be a marked improvement in service to the Thief River Falls area in three to four years.

Expect Huge Crowd This Evening for Automobile Award

Attracted by a larger number of exhibits and favorable weather, spectators at the Pennington county fair have been larger than in recent years.

Despite high temperatures Monday and Tuesday, the stands were nearly filled Monday night for the Aut Swenson Thrillcade and the first presentation of the Carl Marlo productions. The Thrillcade, which many praised as a fast-moving, smoothly presented show of high-quality, featured auto acts, high-wire numbers and motorcycle exhibitions.

The vaudeville presentation Tuesday evening was preceded by the 4-H Parade of Champions where county youngsters were honored for their accomplishments during the past year.

A light rain accompanied by cooler temperatures Tuesday night made "fair going" more popular Wednesday and, by mid-afternoon, spectators again thronged to the fair grounds to watch the stock car races and to enjoy the midway attractions. The more moderate temperatures also made commercial and hobby exhibits in the permanent buildings more popular.

The last day of the fair promises to attract a large number of spectators. Wednesday evening's cool temperatures coupled with the desire of many to see the fair for the last time this year promises to entice many to the grounds. Horse races are scheduled for the afternoon and the last performance of the Marlo productions will be followed by the drawing for the automobile.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Benedict Lyons, Steubenville, Ohio: I remember not too long ago when most of the kids in grade school wore the badge of the depression—relief shirts. This was in the early days of F.D.R.'s administration when he put thousands of women to work on sewing projects. The shirts were made of cheap fabric and most of the designs were actually intended for women's dresses. The kids hated them at first but as more and more of the populace hit the relief rolls the shirts became common and a little less conspicuous.

Our public high school was the distribution center for all the Government surplus commodities that were purchased from hard hit farms. We had large cans of peanut butter, grapefruit segments, kidney beans, and some days when we were lucky, 5 pound boxes of pecans. The apples came in to the school in giant trucks and were given to the students every day. They were good apples, too, and seemed to taste better then. The only item that presented a consumption problem was the peanut butter. One teacher solved this problem by asking the children to chip in two cents apiece, which added up to enough to buy a large box of crackers. This one class could clean up all of a number 10 can of peanut butter. I don't think I have had any since.

Those were the days when the W.P.A. and P.W.A. were in full swing. We would pass the men on our way to school and as poor as most of them were, they would always offer a friendly smile and a cheery greeting.

Public Opinion

Editor the Times:

Leaving Thief River Falls after nearly eight years of living and working here is not easy. One finds that his roots have gone deep into the life of the community.

Thief River Falls has been very good to me. The congregation of the Assemblies of God Tabernacle has been very kind to me as well and deserves most credit for an enjoyable ministry here.

Reaching the community weekly through the "Gospel Echoes" broadcasts has been a wonderful experience for us as a family. Many lasting friendships have been made.

I would like to express appreciation for the opportunities afforded me by the public schools to speak and participate on numerous occasions.

We think Thief River Falls is a wonderful city with a warm, friendly atmosphere, and we sincerely hate to leave. Duty calls us to Alexandria to pastor, and we look forward to making new friends. Maybe those dozens of lakes around Alexandria will help us not to be too homesick for Thief River Falls.

Here's a big, sincere thanks to Thief River Falls and its people for a very pleasant eight years.

Sheriff Knutson of Polk Withdraws His Resignation

Reconsiders Decision to Resign from Office, Announced Last Week

Carl N. Knutson, sheriff of Polk county, appeared at the office of County Auditor Martin Vanseth Monday to retrieve a letter of resignation submitted Thursday. He decided over the weekend to reverse his decision to resign due to numerous phone calls which he said he received, asking him to reconsider.

Knutson said, "I've received so many calls from individuals asking me to reconsider. With support like that I couldn't seek any other employment as long as I'm able to fulfill the duties and obligations of my office."

Knutson Thursday announced his reason for resigning to be a desire to pursue other occupations. He added today, "We are kept going day and night. No one seemed to know what we were doing."

Alfon Hanson, chairman of the county board of commissioners, registered surprise at Knutson's decision to resign. He had called Knutson Saturday morning to learn the reason behind his decision and to urge him to reconsider, Hanson said.

There had been no dissension between the sheriff's office and the county board recently, Hanson said. He added though, that Knutson had been working hard and had been extremely tired recently.

Knutson was farming near Fertile at the time of his election as sheriff in November, 1954. He was reelected last November and is presently serving the seventh month of his second term.

HOME Garden TIPS

C. GUSTAV HARD
ORRIN C. TURNQUIST
AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE
UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA ST. PAUL 1, MINN.

Your Garden During Vacation

Summer mulches will help to keep your garden fresh and growing while you're on vacation. Good materials for mulches include compost, leafmold, ground corn cobs, buckwheat hulls and pulverized straw or hay. Mulches will help conserve moisture and keep weeds under control.

Apply a good insecticide and fungicide before leaving. DDT has a long-lasting effect and kills a wide range of insects. A protective spray with ferbam or captan will help control many of the diseases.

If red spider is a problem in your garden, spray with Ovex (Ovatron) to kill this garden pest.

Remove all dead flowers before you go on vacation. Let the neighbors enjoy your garden while you're gone.

A thorough watering before you leave should last for one week. Soak the soil to a depth of 6-8 inches. If you're to be gone longer than a week, hire a boy to water if there is no rain.

Place house plants in a cool location in the house. Provide moisture by placing the pots in saucers and water from the bottom. Don't overwater.

Preventing Summer Drouth

Summer drouth and hot weather often raise havoc with Minnesota gardens. To avoid the ravages of such rigorous weather conditions, keep the soil moisture and air humidity high.

Regular deep watering of the flower border will foster deep-rooted plants. Plants that are deep-rooted have a larger reservoir of water to use. When rainfall is lacking, two inches of water should be supplied per week or the soil should be soaked to a depth of 6-8 inches.

Light, shallow cultivation will prevent excess moisture loss from the soil. Deep hoeing is not necessary.

A summer mulch will help conserve the moisture and keep the soil cool. Cultivate the soil before applying the compost, leafmold or other mulch material.

Light syringing of the plants during the day will help keep the plants from wilting. When the humidity around the plant is high, it doesn't lose water as fast.

When a drouth persists, thinning the annual plants will reduce the competition for available water. Weeds use water, too—so keep your garden weed free.

South St. Paul Livestock Market Report—Monday

Steers and Heifers: A load of high-Choice 1,291 lb. slaughter steers brought $28.25, and there were four consignments average to high-Choice steers scaling 1,066, 2,201, 1,232, and 1,218 lbs. at $28.00. Several other loads average to high-Choice steers cashed at $27.75 while bulk Good and Choice moved at $26-27.50. In connection with steers and heifers grading Standard and below, demand was not nearly as broad as on the upper grades and prices were no better than steady. Standard steers moved at $22.50-24.50, Canner, Cutter and Utility grades $16-21.00. Average-Choice 865 and 950 lb. heifers were taken at $27.50, while bulk Good and Choice cleared at $25.50-27.00. Standard heifers had a range of $22-24.00, Canner, Cutter and Utility grades $16-21.00.

Cows and Bulls: Only a few high-Utility cows, some carrying an end of Commercial sold at $17.00. Bulk Utility cows cashed at $15.50-16.50, while most Canners and Cutters brought $13.50-16.00. Cutter and Utility bulls sold generally at $20-22.00 while Commercial and Good grades were taken at $20-21.50. Canner bulls brought $17-19.00.

Vealers and Calves: Buying of vealers and slaughter calves was not general, some local interests trying for lower costs at the outset. However, trade developed at steady to strong levels, a more lenient sort accounting for the strength. Good and Choice vealers bulked at $27-30.00, high-Choice and Prime making $31-32.00. A spread of $25-26.00 took Standard grade, Cull and Utility $20-24.00. Good and Choice slaughter calves cashed at $26-28.00, Utility and Standard $18-25.00 and Culls $16-17.00.

Stocker and Feeder Cattle and Calves

Sales of stocker and feeder cattle and calves were few and far between. Good and Choice 826 lb. feeder steers brought $26.50, and there were two lots Good yearling stock heifers at $25.00-25.50. Stock cows sagged sharply in sympathy with the decline in slaughter cows. Medium and Good stock cows moved generally at $15-16.50.

Notes About Eating

"But she just won't eat!" Susan's mother was upset. Her six year old daughter just dawdled over her food. She looked healthy enough, but she just couldn't be! Often she left the table having eaten only a few bites. At other times, she ate almost everything that was placed on her plate. Susan's last visit to the doctor had produced a "clean bill of health." She not only looked healthy — she was. Yet, her mother said, sometimes her parents worried so much about her eating that they insisted that she stay at the table until she had finished everything on her plate. On these occasions Susan was often reduced to tears. Very often she would throw up all she had eaten within 15 or 20 minutes.

People who deal with parents often hear this story in one form or another. Fortunately, there has been some study of this problem which will help these parents.

Not many years ago a group of children were watched carefully over a period of a month. While they were presented a balanced diet every day, they were allowed to eat only those things they chose. Looked at from a day to day point of view, it would have appeared that they were starving themselves on certain days—or at least not getting a proper balance of food. But over the whole month it was found that they had regulated their eating so that they had actually gotten a balanced diet!

Other studies have found children eat better when given small portions and allowed to come back a second time, rather than a large portion to begin with. Then, too, people who have emotional upsets immediately before or during a meal often lost their appetites. Most adults have experienced this as a normal reaction of the body. In children, too, emotional scenes at the table may actually take away their appetites. A feeling of nausea is quite a normal result.

Having determined thru regular physical examinations that a child is healthy, three principles seem clear: (1) present the child with an attractive and balanced diet, (2) make the portions small enough so that the child is not discouraged to begin with, and (3) make mealtimes pleasant times.

PALS Richard Lee Holmes, left, 103 Horace ave. S., and Merle Sampson, 933 Arnold ave. The animal was a part of the Aut Swenson Thrillcade which performed that evening.

THE SEA GULL

By Natalie Carlson

"THE girl next door," Dick Haley had written his fiancee, "has a sea gull in a cage; a very battered looking gull—my feathered counterpart, you might say! She says it has an injured wing, and she will set it free when it has healed—but my guess is she intends to keep it what she calls 'safe.' Is this your intention for me?"

"Don't be absurd," Lola had replied, "You were sent to the sea shore to complete your cure, not to feel sorry for yourself. You must be thankful—as I am—that you survived the crash; and my answer to your question is definitely yes! Of course I want you safe, but don't think that my uncle created this 'desk-job' just for my sake—he is only too glad to have the benefit of your skill and experience as a pilot. And, I daresay if you could question your 'feathered counterpart,' you'd find that he really prefers the security of his cozy home and three meals a day. And who is the girl next door?"

Why hadn't he told her? Dick thought, as he went down the path to the beach. Because it wasn't just coincidence that his neighbor was Chrissie Millette, the stewardess on his plane—the plane he had had to ditch, and from which they had rescued all but the copilot and five passengers. And his courage. That had gone, too, into the Atlantic with Ken and the dead passengers. He had left the hospital declaring he would never fly again; Lola had backed him up, and her uncle had promised him the desk job, when he was well.

But he knew the doctor had sent Chrissie and himself here, knowing that both had more than physical scars to mend—probably hoping that in the solitude and tranquility of this small sea-coast village, each could heal the other.

He stopped, as always, by the roomy cage where the big gull crouched, watching the swooping flight of his free comrades, and, as always, he felt an angry impatience at this confinement of the very symbol of limitless flight.

As Chrissie came out of the house and walked toward him, he called to her.

"When are you going to let him go?"

"That depends," she smiled, understanding his emotion. "When he's ready—when he can hold his own, again."

He studied her thoughtfully, noting that her soft brown hair was combed back, with a new parting to minimize the scar left where a jagged piece of metal had raked across her head.

"He'll die in there," he said.

"He'd die out there—" she gestured toward the sea, "if he couldn't fly properly."

"Maybe he'd prefer to die trying—" Abruptly, he continued his walk down to the beach, where he sat down to re-read Lola's letter.

"Your letters sound so strange," she wrote, "I hope you're not pining for your old job—I couldn't endure being a pilot's wife! Come home soon—I'm planning a big party, to christen your new desk . . ."

"Of course I know you can't cage a wild thing," she said, "but oh, I hope I didn't let him go too soon—"

"I think you did right," he said, "He had to fly again—and so do we. Don't we?"

"Oh, yes . . .!" Then she looked up at him questioningly, "That is—if you're sure?"

"Birds gotta fly," he laughed, "Some people don't understand that. We do—so come on—let's go back."

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

By C. D. Smith

When Dating Begins To Be Serious

IT'S OK, IF YOU DON'T GET SERIOUS

A young lady from Iowa says: "My boyfriend lives twenty miles away and I don't see him very often. There is a boy that lives in my town I like but not as a boyfriend. When I am any place where my boyfriend isn't, I sit with this other boy. How should I treat this boy that lives nearest to me. Should I be sitting with him? If not, what should I tell him?"

There doesn't seem to be much of a problem, since the young lady is definite and honest with herself about her feelings about both boys. To view the problem from different sides, there is nothing wrong with sitting with this other boy—unless she is engaged to the one who lives away—or with being with him, having a date for a movie, etc. It would be wrong, on the other hand, to encourage the hometown boy, or to have dates with him if he is "serious" while the young lady just "tolerates" him because her boyfriend doesn't happen to be around.

The thing for the girl to do is to be as honest with both boys as she is with herself. Tell the hometown boy how she really feels about him as a friend. Tell him about the boyfriend and tell the boyfriend about him. With such a direct approach, there will be no chance of any misunderstanding.

The time to settle on one boyfriend or girlfriend is when one has decided upon a lifetime partner. Until that time, it is not necessary to shut out the rest of the world, or to stop having friendships.

Granted, in this day and age, teenagers will decide to "go steady" and each promise not to date other boys or girls. When such a promise is made, one of the individuals should not expect the other to follow the agreement unless he or she does as well. In dating, in courtship—as in marriage—honesty is always the best policy.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Schedule, Sunday, August 2
Thief River Falls at Plummer
Greenbush at Goodridge
Badger at Grygla

The Pen-Ro-Shall league, with its championship already decided, and which was won by Wally Grovum's Thief River Falls Bums, will conclude play on its 1959 schedule on Sunday.

Sunday's slate will find the league champion Bums playing at Plummer; the improving Badger team playing at Grygla; and Goodridge entertaining Greenbush. Two postponed games — Greenbush at Badger, and Thief River Falls at Greenbush — remain to be played.

A league directors' meeting will be held on Friday night to formulate plans for the league playoffs. The playoff results will determine the league's representative in the Class B regional tournament.

The most interesting, and best played, game of Sunday's bill was the Bums vs. Goodridge game played on the Fair Grounds diamond here. The Bums, again utilizing "squeeze play" tactics, edged out Curly Gasperlin's Goodridge club, 3 to 2, in ten innings. Lefty Freddy Jensen hurled the route for the league champions, and he was given errorless support in the field. Goodridge's Jim Breznay, with a man on base, poled out a home run to send the contest into an extra inning.

In other games played Sunday, Badger, with an explosive attack that featured heavy hitting by Ron Christofferson, trounced Greenbush, 31 to 3. The Plummer Red Sox dropped a 17 to 13 decision to Grygla at Grygla; and in a Sunday evening tilt, a playing off of a postponed game, Grygla lost to Goodridge, 18 to 5, at Goodridge.

Bridgeman's vs. Bjorkman's

There was considerable activity in the city softball league this past week, with seven games being played on the schedule. In spite of this activity, the league standing did not change very much and the Bridgemans' continue to hold the top rung, having a season's record of seven wins and two losses. The heavy-hitting Hamm's Beer squad is in second place with six wins and two losses.

A pair of sparkling performances were turned in during the week. Last Thursday evening, in a game that was forced into ten innings, the Hamm's team edged out the Len's Tire Service team, 7 to 6. The winning run was tallied by Freddy Dablow who tripled to center field and scored on Gene Leslie's sacrifice fly.

The other noteworthy performance was Milt Reierson's no hit and no run pitching feat as the Bjorkman's defeated the Bums, 9 to 0, on Monday evening. In fashioning his no hitter, Reierson whipped his strike-out ball past fifteen of the Bums' batsmen.

On Tuesday evening, the Hamms' and the Bridgeman's divided a doubleheader, with the Hamm's, behind the snap-ball pitching of big George Janssen, winning the first game, 4 to 0. The second game, which was a resumption of the game of June 9, and found the Bridgeman's holding an 8 to 2 lead entering the third inning, was played under protest by the Hamm's Team. The game, played to a decision, was won by Bridgeman's, 16 to 4.

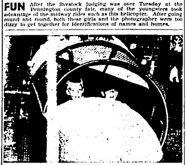
BOWL FOR FUN — BOWL TOGETHER

FUN After the livestock judging was over Tuesday at the Pennington county fair, many of the youngsters took advantage of the midway rides such as this helicopter. After going round and round, both these girls and the photographer were too dizzy to get together for identifications of names and homes.



ROLLOPHONE While David Gunderson, left, of rt. 3, takes the whole thing calmly, Andy Johnson, 511 Knight ave. N., seems a bit insecure in this midway ride at the Pennington county fair.

The Thieves "Big Game"

Northern Minny league baseball interest will be focused on the Fair Grounds diamond here Sunday afternoon, for on that date the league-leading Cass Lake team will be meeting the runner-up Thieves. The result of the game will have a vital bearing on the league championship.

In an earlier game between the two teams, and which was played at Cass Lake, the Thieves drove southpaw Jerry Daniels off the mound in the fifth inning, clubbing his offerings for three doubles, and won the game 12 to 6. Since that time, Daniels, a Cass Lake high school graduate and now a student at B.S.T.C., has been hurling effective ball and he undoubtedly be the starter for the league-leaders on Sunday afternoon.

The game was orginally slated as a night game, but due to the fact that the Cass Lake team has a considerable distance to travel, local officials shifted the game to an afternoon affair.

Gene Leslie, who "worked" four innings on Sunday as the Thieves defeated Eldred 9 to 4, will get the starting assignment for manager John Drury's Thieves on Sunday. Gene should be well-rested for Sundays tilt, but if he should get into difficulty, manager Drury has young Harley Drees available for relief duty.

Sunday's game should be a crowd-pleaser.

Welcome, Myles

A new and welcome resident to the city is Myles Jackson, the former St. Hilaire and Crookston storekeeper. Myles is now a bona fide resident, having purchased a home here, and hopes to enjoy his retirement from business.

Myles isn't a stranger here, and he's especially well-known to the old-time baseball fans. He will be remembered as being a valued and sure-handed outfielder with the St. Hilaire baseball team in the years just after World War 1.

It is pretty well agreed that the St. Hilaire club of those days was the strongest and best balanced ball team to ever represent St. Hilaire. Joining Myles on that squad were outfielders Al Brink and Christy Christensen; first baseman Sig Engh; second baseman Butch Wilson; shortstop Ted DuCharme; third baseman Emil Hallameck; catcher Peggen Nelson; and pitcher Johnny Melquist.

Ten Witnesses

If there had been one less witness than the ten who have made testimony that the event occurred, we would have doubted Wally DuChamp's statement that he made a hole-in-one at the local golf course on Monday.

The facts are that Wally, using a number six iron, banged his tee shot on to the number four green and the ball trickled in for eagle ace. Ten witnesses confirm Wally's feat.

Being made bold by his hole-in-one on number four, Wally used the same ball when he teed off on number five (he should have taken that hole-in-one ball out of play and had it made into a trophy, which is the custom). And what happened? He hooked the ball into the river! That's going from riches to rags.

Knowing Wally, we can be sure that he is going to get a lot of mileage out of his hole-in-one. He will be taking bows, making practice swings, and showing off his follow-through.

The Warren Juniors

In paying our compliments to the Warren Junior Legion baseball team last week, on their sturdy performance against odds in the sub sub-district at Crookston, and playing in the tournament without the services of their coach or adult supervision, we forgot to call the roll of the team members.

Here are the nine boys who represented Warren so well: Milo Monroe, Terry Black, Duane Yeado, Tom Howard, Bill Bossman, Jerry Cook, George Arnold, Mike Dougherty, and Mike Johnson.

3-way Contest for Championship of North Minny Loop

Cass Lake Holds Lead, Just One Game Ahead of T. R. Falls and Bagley

Northern Minny League	Won	Lost	Pct.
Cass Lake	8	2	.800
Bagley	7	3	.700
Thief River Falls	7	3	.700
Erskine	5	5	.500
Fosston	5	5	.500
Winger	3	7	.300
Eldred	0	10	.000

Results of Sunday's games:
Thief River Falls, 9, at Eldred, 4.
Erskine, 1, at Cass Lake, 2.
Winger, 7, at Fosston, 18.

This week's schedule:
Sunday, August 2—
Cass Lake at Thief River Falls (afternoon)
Eldred at Winger (afternoon)
Tuesday, August 4—
Fosston at Erskine (night)

The Northern Minny league, with but two weeks of the schedule remaining to be played, has developed a three-team race for the league championship and a two-team contest for fourth place. Cass Lake holds a one-game lead over the Bagley Merchants and the Thief River Falls Thieves for the league championship; and the Erskine Merchants and Fosston are deadlocked for fourth place.

Cass Lake will play Thief River Falls in an afternoon tilt at Thief River Falls on Sunday, and a win for Russ Smith's team in this game would just about clinch the title for Cass Lake, as the club closes out its schedule by meeting the cellar-dwelling Eldred team at Cass Lake on August 9.

Cass Lake, in a game that developed into a pitcher's duel between southpaw Jerry Daniels of Cass Lake and righthander Ron LaChance of Erskine, defeated Erskine, 2 to 1, at Cass Lake on Sunday afternoon.

Other games on Sunday's slate found Thief River Falls scoring a 9 to 4 win over Eldred at Eldred in an afternoon game; and on Sunday night, at Fosston, Fosston defeated Winger, 18 to 7.

The game slated to be played between Fosston and Bagley at Bagley on Sunday night has been postponed to avoid conflict with the Clearwater county fair that will be in progress at Bagley.

Nautical Rules Of the Road

By Martha Johnson
Dodge Safety Consultant

Be sure you follow the nautical rules of the road if you and your family are boating this Summer.

Use common sense and courtesy to stay afloat, advises the Los Angeles chapter of the American Red Cross.

The organization's water safety service also offers these tips for safe boating:

- Stay with your boat if it capsizes. Metal boats with good air tanks and good wood boats don't sink.
- Provide each person with an approved life jacket or cushion.
- Don't overload your boat. A wise rule is one person to a seat.
- Don't smoke when refueling an outboard motor. Always be careful with matches.
- Don't stand up in a boat that is in motion.
- Always have a pair of oars in an outboard motor boat and a bailing can in all boats.
- Head for shore if a storm threatens. Keep weight centered and low in rough waves.
- Learn to swim to the best of your ability.

Subdistrict Legion Finals Friday Night

The sub-district American Legion junior baseball finals at Warren on Friday night, with game time at 8:30 p. m., will find coach Ralph Skay's Thief River Falls team meeting the Roseau juniors.

In first round games played at Warren on Wednesday afternoon and evening, Roseau, by a 7 to 1 score, defeated the East Grand Forks juniors; and Thief River Falls, by a 12 to 1, eliminated the Lake Bronson juniors.

In the Roseau vs. East Grand Forks game, husky Don Ross, Roseau's fine all-round athlete, proved to be the game's hitting and pitching star. He boomed a pair of home runs over the fence in left-centerfield; and his southpaw slants kept the East Grand Forks batsmen pretty well in check.

The Thief River Falls juniors took control of their game with Lake Bronson in the first inning, scoring a pair of runs on a walk to Jim Wegge, an error, and Eddie Lietzow's line single to center field. The locals added a three-run cluster in the second inning on a single by Gary Anderson, a walk to Wegge, and a solid poke to right-center by Arlan Hjelle.

In the third inning, coach Skay's club racked up seven runs to insure the outcome of the game. In this high-scoring inning, Hjelle, Lietzow, and Anderson drove out doubles, while Paul Saurdiff slapped out a pair of ground singles.

Lake Bronson tallied their lone run in the third inning, when Curt Ronnander walked, moved to third base on Frank Vagle's single off Jerry Larson's glove, and scored when catcher Jim Wegge's throw to second base, in an attempt to catch the stealing Vagle, was not covered.

Hjelle and Jack Goulet shared the hurling duties in the game, which was called at the end of the top half of the fifth inning because of the ten-runs or more rule.

The box score:

Social Security Man Here August 4

Representatives to Be at Goodridge on Wednesday

A representative from the Grand Forks district office of the Social Security Administration will be in Thief River Falls at the city Auditorium on Tuesday, August 4, at 11 a.m. CDT. He will answer questions about social security and accept claims for benefits.

A representative will be in Goodridge at the fire hall on Wednesday, August 5, at 10 a.m., CDT.

Changes in the social security law have made it easier for adopted children to receive monthly payments, Walter D. Kistler, district manager of the Grand Forks social security office said today.

If you have an adopted child and you are now receiving social security retirement or disability benefits, payments to the child can start as early as September 1958, or the date of adoption if this takes place after September 1958. It is no longer necessary to wait three years after adoption for benefits to begin.

Bowling alley Men of District Form New Organization

The bowling proprietors of Grafton and Grand Forks in North Dakota, and East Grand Forks and Thief River Falls in Minnesota met at the Bowlaway Lanes in East Grand Forks on Thursday, July 23, and formed the Minn-kota Bowling Proprietors Association. The purposes of this organization is to establish a code of ethics, promote bowling and gain the benefits of group buying.

Connie Brunelle, the secretary-treasurer of the association, announced that the next meeting of the group will be held at the Family Bowl in Thief River Falls on August 27.

No two lawyers agree on anything, it seems.

Can You Stop in Time to Avoid an Accident, Motorists Are Asked

"Can you stop in time — stop your car in time to avoid an accident?" This question was posed today by Harry A. Sieben, state traffic safety director, as a reminder that August begins the third month of the national Slow Down and Live program.

Being able to stop in time means having your car under control always; it means driving at a speed that is reasonable for conditions; it means having brakes and tires that are in top-notch condition; it means being continually alert for possible traffic emergencies, Sieben said.

Can YOU Stop in Time? is the theme of the annual summer traffic safety emphasis campaign conducted by the International Association of State and Provincial Safety Coordinators. It covers the main vacation period from Memorial Day to Labor Day.

"People who work for accident prevention are conscious of the many reports that read 'I couldn't stop in time.'" Sieben pointed out. In most every case this should be charged as driver error for not keeping alert and being able to stop in time.

Sieben offered the following rules of driving to be able to stop in time:

1. Stay far enough behind the car in front of you.
2. Prepare to stop well ahead of traffic signals.
3. Know your reaction & braking time for various speeds.
4. Use slower operating speeds at nighttime.
5. Keep your windshields and other glass free of dirt.
6. Approach, enter, turn and cross intersections slowly and cautiously.
7. Don't depend entirely on other drivers' signals.
8. Be prepared for sudden changes of direction or speed of other drivers.
9. Be courteous in yielding the right of way to others.
10. Give proper care and maintenance to brakes.

State Sheriffs to Enforce Boat Laws

Officers to Crack Down on Unlicensed Boats

Boating laws, without exception, will be enforced, was the agreement of the State Sheriff's Committee meeting in the office of Commissioner George A. Selke earlier this week. Tags will replace warnings on license law violations, declared Charles A. Carver, Sheriff's President.

Boat owners are reminded that the effective date for licensing boats was July 1 and sufficient time has now elapsed for all to comply. Boats presently registered under the Coast Guard do not need a Minnesota license, yet approval of the state law is expected shortly when state licensing will become mandatory.

In many areas of the state the crackdown on violators has already commenced. Violations include failure to observe the water-skiing regulation, careless and reckless operation in areas near shore and set aside for swimmers, improper equipment such as lights and mufflers, and disregard for the rules of the road.

VA Explains Terms of Korean GI Bill

Says Students Need Not Report Outside Earnings

Veterans planning to go to school next fall under the Korean GI Bill were reminded today they may earn any amount of money outside of class without jeopardizing their monthly GI allowance.

W. R. Byrd, manager Fargo VA center, said these outside earnings need not be reported to VA.

He explained that some veterans still confuse the Korean GI Bill with the World War II Bill which did have income ceilings on all types of training — in school, on-the-job and on-the-farm.

The only ceiling in the Korean GI Bill affects those veterans taking on-the-job training. When a veteran's on-the-job training wages, plus his GI allowance, exceeds $310 a month VA will scale down the allowance to bring the total within the $310 limit.

Rates for veterans in school full-time under the Korean GI Bill are $110 a month with no dependents; $135 with one dependent, and $160 with more than one. These are the rates that are not affected by outside earnings.

Job training allowances begin at $70 a month with no dependents; $85 with one, and $105 with more than one.

Newfolden Co-op Elevator Enjoys Big Volume in '58

Total of 742,741 Bu. of Grain Was Handled; Net Profit Totals $11,237.53

Patrons of the Newfolden Co-op Elevator Association of Newfolden and Strandquist are reminded that their grain dividend checks will be in the mails around August 1st. For the fourth consecutive year, cash dividends are being paid to stockholders of the association. This year one cent per bushel is being paid on all cash grains marketed during the 1958-59 season. A 5% stock dividend is also being paid.

This was announced at a recent stockholders meeting in Newfolden. President of the board of directors, Emil Dyrud, was in charge of the meeting and introduced Fieldman Alfred Malm of Grand Forks and Jim Wilson of Minneapolis, both men representing the Atwood-Larson Co., grain commission firm.

At the business meeting two directors were elected. Milford Rokke was reelected and Oscar Amundson became a new member of the board to replace Helmer Lind who declined re-nomination. At a later organization meeting of the board of directors, Roy Gast was named secretary to replace Mr. Lind, and Milford Rokke was elected vice president. Other members of the board are Martin Saugen, Ingvald Nyflot and Edmund Elseth.

The association's audit for the past year showed a total combined income of $49,513.40 with a net profit of $11,237.53. The total bushels of grain handled during the past year was 742,741 bu.

Major improvements and changes of the past year were also noted. Several months ago a 40 by 88 foot steel quonset was erected for additional storage space. The plant at Newfolden now has a 112,000 bushel capacity.

Another major development was the purchase of the Strandquist Co-op Elevator from Strandquist stockholders. The transfer of ownership took place Feb. 15. Present space at Strandquist totals 40,000 bu. The Strandquist elevator now goes under the name Newfolden Co-op Elevator Association of Strandquist.

Ray Tunheim is manager of both elevators. At the present time, Irvin Larson is grain buyer at the Strandquist elevator and Kenneth Hjelle continues as assistant manager at Newfolden.

The man who attempts something unusual is generally laughed at, if he fails, and hailed as a great guy if he succeeds.

Editorials . . .

"Commerce is a game of skill, which every man cannot play, which few men can play well. The right merchant is the one who has just the average of faculties we call commonsense; a man of strong affinity for facts, who makes up his decision on what he has seen. He is thoroughly persuaded of the truths of arithmetic. There is always a reason, in the man, for his good or bad fortune; and so, in making money. Men talk as if there were some magic about this, and believe in magic, in all parts of life. He knows that all goes on the old road, pound for pound, cent for cent — for every effect a perfect cause — and that good luck is another name for tenacity of purpose." —Emerson

A New Grain Variety

One morning last week we slipped across the border into Canada to spy on our neighbors and to discover, if possible, some sinister motive behind the visit of the Queen. Disguised as a grandfather struggling with four grandchildren, we had no difficulty in moving about freely among the natives as we walked back and forth between hamburger, ice cream and pop counters.

We came away completely satisfied that Queen Elizabeth is not a menace to the peace of the world and that most of the Canadians are happy with their present form of government. There apparently is no basic difference in the status of a Canadian "subject" and an American "citizen." The Queen serves a useful purpose as a symbol of authority and seems to be just as much a servant of the people as any of our elected public officials.

We did however uncover a plot that may have a far reaching effect on our agricultural economy. By decoding a progress report concealed on the front page of a Canadian newspaper of national circulation we learned that our crafty neighbors are about ready to explode a production bomb that will make our present per-acre yields look like crop failures.

The University of Manitoba has been experimenting with a cross of durum wheat and rye which has produced a new grain that will be harvested in a substantial volume this year. Here are some of the things the researchers say about it:

> If appearance and habits of growth are an accurate gauge, the new grain may have a terrific potential.
> Its bearded grain head is close to twice as long and large as Selkirk, the dominant bread wheat variety on Prairie farms.
> The plant has tremendous vegetative vigor—it grows to heights of between 5 feet and 6 feet, has a strong straw, and is robust in texture and color.
> In yield, plant researchers say, they wouldn't be surprised at 60 bushel to the acre.
> With the caution of men of science, they hazard no forecasts, because its value is still to be proved by trial and test.
> Even if these should be disappointing, the new grain can be made the basis for improvement and ultimately come up with a grain variety to yield on half the land area the same bushelage which comes from present strains.

The university has 100 acres of the new grain under test this year, produced from a volume of only 11 pounds a year ago. This increase was made possible by growing a second crop in California, providing three crops in two growing seasons.

With this year's crop available for new experiments we probably will soon learn more about the character of the new grain and the uses for which it is adapted. At any rate it looks like we can quit worrying about a food shortage in the immediate future.

Canadian Potash

Canada is now a producer of potash, a Saskatchewan plant having recently started production. It will be competitive with the long-worked deposits of New Mexico thruout the northern states and as far south as Virginia.

We have a direct interest in this operation in that a big tonnage will be routed thru here over the Soo Line. Division superintendent Ed Hamerski expects the daily shipments through here to total well over 30 carloads as the production is stepped up to the plant capacity.

As the vast resources of Canada are developed we move closer to the center of activity.

Duluth A Busy Port

From May 3 through July 9 the port of Duluth had docked 92 foreign ships. The activity has greatly exceeded all expectations. The volume of grain shipments is double the total hoped for.

In its Business Review published June 24, the Bank of Montreal pointed up some of the difficulties that had been encountered in the first stages of the operation. It remembered that much of the opposition to the Seawny had come from interests which feared the changing transportation pattern would cause losses of an enduring nature to certain regions and communities. But it concluded:

"Past experience throughout the world has shown that any major new transport link which contributes to further economic growth tends to benefit all in the long run. Substantial expansion of sea-borne commerce implies growth potential that may well make up for such temporary losses as may be experienced by particular carriers and areas as the more immediate result of the Seaway opening.

"For not only will the new channel connect lake and ocean-going shipping as the name Seaway applies, it will, in effect, extend shoreline trade between continental points.

"The national well-being of both Canada and United States cannot fail to benefit from the inception of this great international trade route."

Verbalizing the Language

(Christian Science Monitor)

While frivolizing our way through the amusement columns of a paper that sometimes comes our way, we came upon a sentence that made us realize we are behind the times in turning other parts of speech into verbs. It read:

"Michael Rennie, in the role of a debonair man-about-town, gifts Barbara Rush with a necklace. . . ."

Previously we had thought this verbalizing movement was confined to such Madison Avenue-isms as "formalize" and "finalize;" and such show-business talk as "Jack Benny guested on the Dinah Shore show," or "Perry Como hosts the Ames Brothers."

Well, anyway, we were puzzled at the verb "gifts." Why didn't Mr. Rennie just "give" her the necklace? Was it because he wanted to make sure that she "receipted" it rather than merely received it?

Curious, we watched the play. But nothing out of the ordinary happened. Miss Rush did not at any point furniture her room. Debonair as he was, Mr. Rennie did not investment in any stocks, subscription to any explosive magazines, or even donor to any international charities. The two of them didn't even speech to each other or conversation back and forth; they just talked.

We suppose that ever since the Great Vowel Shift, linguists have been worrying about the changing of nouns into verbs—which, after all, is the way we got a great many of our best verbs. So it's probably foolish to fret about continuing the process. But making a noun into a verb in existence — that's too much for us. We just gift up!

A New Look Southward

(Atlanta Journal)

Plans for the establishment of an Inter-American Bank to aid in the economic development of Latin America have been endorsed by President Eisenhower.

At the same time a congressional sub-committee has asked that military aid to these same countries be abolished, a wise move in view of the fact that such aid in the past has lined us up in the popular mind as supporters of extremely unpopular dictatorships.

As for the bank, it is a good thing and was suggested by the Organization of American States. It will be a billion-dollar bank, with the United States furnishing $150,000,000 of its capital. The remainder will be put up by participating countries. It will function as does the World Bank as a prop for faltering economies and as a source of capital to broaden the business bases of these nations, most of which are tied to a one-crop, export economy.

Washington's new look at Latin America and its plans to mend its ways in the field of Pan-American relations is welcome. The Reds are making inroads there at our expense. And as one popular revolt after another deposes dictators whom we have supported, the United States is revealed as its own worst enemy in this hemisphere.

"My good woman," said the man, "when I go to Heaven I expect to leave my breath behind."

Labor Reform Bills

The United States House of Representatives stands on the brink as I write this. The past week has been calmly spent on several pieces of legislation, including the appropriating of $2.65 billion for the Atomic Energy Commission and the authorizing of $3.5 billion for our Mutual Security Program.

However, all of this has been, in a sense, like the calm before the storm. For after many weeks of involved hearings, the House Committee on Education and Labor is ready to report out a labor-management reform bill, one of the main issues of this Session of the Congress. It is being said that the bill is greatly "watered-down" from the Kennedy-Ervin measure passed some months ago by the Senate, and fireworks can be expected on the Floor of the House.

As we prepare for this "battle," I would like to quote a statement made by Congressman "Jerry" Ford of Michigan. To me it is nothing more nor less than just plain common sense.

"We have criminal laws in every state not to plague law-abiding citizens but to protect them. Criminal laws in any area are aimed at penalizing only the crooks, but they are essential in order to protect the vast majority of good and dedicated citizens. As strong criminal laws do not injure the law-abiding citizen, a strong labor reform law will not hinder honest union leaders nor will it hamper legitimate union activity."

Three Million Miles Per Hour!

A new space engine capable of speeds up to 3 million miles per hour is being worked on by space scientist Y. C. Lee and a staff of fifty scientists. The Chinese-born scientist, head of the space technology division of a U.S. rocket manufacturing plant, says that once in space, the engine will increase its speed three feet every second, reaching its top velocity in about a month. The propulsion system depends upon ejection of tiny electrically charged particles, with the electrical energy needed to charge the fuel's particles being supplied by small nuclear reactors which Lee expects to be perfected by the time his engine is ready to go into operation. Thus another almost unbelievable chapter is being added to the story of America in the Space Age.

YOUR SENATOR REPORTS

from the Desk of SENATOR
HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

A great white fleet—Last week a major effort was launched, after more than year of planning and study, when I introduced, with the support of Senator Geo. Aiken (R., Vt.) and 33 other Senators, a Senate Concurrent Resolution calling on the President to establish a White Fleet of mercy ships taken out of our "mothball fleet" of inactive Navy ship—designed to operate along the coasts of Asia, Africa and Latin America on rescue mission and on missions of technical assistance and training. The publisher of a national magazine printed last week an article by Commander Frank Mason, USN, who had been working with us in perfecting the details of the proposal, and a great upsurge of public opinion in support of the idea has been the result.

"Friendship-in-being"— Global strategists are fond of discussing the importance of "forces-in-being" to back up American foreign policy, and often point to the fact that our Navy warships "carry the flag" all over the world — a symbol of American strength and preparedness. Teddy Roosevelt, half a century ago, sent an earlier White Fleet around the world on a 3-year voyage, to demonstrate that the U.S. has become a world power. Today, we have an opportunity to send another kind of fleet—also painted white—this time to represent American friendship-in-being, by bringing aid to the stricken, food for the hungry, medical care for the ill, and a message of American good will and sympathy to the people of the developing nations of the world.

Operations—With a re-commissioned Navy hospital ship as its core, a "task group" of the new White Fleet could include two or three cargo ships to carry food and supplies, a power-ship to furnish electric power in cases of disaster, and a small de-mothballed aircraft carrier to permit rescue and training missions via helicopter far inland from the coasts. Such a task group could move 1000 miles in three days, bringing 800-1200 floating hospital beds, emergency rations for 300,000 people for a full week, and power enough to operate a good-sized city. In between disaster missions, the White Fleet ships could conduct public health training and other education programs on a planned month-by-month schedule.

Cooperative task — The Fleet could be operated by the private voluntary non-profit agencies and church groups already doing so much good around the world, with the support of the Navy and other U.S. governmental agencies. For an expenditure of between $10 million and $15 million a year, the U.S. government could provide the ships and operating personnel to enable the private agencies to carry out their wonderful work aboard, and operating from, two task groups of such a White Fleet.

Ask us how to put the house in the picture

Chances are, if you're like most people, the two important things you need to get a home are money for a down payment and a loan to make up the difference. Our association specializes in helping you get both these things. In fact, there's no more ideal place you could go for home financing help. And here's why:

1. We know more about home loans because we make more of them—last year, one out of every three home loans throughout the U. S. was arranged by associations like ours.

2. You get friendly understanding and attention to detail from our staff which is experienced in home financing.

3. You repay your loan just like rent. A single monthly repayment is usually set up to include principal, interest and property taxes.

Sharp-tailed Grouse Season Opens Sept. 19

The 1959 hunting seasons on grouse, squirrels, rabbits, hares, and raccoons, were announced today in St. Paul by James W. Kimball, Minnesota game and fish director.

Sharp-tailed grouse may be taken from September 19 to October 18 inclusive, in an area of the state generally north and east of a line running from the extreme northwest corner, south and east through Crookston, Bagley, Park Rapids, Pine River, Brainerd, Foley, Cambridge and terminating at Taylors Falls on the St. Croix River. Sharp-tails may be taken from sunrise to sunset with a bag and possession limit of 3 and 6. Again this year a slight increase in sharptails was noted by department field men, although some local decreases were reported from different locations. As in previous years, in adopting the boundary of the area to be open for sharp-tail shooting, careful attention was given the remaining prairie chicken habitat, which was excluded.

Ruffed grouse may be taken statewide beginning at 'noon on October 3 through November 15 inclusive, with a bag and possession limit of 4 and 8. Most field reports show slight to moderate increases, or numbers similar to last year. Local populations are reported to be "spotty" with a few decreases noted. The statewide population is reportedly on the upswing, however.

Squirrels, both grey and fox, may be taken from 'noon on October 3 to December 31 inclusive, with a bag and possession limit of 7 combined and 14 combined. This year's opening date represents a change from the previously announced fixed opening date of October 17. Action by the recent legislature gave the commissioner of conservation authority to establish squirrel seasons and bag limits. With the statewide squirrel population still high despite some marked local decreases, game officials chose an earlier opening date in order to stimulate greater hunter interest in this small game species. Last year over one-half million squirrels were harvested but authorities report this species continues to be underharvested. Disease outbreaks have been noted in some areas having very high populations.

Rabbits, both cottontail and jacks, may be taken statewide from 'noon on October 3 to March 1 inclusive. A bag and possession limit of ten and twenty has been set for cottontails. No limit has been set on jacks. Field reports show increases again this year in most areas of the state. The skins or hides and flesh of cottontail rabbits cannot be bought or sold at any time.

Snowshoe hares can also be taken statewide from 'noon on October 3 to March 1 inclusive, with a bag and possession limit of ten and twenty. Marked increase in the hare population have been reported.

Raccoon hunting will be allowed statewide, 24 hours a day, beginning at 'noon on October 3 to December 31 inclusive, with no limit on the number of animals that can be taken. Raccoon populations remain at a high level in spite of a general reduction in numbers statewide from last year.

Kimball indicated that 'noon hour opening for ruffed grouse, rabbits, hares, squirrels and raccoons on October 3, was in anticipation of federal waterfowl regulations establishing a 'noon hour duck opener on the same date.

"At this time we have no information at all on the forthcoming waterfowl hunting seasons. We do not expect to receive this information from the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service for several weeks yet," explained Kimball.

Conservation officials indicated that further announcements of seasons on other species will soon be forthcoming.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota
DIRECTOR OF GAME & FISH

What with good fishing throughout most of Minnesota, it is reasonably peaceful around the game and fish office these days. This condition may be altered immediately by announcement of the fall hunting seasons—always excellent topics of debate. Even though no serious mistakes are made, there will be criticism by those who exercise their right as an American to disagree; and if we make a slip, the load of mail brought in by the postman informs us that we have an alert sporting public. This is as it should be, and keeps us constantly striving to set the perfect hunting regulations.

However, I believe few people realize how much time and effort currently go into setting Minnesota's hunting regulations. This is no one-man job, nor is it assigned to any one section within the division of game and fish. The seasons as set represent a composite of the best information available from many sources. Standardized census methods to determine game abundance are used by wardens, game managers and biologists. This material is analyzed by research biologists specializing in the various species of game. Each game warden and game manager makes in addition an appraisal of game conditions in his area, and this information is tabulated and put on special maps. Over 600 sportsmen's clubs are sent questionnaires, and their views on game conditions are also compiled and placed on large state maps.

When all available information has been made ready, a day-long meeting is scheduled in St. Paul. Here the ten warden supervisors, along with the four regional game managers, plus research biologists and staff personnel, spend a full day studying the information and striving to reach agreement on the best possible hunting and trapping seasons for Minnesota.

When it is necessary to establish zones, such as in the case with our deer season, the experience of the field men is particularly valuable. Of course, it is never possible to get a zone exactly where we want it because we must follow highways which can be easily identified by the sportsmen.

Finally, when the proposed regulations are agreed upon by this group they are presented to the Commissioner of Conservation for his consideration and approval. Once approved, the official commissioner's orders are drawn up and the synopsis of the hunting seasons is prepared for printing and distribution. This procedure has been carried out for the past three or four years and seems to be working a little better each year.

Of course, there is plenty of discussion on each season, but this year most everyone was quite well satisfied when a decision was reached. However, do not let this fact discourage you from writing us if you are strongly of the opinion that we have goofed in one way or another. Of course, you will have to convince us that we have made a serious blunder; and remember, it is virtually impossible to set seasons for each and every local area. However, you will get a reply explaining our reasons, and your letter could help us to do a better job next year.

We strive to have better information than the average sportsman, but, come to think of it, I do not recall ever meeting an "average" sportsman. Reminds me of the story about the crotchety old timer who says, "I hear them fellers in St. Paul are settin' the huntin' seasons. I don't know what the seasons are gonno be, but whatever they are, I'm gonna be bitter about it."

Actually, in recent years we get few critical letters and many which are truly helpful. We try to include the reasons for regulations when they are announced, but we are glad to explain further if you are not satisfied. We particularly welcome any suggestion for improvement.

Minneapolis Man New Head of State Legion

The new commander of the Minnesota American Legion is Carl L. Lundgren of Minneapolis, the man who led a move permitting his predecessor to remain in office an additional month.

In other business before the Legion convention at Winona adjourned Saturday, delegates adopted a resolution opposing subsidiary organizations which restrict membership to white persons. The 1960 convention was awarded to Moorhead.

Lundgren, 62, a mortuary executive, succeeds Robert G. Hansen of Madison as commander. Hansen, formerly of Thief River Falls, will remain in office through the national legion convention in Minneapolis next month.

The resolution on color asks that the national Legion constitution and bylaws be amended to provide that the Legion not recognize any subsidiary which denies membership to any person because of race, creed or color. The 40 & 8, Legion fun organization, has restricted membership to "white males."

In the only election where there was a contest, The Rev. Ezra Meckel of Fergus Falls was elected chaplain over the Rev. John Ballentine of St. James.

Mrs. Gene Lindquist, Clarissa, was elected president of the women's auxiliary.

Legion officers chosen included vice commanders John Green, St. Paul; Sig Qvale, Austin; Phil Kjaglien, Fergus Falls; Mark Schafer, Clearwater; and Glenn Nielsen, Wheaton; national committeeman Dan Foley, Wabasha, and Sergeant-at-arms Harry G. Hall, Austin.

Mrs. John H. Christensen, Minneapolis, was elected first vice president of the auxiliary and Mrs. Merrill K. Smith, Elmore, became second vice president.

Our children love Sundays. First, of course, there is church. Afterwards, in good weather, we often have a "backyard picnic."

For me, this outing comes after a morning when I have completed one of the most important tasks of my week — preaching a sermon to my congregation. Yes, I'm a minister. If that surprises you, it shouldn't.

We ministers are people too — just as close as anyone else to pleasure, temptation, anxiety, and all the other things that go to make up life. But God has entrusted us with the task of conveying His message to you. It is a tremendous task. Yet always I feel blessed that it is mine.

When you see me standing alone in my pulpit on Sundays, do not feel that I am a figure apart from you. Rather, I want to share not only your hours of church attendance but also your moments both of triumph and of trial. I stand ever ready to serve you, to lend you my assistance, my understanding and, should you seek it, my counsel. It is only in this way that I can hope to be worthy of my vocation. Remember, won't you — and call upon me?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

CRASH Clarence Weckworth, who lives near Hazel, was the driver of this semi-trailer rig which apparently went out of control and crashed in the ditch on Highway 59 about a mile and one-half south of Halma Saturday afternoon. The tractor was badly damaged but little damage was caused to the stock van Weckworth was pulling.

Weckworth said he did not know exactly what happened but that suddenly the rig ran off the road, into the ditch. He suffered a broken wrist and scratches.—Photo by Lake Bronson Budget.

Board Leases More Space to Serve Schools

Leases Building on Knight av. for Use of Vocational School

A five-year lease of the former Wennberg welding shop on Knight av. N. for use by the area vocational school as a teaching facility for welding and auto body courses was approved by the Thief River Falls school board at its July meeting at a monthly rental of $250.

The meeting, the first of the new school year, also resulted in the calling for bids for equipment for the aircraft and engine school at the airport and the approval of the contract of Elwood Ehrenstrom, former airport manager, as instructor of the course.

The contract of William Moeglein of Little Falls as a physics and science instructor was approved. Moeglein, who formerly taught at Stillwater, is a graduate of Gustavus Adolphus college.

Two resignations were accepted by the board. Bruce Reski, who taught mathematics and science at Lincoln high school and some courses in the area vocational school, has joined the state civil defense organization, and John Matchefts, physical education instructor and hockey coach, has joined the Eveleth high school staff.

Raymond Henderson's contract as director of elementary education, was approved by the board in earlier action. Henderson, who was at Northfield four years, was full time supervising principal and assistant to the director of elementary education at Austin.

1.4 In. Rain Sunday Night Puts Halt to Combining in Area

Rain Will Be of Benefit to Late Grain, Pastures, Gardens and Lawns Here

Following a day of partly cloudy weather and a high temperature of 84, thunderstorms Sunday night dropped a total of 1.4 inches of rain on the Thief River Falls area calling a momentary halt to harvest operations.

The rain, the first since July 22, was welcome to homeowners who had watched their lawns slowly drying up and to farmers who had watched many of their crops suffering from the lack of moisture. In southern counties, many farmers have started cutting some of their crops for use as silage after an extended dry spell.

The KTRF forecast is for partly cloudy weather today and tonight with widely scattered thundershowers. Warmer weather is expected in the southern counties.

Little temprature change is expected tonight and tomorrow but the humidity is expected to be high.

The high temperature today is expected to be from 85 to 92 and the low tonight from 65 to 70.

The ceremony took place at the St. Francis Xavier Catholic church at Oklee at 10 a.m. before 250 relatives and friends. Miss Elizabeth Bachand of Brooks, friend of the bride, was at the organ. The church choir sang "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother" during the ceremony.

Entering in on the arm of her father, the bride wore a floor length kown of Chantilly lace and net over satin, accented with inserted pressed flowers. It featured a stand-up collar and long sleeves, which came to a point at the hand. A Juliet crown trimmed with sequins and carnations, held her fingertip veil in place and she carried a cascade bouquet of red Happiness roses and ivy.

Mrs. Lester Champagne of Cudahy, Wis., sister of the bride, was matron of honor, followed by Miss Beverly Mattison, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Carol LeFabvre, sister of the bride of Minneapolis. They were attired in identical ballerina length gowns of white Chantilly lace over light blue net and taffeta. The gowns were accented with square scalloped necklines and puffed sleeves. Their pearl necklaces were gifts of the bride and they carried colonial bouquets of red Happiness roses and white carnations and mums.

Lester Champagne of Cudahy, Wis., brother-in-law of the bride, served as bestman with Darryl Skallet of Thief River Falls and Roger Mattison of Plumer as groomsmen. Ushers were James Jaeger of Plummer and Len Fehr of Lawton, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. LeFebvre entertained 85 relatives and friends at a dinner reception at the Kalinowski Chicken House at Terrebonne following the ceremony. A four tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, centered the bridal table. Mrs. Kalinowski baked and decorated the cake.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Ed Perreault and Miss Eva Chanest, aunts of the bride, cutting the cake, while June Sordahl and Janice Paquin of Oklee served as waitresses. Mrs. James Jaeger, sister of the bride, was at the guest book while Eileen Lefebure, Mary Wichterman and Sherryl Rewertz arranged the gifts.

For their honeymoon trip to Winnipeg, Kenora, Nestor Falls and the area, the bride chose a black and white sheath dress with black accessories.

Both the bride and the bridegroom are graduates of Pershing high school at Plummer. Mr. Mattison is now employed as a lathe operator for Ladish company in Cudahy, Wis. Mr. and Mrs. Mattison will make their home at 802 Elm St., So. Milwaukee, Wis.

Relatives and friends from Stephen, Minneapolis, Red Lake Falls, Thief River Falls, Rochester, Plummer, Grand Rapids and Baudette, Minn., Winnipeg, Canada, and Lawton, Okla., attended the wedding.

Verna Amundson Becomes Bride of Arley Schultz

Miss Verna Amundson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Amundson of Ulen and Arley Schultz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erdmann Schultz of Red Lake Falls, were united in holy matrimony Sunday, July 12, at the Betlehem Lutheran church in Ulen, Minn.

The double ring, candlelight ceremony was officiated by Rev. Thomas Boe, before an altar graced with blue delphiniums. Mrs. Justin Llemetson served as organist and accompanied Mrs. Harvey Olson as she sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride, entering on the arm of her father, was attired in a floor length gown of chantilly lace and tulle over bridal satin. It featured a sweetheart neckline on a fitted bodice of seed pearls and irridescents and a bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by an irridescent crown and she carried a white Bible topped with roses. Her pearl necklace was a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Robert Arvidson, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, wearing a ballerina length gown of blue chiffon over blue taffeta. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Richard Weiss, sister of the bridegroom and Linda Amundson, sister of the bride, junior bridesmaid, following in ballerina gowns of white chiffon over blue taffeta. Each attendant wore a matching headband and carried a bouquet of blue carnations.

Little Sherry Weiss, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl, attired in a floor length gown of white flocked nylon over white taffeta with a blue sash. Kant Schultz served as ringbearer.

Attending the bridegroom as bestman was Duane Amundson, brother of the bride with Robert Amundson and John Amundson, brothers of the bride, as groomsmen. Ushers were Edgar Wirjum and Norman Busse, cousins of the bride and bridegroom, with Lowell Schuhmacher and Gary Weiss, nephews of the bridegroom, serving as candlelighters.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Amundson chose a blue dress with white accessories as did Mrs. Schultz. Their corsages were of red roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors for relatives and friends. Mrs. Delbert Schuhmacher, sister of the bridegroom, assisted by Mrs. LaVern Schultz, cut and served the four tiered wedding cake, which was baked by Inez Opsahl. Pouring was Mrs. Rolo Lewis, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Walter Wolff, aunt of the bridegroom. Waitresses were Mary Ellen Twalt, Corinne Amundson, Lois Lewis, Carol Lewis, Mrs. Owen Braseth and Mrs. Byron Braseth. Elaine Harstad, friend of the bride, was at the guest book with Hope Kvidt and Mrs. Warren Bennet at the gift table.

Following a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls and New York City, Mr. and Mrs. Schultz are making their home near Red Lake Falls, where the bridegroom is engaged in farming.

The bride is a graduate of Moorhead State college and has been teaching in Thief River Falls.

Legion Juniors Enter District Play at Ada

With righthander Arlan Hjelle turning in a no-hit, no-run 18-strikeout pitching performance, and with catcher Jim Wegge banging out three hits in three trips to the plate and driving in four runs, coach Ralph Skay's juniors defeated the Roseau juniors, 8 to 0, in the finals of the sub-district American Legion baseball tournament at Warren on Friday night.

The local club, as a result of their win over Roseau, will represent this area in the district Legion tourney to be held at Ada on Saturday and Sunday.

Friday night's finals game at Warren was, for four innings, a tight pitcher's duel between the local club's Hjelle and Roseau's sturdy southpaw, Don Ross. Ross, after giving up a single to Jim Wegge in the first inning, pitched hitless and runless ball until the last half of the fifth inning. In the fifth, Gary Anderson led off with a solid double to right-center. Anderson stole third; Jerry Larson was given a base on balls; Gary Klungness drew a walk to load the bases. Wegge singled to right field, scoring Anderson and Larson. Hjelle's ground ball eluded the Roseau shortstop, and Paul Klungness sprinted in with another tally. Mike McEnelly's short fly into right field fell safely for a single, again filling the bases. Eddie Lietzow whiffed, and Paul Saurdiff ended the inning by grounding to third baseman Larry Stordahl, who tagged third base to force Wegge.

In the sixth inning, off the southpaw slants of Dave Becklund, the locals rapped out four hits, which, with a pair of Roseau errors, scored five runs. Singles by Anderson, Wegge and Lietzow and a double by Paul Klungness, together with a pair of muffed fly balls, chalked up the five-run cluster. Due to American Legion tournament regulations restricting any one pitcher from pitching more than 12 innings in a tournament, Roseau's Don Ross, who had pitched seven innings in Roseau's 7 to 1 win over East Grand Forks on Wednesday, was replaced in the sixth inning by Dave Backlund.

Thieves Tie for Lead; Trim Cass Lake 20-7

In a game that was mercifully halted by rain as the Thieves were due to bat in the last half of the eighth inning, manager John Drury's club, on Sunday night, moved into a first place tie in the Northern Minny league standings by scoring a lop-sided 20 to 7 win over the Cass Lake team. The Thieves and Cass Lake are deadlocked for the league lead, with each team having an eight wins and three losses record.

The Thieves will engage in a pair of exhibition games this week, meeting the Ada Athletics at Ada on Wednesday night, and playing the Fertile team here on Thursday night.

The result of Sunday night's game at the Fair Grounds diamond was resolved early when the Thieves hammered lefty Jerry Daniels off the mound in the second inning, scoring seven runs. Daniels, who has been having difficulty in his assignments against the Thieves, gave up a run in the first inning on a walk to Arlan Hjelle, a stolen base, and Marv Mansfield's single.

In the second frame, Gene Leslie doubled, Harley Drees walked, Rod Max singled; Hjelle struck out; Drury singled; Mansfield strolled; Glenn Carlson also walked; Frank Gunderman singled, and that blow drove Daniels off the mound and brought in lanky Terry Bohler, also a southpaw potcher. Charley Kankel greeted Bohler with a base-clearing double; Leslie, for the second time in the inning, singled; Drees was out on a sacrifice; and Hjelle skied to right field.

The Thieves added six runs in the fourth inning, and put together a five-run cluster in the sixth inning, to take a 19 to 3 lead.

Cass Lake nudged Leslie's offerings for three hits and four runs in the seventh inning, but that proved to be their final flurry.

The Thieves' capable shortstop, Harley Drees, was hit by pitched ball in the sixth inning, catching one of Bohler's southpaw slants behind the ear. He was rushed to hospital for x-ray, and the reports are that he was not seriously injured. As a precautionary measure he was kept in the hospital overnight for observation.

Northrop Indians Win Title in Grade School Baseball

Defeat Knox School Team in Championship Finals by Scores of 22-8, 10-2

The grade school baseball league playoffs were held at the East Side diamond last week, and the Northrop Indians won the city championship.

In first-round elimination play, Northrop, by a 14 to 2 score, defeated Washington; and the Knox Tigers, by a 6 to 2 score, bested the St. Bernard's Broncos.

In the championship finals, which was to have been a best-of-three series, the Northrop Indians closed out the series with two straight triumphs. In the first game, Northrop trounced Knox, 22 to 8; and in the second game the Northrop team scored a 10 to 2 win.

Joe Mrkonich, of the Prowler athletic staff, was the supervisor of the grade school baseball program.

With but one match of the 1959 schedule remaining on the slate, and that the contest against the Pharmacy on Thursday, Don Olson's Coast-to-Coast squad holds a one-point lead over the defending champion and runner-up Times team, and a two-point lead over the third place Northern Chevrolet squad.

In Thursday's "crucial" match between the Coast-to-Coast and the Northern Chevrolet, the Coast-to-Coast eked out a 111 to 109 win over the Chevy's. George Hale, with an 18-8, had the lone "25" for the winners, while Erling Torgerson posted a 24-3 for the losers.

The Times moved up into second place in the league standings by scoring a 113 to 111 over Tony Dorn's Pharmacy team. Leif Erickson had a 22-3 for the Times, while Ray Johnson notched a 22-3 for the losers.

The Oen's Appliance, with a pair of "25's" on the score-sheet, scored by Orvis Oen, with a 20-6, and Gordon Oen, with a 19-6, defeated the Statekow Clinic, 118 to 103.

The Wilson Bros. marked up a 117 to 108 win over Dr. Jim Disse's squad. Sandy Wilson carded a 23-2 for the match's lone "25."

Arlan's No-Hitter

The event of the week, of course, was righthander Arlan Hjelle's no-hit and no-run performance as he pitched coach Ralph Skay's local junior baseball team to an 8 to 0 win over the Roseau Juniors in the finals of the American Legion's sub-district baseball tournament at Warren on Friday night. It was a gem, and it marked the first time since his Peewee baseball days that he, Arlan, has tossed a no-hitter.

During the past season he has put a couple of no-hitters into the record book, having held the Warren high school team and the Bemidji Juniors to a lone hit each. In the Warren game, Arlan had a no-hitter moving into the seventh inning with two men out and two strikes on pinch-hitter Dan Mauch, when the Warren batsman punched out a clean single to right field.

To show the mastery that Hjelle had over the Roseau batsmen on Friday night, we'll give a resume of the game: in the first inning, Jeff Vacura struck out, swinging; Dave Backlund walked; Jerry Hovda struck out, swinging; Don Ross, a powerful youngster who is a home run threat at the plate, walked; and Larry Stordahl struck out, swinging. In the second inning, Rod Nelson, Dave Peterson and Paul Dorwart were set down on strikes and they all fanned on the third strike.

In the third inning, Gary Johnson and Vacura were strikeout victims, swinging; Backlund drew a pass; and Hovda was called out on strikes.

Leading off in the fourth inning, Ross lofted a high infield fly that Hjelle gathered in for the putout; Stordahl fanned, and Nelson was called out on strikes. In the fifth inning, Peterson and Dorwart were retired on swinging strikeouts; Johnson drew a walk; and Vacura, for the third time in the game, was a whiff victim, waving at the third strike.

Backlund and Hovda, in the sixth inning, were swinging strikeouts. Ross dribbled a slow roller down the first-base line, and was out on a nifty play, Hjelle to Mike McEnelly. And in the game-ending seventh inning, Stordahl and Nelson were called out on strikes; Peterson, on a three-and-two call, drew a walk; and then Dorwart colsed out the game by lifting a pop fly that was taken by shortstop Eddie Lietzow.

Softball's Big Night

From all the publicity we have been receiving, and the noises we have been hearing on LaBree and Main, it is evident that one of softball's biggest nights will be held on the East Side diamond on Thursday, August 6. That's the date of the Bridgeman's vs. Bjorkman's game.

The Bridgeman's Half-pints drum and bugle corps will put on a marching exhibition just prior to the game. The Bridgeman's, too, will provide popsicles to the younger fans; and Bjorkman's will award gift certificates to some lucky fans.

Bob Carlson of the Bridgeman's team announced that John Drury will hurl against Bjorkman's. Manager Lowell Collins of the Bjorkman's, of course, will go with his veteran righthander, Milt Reterson, and in his last outing, against the Bums, Milt tossed a no-hitter.

On Monday night, that is tonight, August 3, the Bridgeman's will travel to McIntosh for a game against the McIntosh all-stars. The game will start at 9:00 p.m.

And next Saturday night, August 8, the Hamm's Beer and the Bridgeman's will replay their 16 to 4 game of last week. The Hamm's protested that game on the grounds that the game of June 9 should have been replayed in its entirety instead of being resumed from the third inning, and with the Bridgeman's holding an 8 to 2 lead. The protest was upheld, and the two teams will replay this disputed game on Saturday evening.

A Costly Exhibition

The Thief River Falls Thieves played an exhibition game at Fertile on Thursday night, and they lost by a 5 to 4 score. But the loss of the game was minor compared to the loss, for the balance of the season, of peppery catcher Jack Junker.

In the 8th inning, Junker, who is a hard-running and aggressive ball player, made a steal of second base, and as he came in to the bag he jammed his ankle. At first it was feared that some bones had been broken, but x-rays failed to reveal any fractures. Further examination revealed that he had wrenched and torn several tendons in his foot, and as a result he will be incapacitated for a month or so.

Red Lake Indians Face Bums Aug. 5

Wally Grovum's Bums, the champions of the Pen-Ro-Shall league, concluded their season's play on Sunday afternoon by scoring a 3 to 2 win over the Plummer Red Sox in a game played on the Plummer diamond.

The Bums are scheduled to play a return game against the Red Lake Indians on the Fair Grounds diamond on Wednesday night, Aug. 5. In a game played at Red Lake last week, the Indians defeated the Bums, 8 to 3.

Mrs. Erickson of Ward Store Wins in Sales Contest

Mrs. Gladys Erickson of the children's department at the Montgomery Ward store here has recently been awarded a Ward Sales Leadership club emblem. Mrs. Erickson received the emblem for being among the 100 winners in a nation-wide Montgomery Ward sales contest in which 25,000 salespeople competed.

Winners were determined on the basis of the best sales performance for the three month period ending June, 1959.

According to Don Kuglin, manager of the local store, these quarterly sales contests have been held since 1937 and competition is quite keen among salespeople.

Entertaining Horse Races Staged at Fair

One of the features of the Pennington county fair was the attractive and entertaining program of horse racing held late Thursday afternoon.

The six-event program, arranged by Al Holzknecht and his committee on horse racing, was high-lighted by the ¾ mile event, which was won by Glen Stewarts' horse, Breakover. In this event, Peggy F. a black mare owned by Lloyd Edgar of Warren, and Tiger's Advice, a rangy mare owned by Mrs. Minnie Olds, were on one-two position out of the starting gate and past the stands on the first turn. Breakover, ably ridden by Bob Stewart, held in third position until the back stretch when he moved up to take the lead. Breakover and Peggy F came down the home stretch in a neck-and-neck duel, and Breakover won by a head.

In the 5/8 mile event, Cloquet Ladd, a rangy horse owned by Mrs. Minnie Olds, outlasted Al Holzknecht's mare, Lady Locke, to win in the time of 1:05.5.

In the tri-county event, George Duden's Black Boy, given a fine ride by Phil Ellingsworth, barely edged out Joe Solney's C. Struck. A spectacular feature of this race was the exhibition of bareback riding that Clark Carpenter gave on the Palomino mare Pretty Gal. The mare came out of the starting gate with a rodeo-style buck and rearing, and Carpenter was given a thorough jolting for the one-quarter mile that he was able to keep astride.

The summaries:

Shetland pony race — won by Lloyd Edgar's pony, ridden by Kathleen Nelson.

Welch pony race — won by Roger Duden's pony, ridden by Steve Brandreit.

5/8-mile event — won by Cloquet Ladd, ridden by Dick Kelly, owned by Mrs. Minnie Olds; second, Lady Locke, ridden by Bob Stewart, owned by Al Holzknecht; third, Peggy F, ridden by Gary Jenkins, owned by Lloyd Edgar. Time—1:5.5.

Tri-county event, ¼ mile — won by Black Boy, ridden by Philip Ellingsworth, owned by George Duden; second, C. Struck, ridden by Steve Brandreit, owned by Joe Solney; third, Daisy Merit, ridden by Archie Porters, owned by George Duden. Time—31.8.

State History Group Given Indian Museum

A museum of the North American Indian will be established at historic Kathio on the west shore of Mille Lacs lake, it is announced by the Minnesota Historical Society.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Ayer, owners of the Indian Trading Post, near Vineland, have made the new museum project possible through an extraordinary gift to the Society. This gift includes an outstanding collection of Indian materials, gathered by Mr. Ayer over a period of fifty years, a new building in which to display it, 104½ acres of land along scenic Mille Lacs, the Trading Post, and a trust fund sufficient to operate the museum.

Leonard Lampert Jr., president of the Minnesota Historical Society, in accepting the gift, expressed gratitude to the Ayers for their great contribution to the people of Minnesota: "The Society feels that this museum, which you have so generously given, will be numbered among the finest of its kind in the United States."

Although the major part of the Ayer collection is Chippewa, at least a dozen other North American Indian tribes, including the Sioux, are represented.

The location of the new Indian museum is fortunate from an historical point of view, for on its site, centuries before, was the ancient village of Kathio, Strandhold of the Dakota (Sioux) nation before 1750, Kathio was the dwelling place of the ancestors of Sitting Bull, Crazy Horse and Little Crow, great Sioux warriors. At Kathio, in about 1740, the two traditional enemies, the Chippewa and the Sioux, engaged in a decisive battle in which the Sioux suffered defeat. This fascinating story will be told in an exhibit.

Plans are already being made for the new Museum of the North American Indian, and the Minnesota Historical Society hopes to announce the opening within a few months. In the meantime, many of the items given to the Society by the Ayers may be seen at the Indian Trading Post now open near Vineland. Mr. and Mrs. Orval Herington, of Onamia, operators of the Trading Post in recent years, will continue to manage the post and oversee this museum under the new arrangement with the Minnesota Historical Society.

Fosston OK's Bond Issue for Hospital

Voters Tuesday Approve Issuing $280,000 Bonds

Voters in Fosston approved by an overwhelming majority the proposition of building a new hospital in a special election last Tuesday.

By a vote of 276 to 72 they authorized the issuing of municipal bonds in the amount of $280,000 for the purpose of financing Fosston's share in a new city hospital.

In previous action, the present hospital association, made up of business and professional men of Fosston and famers of the surrounding area, voted to turn over all facilities, cash and building of the present hospital when and if the city made necessary arrangements to build a new hospital.

Such arrangements have now been made.

Representavies of the State Board of Health, including the state engineer, Mr. Slagle, are expected in Fosston in the near future to help the local committe select the site for the hospital.

150 Law Officers Meet Wednesday in Detroit Lakes

FBI Agent and Highway Patrol Chief Speak at Summer Meeting of Group

Over 150 law enforcement officers from the Minnesota and North Dakota counties bordering the Red River attended the summer quarterly meeting of the Red River Valley Peace Officers associations held Wednesday at the Erie 34 club in Detroit Lakes.

A pistol shoot opened the meeting in the morning, followed by a program in the afternoon and a banquet in the evening.

William (Bill) Williams, Minneapolis, special agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was the principal speaker at the evening meeting.

Title of his speech was: "The Use of Firearms in Law Enforcement."

Officials of the University of Minnesota staged a lie detector demonstration in the afternoon.

They pointed out that in lie detection interrogation of the subject is more important than the mechanical devices which are employed.

Generally speaking, they went on, the lie detector test is reliable where the individual is bright enough to know the difference between right and wrong.

Other speakers on the program included:

Ted Telander, St. Paul, assistant director of the Minnesota state board of parole and probation, who told about the new corrections bill. Telander is formerly of Detroit Lakes.

Paul Martz, St. Paul, head of the Minnesota state highway patrol, who discussed problems involved in highway patroling.

Stub Noonan, St. Paul, superintendent of the Minnesota state crime bureau, who talked about police schools which are being set up throughout the state by the crime bureau.

Minnesota Banks Increase Farmers' Credit Services

Union State Bank Head Reports on Survey by American Bankers Assn.

Minnesota banks were serving farmers with more credit than any institutional group of lenders on January 1 of this year according to John J. Womack, president, Union State bank, who represents the Minnesota Bankers association as Pennington county associate councilman. During 1958, the state's banks maintained their leadership in farm production credit services.

Based on the eighteenth annual farm lending summary by the agricultural commission of the American Bankers Association, Mr. Womack reported that "at the beginning of the year Minnesota bankers were helping farmers with $274,182,000 in loans—10 per cent more than a year previous. The total included $211,026,000 in production loans and $63,156,000 in agricultural mortages.

On the same date $129,087,000 in agricultural loans were held by insurance companies; $105,617,000 by federal land banks; $36,279,000 by production credit associations; and $11,0003,000 in nonreal estate loans plus $13,166,000 in real estate loans by the Farmers Home Administration. More than 80 per cent of the production credit extended by lending institutions to Minnesota farmers came from banks."

State to Spend Half Billion in Two Years

For the first time in its history, the State of Minnesota will spend more than half a billion dollars — $510,674,000 — during the coming two-year period. The total, which does not include expenditures for highways or other activities not normally included in the state budget, represents a $57 million increase over the comparable 1957-1959 appropriations.

Of this spending, more than 84% — $430 million — will go for education and public welfare.

Charles P. Stone, general counsel for the Minnesota Taxpayers association, called attention to these facts today in issuing a new supplement to "Fiscal Facts for Minnesotans," the Association's compilation of statistical data on state government.

"The increase in appropriations actually total $69 million more than the comparable bills for the previous biennium," Stone pointed out. "But the miscellaneous appropriations total some $18 less, due largely to the fact that this time only $2½ million instead of $15 million was appropriated for the Korean bonus.

"The largest single increase is in the appropriations for education, which are more than $33 million greater than that in 1957," Stone continued. "The second highest increase is for public welfare — $10 million greater than 1957.

"The almost $52 million appropriation for state buildings, although $3 million less for the coming two years than for the previous two-year period, still continues to be a major item in state spending," Stone said. "This phase of state government activity is not included in the above $510½ million figure because it is financed by borrowing, to be repaid by a state mill levy on property. With 1955 and 1957 appropriations of $28 million and $55 million for this purpose, the cumulative effet of these continued tax hites already is begining to be felt by our over-burdened property tax payers."

Editorials . . .

This is the true joy of life, the being used for a purpose recognized by yourself as a mighty one, the being thoroughly worn out before you are thrown on the scrapheap, the being a force of nature instead of a feverish little clod of ailments and grievances complaining that the world will not devote itself to making you happy. —G. B. Shaw

Nick and Dick

Reporters traveling in the Soviet Union with Vice President Nixon are in almost unanimous agreement that his mission has been a success, according to James Reston of the New York Times. These reporters are both competent and critical, and their verdict may be accepted as a fair appraisal of his conduct and the reaction of the Russian people.

In his farewell address, delivered in Moscow Saturday night, Mr. Nixon made a masterful appeal for peace and understanding. Press, radio and television facilities had been made available to him and probably no representative of a western power has ever had the opportunity to speak directly to so large a Soviet Union audience. This was the first appeal by an American official, expressing the point-of-view of the American people on controversial problems, to reach the people with the consent of the Soviet authorities.

It was a forceful but friendly speech, expressed in simple terms that all could understand. He did not equivocate. He met the issues head-on and discussed them frankly and fairly. "Let our aim be not victory over other peoples," he said, "but the victory of all mankind over hunger, want, misery and disease, wherever it exists in the world."

In the interests of world peace he proposed:

More contacts between American and Soviet officials—which some observers took as another hint of a Khrushchev-Eisenhower meeting.

Regular broadcasts to each other's countries by the American President and the Soviet Premier.

An end to Soviet jamming of American broadcasts and a freer flow of new publications to both countries.

Agreement that all of Khrushchev's and Mr. Eisenhower's foreign policy speeches be printed in each other's country.

More study of the Russian and English languages by students.

A sharply expanded program of cultural exchange and tourist traffic.

Scientific cooperation between Russian and American scientists.

Mr. Nixon's visit to the Soviet Union may be the beginning of a new approach to the problems upon which our governments differ. Observers are hopeful that it will lead to an exchange of visits by Premier Khrushchev and President Eisenhower, a possible preliminary to a summit meeting at which progress would be made in the easing of tensions that now are so threatening.

Mr. Nixon's visit has served a good purpose. He handled himself well under circumstances that at times were trying but apparently the visit ended with Nick and Dick getting along fairly well together.

Big League Baseball?

Baseball fans of outstate Minnesota are thrilled with the prospect of a major league club in the Twin Cities. Proposals for a new Continental League, to start its game schedule in 1961 with world series participation starting in 1963 or 1964, are now getting serious consideration.

The discouraging thing about the present prospect is the possibility that the Minneapolis-St. Paul team would be a Twin Cities team in name only. Up to now it seems to be strictly a Minneapolis venture and St. Paul is resentful of the probability that all of the games would be played at the Minneapolis park.

Our guess is that the Minneapolis-St. Paul team has little chance for success unless a central location can be agreed upon. To start with, the third league will be looked upon by many as just another "minor," and it will take a few years of successful operation to establish the prestige of the league itself. And unless the Minneapolis-St. Paul club has the enthusiastic support of the ball fans of both cities it will be a weak link in the new chain.

Citizens of Minneapolis and St. Paul should keep in mind that they have obligations to the rest of the state, and to the large area beyond the borders of our state, that they serve. We would suggest that they approach other problems in which the area has an interest as they did the airport problem. One airport, located conveniently for both cities, has served well the best interests of the area.

Both cities would benefit, as would the hinterland, if one great sports arena, centrally located, were provided, making available facilities that would encourge not only big league baseball but activities of other kinds. The present leaders in the Twin Cities who are responsible for the present situation have been discouragingly provincial in their approach to the problem.

'Equal Time' Absurdity

(San Francisco Chronicle)

The FCC has refused to reverse its "equal time" ruling in the Lar Daly case. This leaves it up to Congress to change the rule in the interest of the public's right to news on the air.

Lar Daly is a perennial candidate for Mayor of Chicago. He complained to the FCC after a TV station there carried a news program showing the Mayor of Chicago (who is also named Daley) greeting the President of Argentina. The FCC has now said the Federal communications law on "equal time" requires that when one candidate, even if he's an official performing an official act, gets on the air, other candidates have the same right.

This rule obviously clashes with common sense and with every concept of selective editing of legitimate news. We don't doubt the FCC is sincere in interpreting what it thinks the law to be; we do urge that so inflexible a law be changed.

Mustang Slaughter

(Dallas Morning News)

Texans should be among the first to back the move in Congress to halt extreme cruelty in hunting wild horses and burros on federal lands in the West.

There are only about 20,000 mustangs left on these national preserves, according to Montana's Sen. Mike Mansfield. Once identified with Texas in the days of the open range, there are no mustangs left here in their native state. Mustang and burro hunters use low-flying airplanes and motor vehicles to drive the animals out of their retreats in the mountains on federal preserves. Final capture and dragging off to slaughterhouses of the terrified animals are also said to be done inhumanely.

Senator Mansfield and fellow backers of his proposal to outlaw such hunting say that hundreds of thousands of these animals have been butchered to provide canned pet food. Unless checked, the mustang may soon go the way of the buffalo as an almost extinct species.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

Those of us in government constantly seek solutions to problems through legislation or thru administrative action. However, there are some problems of great concern to all of us that cannot be solved either way.

A Problem of Protection

The problem of protecting the health and well-being of the people of Minnesota against the ravages of paralytic polio is one of these. Polio cannot be legislated out of existence nor can an administrative act create a cloak of immunization against polio. To combat this disease effectively requires the cooperate efforts of everyone.

Salk Vaccine

When the Salk vaccine was discovered a few years ago, we thought that at last the weapon to wipe out polio had been found. Actually, the weapon had been found but too many people became complacent and neglected to avail themselves of the Salk vaccine protection. Health Department statistics show that among Minneesotans ten years of age and older, more than half have never received a polio shot.

Iowa Polio Outbreak

The outbreak of polio in our neighboring state of Iowa is a grim reminder to us all that this disease is still very much a threat. News reports indicate that 1959 will be the worst year for polio since 1955.

Minnesota Polio Report

So far, this year in Minnesota, twenty-five polio cases including two deaths, have been reported compared to a total of one a year ago. Although this is well below the number of cases recorded by August during the epidemic years, it should alert us to take action.

Inoculation Drive

I have written letters to the mayors of all Minnesota communities urging them to spearhead a drive to have Minnesotans still without Salk vaccine protection avail themselves of this safeguard. Some communities through the joint efforts of local doctors, health authorities, and civic groups have conducted immunization clinics where residents received Salk vaccine inoculations for a nominal sum.

Never Too Late

We should not disregard the warning that the latest polio outbreaks sound. The Salk vaccine provides the necessary protection against polio and we certainly should take advantage of it. Some people may say that summer is a poor time to be starting polio shots, or that it is too late now to begin. Just because we are entering the polio season, we should not put off getting our shots. It is never to late.

LIBRARY NOTES

Many parents are to be complimented on their children's reading during vacation. With one month left until school begins, why not introduce pleasure reading to your child and, in so doing, he will unconsciously brush up on his reading for the coming term of school. New books at the Library include:

The Art of Llewellyn Jones, by Bonner: Diplomat disappears! F. Townsend Britton, former ambassador to Belgium, vanishes without a trace. FBI notified. Family lawyer baffled.

Belle Out of Order, by Livingstone: The famous "Sunflower Girl" tells her life story. In her 70's she was still determined to "let dust gather on anything but me."

Fire at Sea, by Gallagher: In 1931, on her return voyage the ship Morro Castle was suddenly engulfed in flames. There is strong evidence that this terrible disaster could also have been a weird case of murder and arson.

Seek the fair Land, by Macken: An historical novel of 17th century Ireland. It has excitement, despair, rich humor, and a quiet beauty.

The Tents of Wickedness, by DeVries: A witty and social satire by the author of Comfort Me With Apples.

The Pagan King, by Marshall: In the fifth century kingdoms were won by the sword in England. The romantic legend of King Arthur — are retold in this lively and colorful novel.

For 2c Plain, by Golden: The country's newest front porch philosopher and author of "Only In America" will win more readers and admirers with his second book of essays, commentary and bits on everything from capital punishment to Mae West.

My Philosophical Development, by Russell: The author sketches his intellectual development and credits the men and ideas which were chiefly responsible for shaping his present literary, scientific and social theories.

Surprisingly, that gentle little old lady who never drove over 30 miles an hour was really tough on her car's motor. The fact is that start-and-stop driving at low speeds means the motor doesn't warm up enough for its own good. Sludge forms in the motor oil. Damage to the engine will result.

Most of us do a lot of start-and-stop driving these days, and that's why it's wise to protect with Phillips 66 Trop-Artic* Motor Oil. It flows quickly in a cold engine . . . resists sludge formation . . . then keeps on protecting your motor on long, hot drives.

"Man works from sun to sun, but women's work is never done" the old saying goes. Which is understandable when mother was equipped with a stove like this one.

It was 1850 before the "cook stove" began to replace the fireplace in American homes — a big improvement.

After wood was chopped and the fire kindled, it took a long time to heat up the heavy iron teakettles, pots and pans and, on laundry day, the heavy "irons." And it took equally long for the stove to cool off. Few people would want to return to the old cookstove.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare
University of Minnesota

The Development of Courage

Although a child may naturally be sensitive to possible dangers, he does not inherit definite fears, as of the dark, of snakes or of other animals. A newborn baby quickly lowered or raised will throw out his hands and hold his breath. Later he learns specific fears through accidents or from other children or adults. Parents sometimes contribute to fears in children by the way they discipline them. The dark closet, the bogey man and the policeman are still employed to frighten the child into being good. These appeals may work temporarily, but may do a lot of harm to the child in the long run. It may cause him months and years of discomfort and fear along with a feeling of mistrust of his parents.

Though most parents like to see their children bravely endure physical pain, some parents are teaching their children that crying and carrying on loudly is the more rewarding reaction. This happens when altogether too much sympathy and consoling follows even the slightest fall or bump. All the attention and fuss is only likely to encourage the child to behave in a similar way next time.

Many of the scenes which take place in homes over going to the dentist, submitting to first aid treatment, and taking medicine are more often the fault of the parents than the child. It is surprising how quickly children mirror our own fears and dreads, even though we try carefully to cover them. Parents who refrain from overindulging the child each time he gets a scrape or a bump, parents who set good models in their own conduct, and who are usually calm and matter-of-fact in relation to these things are apt to have children who are courageous and cooperative.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

An Apparent Reason

A week ago, Red Roberts' wife gave birth to a baby boy. Naturally, we went to the hospital to see the new arrival.

We found Red standing (and beaming) in front of the nursery window, saying things like "look—he's got my eyes," and "his chin is shaped exactly like the Missus," and "Yessir, that's my boy."

Just then a nurse whispered, "That Johnson baby is cute, isn't he Mr. Roberts? We'll bring yours out in a minute."

From where I sit, once in a while we all jump to conclusions without knowing the facts. For instance, some people are like that about my favorite beverage—beer. They're quick to say that tea or coffee are best at dinnertime... when the fact of the matter is it's simply a question of choice. Intolerance breeds on ignorance—and we ought to know before we "deliver" an opinion on anything.

Elmer Olson, Sclerosis Victim, Stays Cheerful Altho Confined to Bed

The story of Elmer E. Olson, a former baggageman on the Soo Wheat Line and Duluth Line out of Thief River Falls, who has been disabled by multiple sclerosis since 1954, is told in a recent issue of the Two Harbors Chronicle and Times. With his wife, Lyla, he has lived in Two Harbors since 1953. Mrs. Olson, in a letter to the TRF Times, expressed appreciation for a check received last Monday thru Elmer Zachar of the Trainmen's brotherhood. The Two Harbors paper writes as follows:

ELMER E. OLSON

Ingemar Johannson won the world's heavyweight title from Floyd Patterson on Friday, June 26.

The next day two of Johannson's fans, Carl Degerstedt and Elmer Olson of Two Harbors discussed the fight.

"What did you think of the fight, Elmer?" Degerstedt inquired.

"I haven't been able to read all about it," Olson replied. "The print hurts my eyes."

"Let me read it to you," Degerstedt said, and he proceeded to read the full account of the battle.

One might say there was nothing unusual about the two men's conversation until you realize that both are confined to their beds with crippling diseases, Degerstedt with rheumatoid arthritis and Olson with multiple sclerosis. The conversation was carried on over the telephone and is typical of many that the two men have.

Although both men are unable to get around, their world is not limited by four walls. Television, reading and visitors keep them from becoming too lonely.

Olson, watches television and reads as much as possible although reading tires him to some degree. A sense of humor enables him to enjoy a cartoon in either the newspaper or on television.

Many of the two men's friends say, "If you want to know something and get it right ask Carl or Elmer." There is a lot of truth in the statement, too, as both men have excellent memories of what they read and hear.

The two men are cousins by marriage. Olson's wife, the former Lyla McGowan, is a cousin to Degerstedt. Degerstedt was born in Two Harbors and Olson at Adolph, Minn.

Other things the two men have in common are that both are former railroad employes. Degerstedt started as a messenger boy in 1916, became a switch tender in 1921 and worked his way up to trainman when his illness forced him to retire in 1938.

Olson started as brakeman on the Soo Line in 1929, worked for awhile on the St. Louis-San Francisco Line out of Tulsa, Okla., and worked as section fire patrolman on the Missabe and Northern before returning to the Soo Line where he worked as brakeman and baggage man until he was forced to go on disability leave in 1954. He and his wife moved to Two Harbors from Thief River Falls in 1953.

Olson has limited use of his hands. A year ago he found his coordination made it hard for him to do the simplest task. This spring, however, he was able to try making a design on copper work.

Mrs. Olson is employed as a deputy county clerk at the Lake County court house. During her absence from the home during the day Mrs. Emma Carter, who has an apartment at the Olson home, takes care of the house.

Another thing that the men have in common is that both observe their birthdays in September. Degerstedt will observe his fifty-ninth birthday Sept. 8, and Olson his fifty-first on Sept. 21.

Neither man has a complaining nature, and both are able to discuss their disability frankly. The one thing that makes them different from most people is they possess a great deal more courage.

60 CAMPERS On Sunday afternoon 60 tents were pitched in the tourist park camp area. Most of the campers were families of five or six with one party having nine members. A quick count indicated that most of the campers called Winnipeg their home. For many of the campers this was their second or third trip. One group said that this was their sixth trip to TRF.

First comment the campers made was the improvement of the park by the addition of the comfort station. Next in line they indicated that they liked the shopping facilities, swimming pool, clubs and the friendly local residents.

As to improvements the campers would like to see are more picnic tables, fire places, and a light on the south end of the campers area.

Teachers Voting on Social Security

23,000 to Make Choice on New Retirement Plan

More than 23,000 Minnesota school teachers started voting Friday on whether they want to join the federal Social Security system as individuals under a plan approved by the 1959 legislature.

The program is known as a "split coverage" deal whereby teachers would get part of their pensions from the State Teachers Retirement Assn., where all are members, and the balance from federal funds.

Harvey Groschel, Social Security-retirement director for the department of administration, said that after next January 1 it will be compulsory for new teachers to take on the split coverage. But the legislature left to present members of the retirement fund whether they wanted to take advantage of the federal plan.

Groschel said all ballots will have been mailed by Friday and must be returned before Oct. 30.

Nat'l Foundation Is Fighting Polio

Using Its Resources to Halt Current Epidemic

Nurses and other health personnel, iron lungs, hot-pack machines and other respiratory equipment are being rushed by The National Foundation to polio epidemic-threatened areas across the country especially in Des Moines, Iowa, where a full epidemic now exists and shows no evidence of abating.

A survey released today by The National Foundation (formerly "for Infantile Paralysis") disclosed in addition that the health organization was scouring the country for additional emergency equipment to be sent as replacements for its various "pools" in the event of additional outbreaks or epidemics. Some public health officials have predicted that by the end of this summer, polio will reach its highest peak since 1955.

The March of Dimes organization reported that, as of last Monday, July 20, 1959 it had dispatched 11 iron lungs to Des Moines (where reports today described the epidemic situation as worsening) from Chicago, Omaha, Denver, Cleveland, and Boston. Lesser quantities of respiratory equipment have been hurried to other polio outbreak points in Oklahoma City, Kansas City, Dallas, Forth Worth, Nashville, New Orleans and Chapel Hill, N.C.

Basil O'Connor, president of The National Foundation, said that "although we have broadened The National Foundation's health objectives to include birth defects and arthritis, it is obvious we must continue to devote much of our time and resources to polio. The American people have had the Salk vaccine since April 1955, or more than four years. The epidemic at Des Moines and the outbreaks in half a dozen other cities need never have occurred."

Board Studies Household Goods P. P. Tax

Indicates Joint Action May Be Taken by Area Counties

The Pennington county board at its regular August session Tuesday heard a report on a meeting here last week of officials of six area counties to consider the possibility of eliminating the personal property tax on household goods, as authorized by action of the recent legislative session.

It was agreed that each of the county boards concerned should make known its wishes at an early date, with a view to all of the counties taking similar action on the matter if possible. Counties represented at the meeting included Pennington, Marshall, Red Lake, Roseau, Kittson and Polk.

The board left in the hands of a special committee the matter of recommending a man to succeed Bruce Reski, resigned, as civil defense director for Pennington county and the city of Thief River Falls. A separate civil defense fund was set up, with the county setting aside $1,182.50 as half of the budget, with the city expected to match the fund.

Miss Roberta LeBourveau, Pennington county home agent, submitted her resignation, effective September 1. She has served here during the past year.

At the request of Probate Judge Herman A. Kjos, the board authorized the engagement of a secretary, whose services would be divided between the recently appointed multi-county probation officer and the probate judge. The seven participating counties will share in half the cost of the secretary's services, with this county paying the other half.

Low Bids Revealed on T.H. 59 Work in Marshall, Kittson

Work Includes Bituminous Surfacing 11 Miles from Newfolden to Strandquist

Contracts covering two more projects on Highway 59 in Marshall and Kittson counties are expected to be awarded to low bidders, it was announced Monday by the state highway department, together with a surfacing job on Highway 89 in Roseau county, and grading and gravel surfacing of eight miles on Highway 220 in Marshall and Kittson counties.

Wm. Collins & Sons, Inc., Fargo, N. Dak., is apparent low bidder on two of the highway projects, with a bid of $194,440 on 21.9 miles of plant-mixed bituminous surfacing in Roseau Co., on T.H. 89 from the junction with T.H. 11 at Roseau to the south county line, and a bid of $200,812 on 11½ miles of the same surfacing on T.H. 59 from Newfolden to Strandquist in Marshall county. Both jobs are to be started by August 24 and completed in 70 and 80 working days respectively.

Moen Bros., Inc., Moorhead, submitted the apparent low bid of $222,201 on 7.4 miles of grading and bituminous base in Kittson county on T.H. 59 from Halma to Karlstad. Work is to be started by September 8 and completed in 100 working days.

Roy Benson & Son, of Stephen, is apparent low bidder at $237,-994 on eight miles of grading and gravel surfacing on T.H. 220 from six miles south of the north line of Marshall county to Jct. T.H. 11, nine miles west of Donaldson, in Kittson county. Included is a 135-foot bridge over the Tamarac River in Marshall county located 22.1 miles north of Oslo. Work is to be started by August 21 and completed in 70 working days.

Rotary Sees Duck Propagation Film

A Ducks Unlimited film, "Wings Across the Border," provided a timely program for Rotarians at their luncheon Monday noon. It told an interesting story of the progress being made in the protection and restoration of migratory waterfowl on the North American continent.

'It's Too Isolated'. Say T.R. Falls Couple on Return from Alaska

"The climate is good and it's a nice place to live, but it's too far away from everything and living is expensive."

This is the way Maynard Wedul summed up two years of living near Anchorage, Alaska. Wedul, who is staying at present with his wife and 11-month-old son at the home of his father, Arnt Wedul, 121 Tindolph ave. S., arrived in Thief River Falls Tuesday evening, Aug. 4, following a trip which began July 5.

Driving a ¾-ton pickup and pulling a 17-foot camper trailer, Wedul said the Alcan highway was a tough road to travel. Not one of his original truck tires was on the vehicle when it rolled into Thief River Falls.

"We wouldn't mind living in Alaska if the roads up there were better," both Wedul and his wife agreed. They both felt that being isolated as are the people of Alaska, is one of the biggest drawbacks of the new state.

Questioned as to living costs and job opportunities, the former Air Force man said that living costs are 40% higher than in Seattle and that it takes $12,000 to $14,000 for a family such as the much-publicized "49'ers" of Michigan to get started on a homestead. One-eighth of the quarter-section of land must be cleared in three years and bulldozers cost $15 to $25 an hour to do the work.

Few jobs are available in the Anchorage area, Wedul said, and most of them are in construction work. "You can get jobs if you 'know someone' and the jobs, which last five to six months, pay as much for that period of time as 12-month jobs pay in the States," he added. Most of the work is on the building of radar installations too remote for workers to have their families with them.

A differential of 25% is added to regular Air Force pay for personnel based at the Elmendorf base outside of Anchorage, Wedul said. The extra pay is to compensate for the higher living costs.

Housing is high in cost and difficult to find in the Anchorage area, according to Wedul, and there are more than 100 trailer parks in use. The returned family lived in a 45-foot trailer while they were in Alaska.

With seven years of service to his credit, Wedul returned to Thief River Falls to take over operations of the Wedul Trucking company which his father has been forced to give up because of ill health. The family plans to move into a home of its own in the eastern part of the city in the near future.

Must Control Weeds on Area Soil Bank Land

Penalties Will Be Assessed Against Contract Violators

Patrick W. Culkins, manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office today again warned soil bank participants that failure to control the spread of noxious weeds on their soil bank land will result in loss of part or possibly all of their 1959 soil bank payment.

Culkins said that under the terms of the soil bank contract producers are required to control noxious weeds before they reach a state of maturity, and if contract holders fail to carry out their responsibility, their contracts will be considered to be in violation. In the event that a contract is deemed to be in violation, penalties will apply against the payment due in the year of the violation.

He stated further that government spot checkers would visit the county again during the week of August 10 for the purpose of viewing soil bank farms, and suggested that all soil bank participants re-examine their farms and determine for themselves whether or not noxious weeds are developing on their land. In the event that weeds are discovered steps to control them must be taken immediately.

In behalf of the club, L. A. Ihle expressed regret at the forthcoming departure of Dennis Rolle, former Lincoln high school hockey coach and more recently guidance director, who is taking over a similar post in the Proctor schools.

Rolle responded briefly, expressing regret over the necessity of parting company with his many friends in this community.

Miss LeBourveau Resigns Post Here

Pennington Home and 4-H Agent to Wed Manitoba Man

Miss Roberta LeBourveau, Pennington county home agent for the last year, has submitted her resignation, it was learned today. Miss LeBourveau joined the county extension staff Sept. 15, 1958. Her resignation becomes effective Sept. 22.

During her stay in the county she worked capably with the 4-H and homemaker programs. Her congeniality has won her many friends in the rural and urban areas of the county.

Miss LeBourveau is leaving extension work to be married and be a full time homemaker. Her present plans are to reside in Canada, the home of both herself and her fiance, Jim Richards, who is presently working for his master's degree at the University of Manitoba.

Four Pass Junior Lifesaving Tests

Course at Tindolph Pool Directed by Phil Beadle

Four local swimmers passed the junior lifesaving course offered at Tindolph Park this summer under the direction of Philip Beadle. They are Nancy Dicken, Cathy Simons, James Ewing, and Larry Olson.

The course consisted of 15 hours of classwork in and out of water. The swimmers learned how to approach a drowning victim, how to carry him to shore, how to release any holds he might put on his rescuer, and numerous other items pertaining to swimming and water safety.

A written and a practical test had to be passed to complete the course.

Bogus Canadian Bills Passed in GF

At least $130 worth of bogus Bank of Canada $10 bills have been passed in Grand Forks since Monday. The bills appear pretty much like the real thing, but are badly faded, Ed Olson, vice president of the First National Bank of Grand Forks, said. They looked as if they had been left in clothes that had been dry-cleaned.

Future Trunk Highway Jobs Are Canceled

All future trunk highway, interstate and county-federal aid secondary contract lettings, including the state contract letting advertised for this coming Friday, were cancelled Tuesday morning by Minnesota Highway Commissioner L. P. Zimmerman.

"This drastic and unprecedented action is necessary," he said, "so that the work now in progress by the construction industry may be paid for as it is completed and so that the employees of the contractors may be paid."

This financial crisis in Minnesota's roadbuilding programs was brought about, according to Zimmerman, because:

1. The highway department has just been informed that federal funds in the Federal Highway Trust Fund — from which the state and counties are normally reimbursed for federal aid projects — are not sufficient to meet presently outstanding commitments for highway construction contracts. Without previous notice, the state highway departments throughout the nation have received a clearly-implied warning that they would proceed only at their own risk if they continued to place highway projects under contract.

2. The U.S. Congress has, to date, failed to make appropriations to supplement the Federal Highway Trust Fund by the passage of either emergency or long-range financing provisions.

3. All of the proposed financing plans presently under consideration in Washington are either inadequate or do not meet with the approval of either the Congress or the administration.

"Minnesota is not alone in taking this drastic step," Zimmerman continued. "At least 21 other states have already taken similar action or are now doing so, according to information Chief Engineer John Swanberg and I received at an emergency meeting last Saturday.

"At that meeting we were informed by Mr. Tallamy, administrator of the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads, that there are insufficient funds in the Federal Highway Trust Fund to reimburse the states and counties for all of the interstate, primary, secondary, urban and county-federal aid secondary projects now under contract. If we continued to let contracts, he implied, we would have to assume all of the federal aid commitments until such time as the Trust Fund could reimburse the state."

Zimmerman said that the State of Minnesota has sufficient funds to meet its share of the cost of acquiring right of way and to carry out road and bridge construction now in progress, but it does not now have — nor has it ever had — the financial ability to assume the federal government's share of the cost of this highway improvement work.

He concluded by saying that "this action is being taken to maintain the solvent condition of which the Minnesota Highway department has always been proud and to enable us to manage our affairs in a prudent and businesslike fashion."

LEAVING Victor S. Kalinoski, manager of the Ace Hardware store in this city, is leaving to take over on September 1 the position of manager of the Ace Hardware in Waukegan, Illinois, one of the oldest and largest stores affiliated with the Ace Hardware Corp., and employing about 20 people. Kalinoski has been associated with Bill Ekstrand in stores here and at Greenbush for the past 20 years. Ronnie Gerardy, with the local store six years, will assume the post of assistant manager here, and Milo Gulbranson has been added to the staff.

In addition to stocks of new seasonal merchandise being offered, many merchants will include some "cats and dogs" discovered too late to be included in the Crazy Days bargain festival.

Two Youths Gravely Injured in Car Crash at Gully Early Sunday

Four of the six youths injured in a single-car accident a half-mile north of Gully early Sunday morning have been released from the Bagley hospital, where they were confined following the mishap, but the two others remain hospitalized with injuries of a serious nature, according to officials.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Vernon Hovet, 17, Goodridge, left the road, went into the ditch, hit a ditch embankment and bounced into a field. The car was demolished, according to the investigating official, a Polk county deputy sheriff.

Seriously injured were Bernard Uglem, 17, Goodridge, who suffered a brain contusion, compound leg fractures and cuts on his face, and Ordean Nelson, 21, Trail, who has a skull fracture, fractured upper jaw and serious facial cuts.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor the Times:

A few weeks ago I was called as a witness in a traffic incident and someone has started a rumor that I testified under oath that the complainant was a reckless driver. Whoever started this rumor did not speak the truth, and court records will show it. I was not asked one question about the complainant nor was his name even mentioned. If this isn't the truth I wouldn't dare sign my name to it.

Mack's CANDID COMMENT

BY V. M. DRAPER

One often wonders what the old pioneers of this country, if they could return from their resting places for a short while, would have to say about the way we live.

Without question they would be amazed at our modern conveniences. The real puzzler though, is what they would think of the people of today. There is one thing the pioneers would find conspicuous by its absence—that is personal self-reliance.

The fact is, we've about completely lost our self-reliance to a degree which few of us realize. Let's take the matter of fuel for heating and cooking, for instance. The old timer didn't worry about paying the fuel bills, nor would a downed line out in North Dakota somewhere cut off his heat and leave his family without a means of cooking food. The ring of the axe in pioneer days was a cheerful sound to the ear.

The pioneer took his grain to the mill and hauled back the flour for bread, the "middlin's" for stock feed. Nowadays we take the bread on the grocers' shelves for granted—if the little woman wants to do some "home baking" chances are she has a package of brown 'n' serve rolls in the refrigerator or a box of cake mix in her deluxe birch-kitchen cabinets. It's a sad state of affairs as far as the taste buds are concerned.

Nowadays an evening at home is usually spent watching TV. In the old days, if a family was lucky enough to have good lights (for those days: the man of the family might make nails and the missus would spin, sew or knit.

There were no fights to watch on TV those days — you could see fights at saloons but it wasn't exactly proper to patronize such places.

Men didn't carry credit cards but they grew lots of fuel for the family oat-burner and young swains in those days had to use an excuse other than lack of gas if they wanted to park and spark.

Yes, it's sad but true—we depend on someone else for practically all the necessities of life. The family breadwinner has been reduced to the role of family credit card who works day after day and, perhaps, pays the bills once a month.

In the old days the length of a man's work determined the amount of food he had, the amount of fuel he had to burn. There were few things he could not provide for himself. But, over the years the list of things we can't (or won't) provide for ourselves has grown so it encompasses just about everything we see or touch.

Therein lies my sad tale. We've come to take all these things for granted and tend to ridicule the man who prefers to make something for himself, rather than buying it off the shelf.

In short, I'm sure the pioneers might feel just a little ashamed of their weakling descendants.

Unlucky 13 Cases in Local Court Monday

A routine session of Municipal court Monday, before Judge R. O. Chommie, resulted in numerous fines, mostly for various traffic law violations.

Two cases were brought by the highway patrol. Olaf G. Ekeren, city, pleaded guilty to driving over the center line and was fined $15 plus $4 costs. Speeding cost Elling T. Iverson, city, the same fine and costs after he pleaded guilty.

The lone sheriff's case was that of Halvor N. Folkedahl, Embarrass, who pleaded guilty to failure to yield the right-of-way in which an accident was involved. Folkedahl was fined $25 plus $5.50 costs.

Ten persons were brought to court or forfeited bond as the result of arrests by police. Dean A. Larson, city, pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving and was fined $25 plus $4 costs. He was arrested on a citizen's complaint.

Fred M. Franklin, city, pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving and was fined $50 plus $4 costs. Darby M. Nelson, city, pleaded guilty to failure to yield the right-of-way, accident involved, and was fined $15 plus $4 costs.

Two men, Gerald L. Johnson, city, and Lyle K. Haagenson, rt. 2, both pleaded guilty to driving with illegal mufflers. Johnson was fined $10 plus $4 costs, while Haagenson was fined $10.

William and Margaret Otto, McKinley, Minn., each forfeited $15 bond on disorderly conduct charges. Bert C. Anderson forfeited $15 bond for going through a red traffic signal and Richard B. Goodboe, Pencer, forfeited the same amount for running a stop sign.

Carol S. Perrault, Mahnomen, pleaded guilty to petit larceny in the theft of a suitcase from a local citizen and was sentenced to 10 days in jail, but was released on parole. Three juvenile girls involved with her are being processed through juvenile court.

Jarred Panel Held Cause of Current Failure July 9th

Remember July 9—the morning electrical power failed in half a dozen states, including the Dakotas, Minnesota and Thief River Falls?

It was the jarring of a control panel in the West Fargo substation that caused the interruption, Reclamation Bureau power officials have decided.

Bumping of the control panel at West Fargo originally was set forth as the source of the interruption, which lasted 20 minutes in some areas. But at the onset, officials were inclined not to accept it as such.

Roscoe Williamson, chief of power distribution at Bismarck, N. D., for the Reclamation Bureau, said the West Fargo bump, occurring during installation of some other equipment, was the obvious source as determined by elimination of other possibilities.

Well Fertilized Plot Yields 51.9 Bu. Barley

Significant differences have been found in barley response to various fertilizer, reports county agent Paul Stelmaschuk. The yield taken in the plots harvested last week was 13.9 bushels where no fertilizer was applied. The highest yield of Traill barley, 51.9 bushels, came from an application of 32 pounds of nitrogen which was broadcast in the spring plus a fall application of 16-20-0. Also an equivalent of 30 pounds of potash drilled in was applied on this plot. This was also the most profitable application of fertilizer.

Since the barley fertilizer trials have been carried on only one year, general recommendations for forms cannot be made from the responses received in the trials, Stelmaschuk stated. The trials are important in measuring responses to fertilizer on local soil types and under local climatic conditions. The information is then used for making soil recommendations.

A meeting was held at the plots Tuesday morning. Fred Heck, soil conservation agent, emphasized the possibility of using too much nitrogen. This reduces malting barley quality, Heck stated.

Don Lawrence, SCS technician, and Don Barron, soil scientist, reviewed the charcteristics of the Rockwell soil on which the plots plots are located. These soils are easily tilled, but offer nutrient, erosion and drought problems if mismanaged. The plots are on the Wilhelm Hanson farm, managed by Martin Hanson, and are located four miles east of Thief River Falls.

Across the road on the Silas Hanson farm are the soybean plots. These are now open to public inspection. Different cultural practices are being tried in the plots and a chart located next to the plots describes the work. A chart is also posted next to the fertilizer plots. Everyone is invited to inspect them.

More accurate and complete figures on yields will be announced later as they become available, said Stelmaschuk.

Added Rainfall Recorded Today

Hail Hits Area Near Warren Again Monday

Rainfall for the month of August has already exceeded the total for the entire month last year and, from the way it was coming down Thursday morning as the Times was going to press, the amount could easily be doubled before the day ended.

Monday's 1.53 inches of rain, the largest amount in one day since July 4, 1958, was supplemented by .01 inch Wednesday, Aug. 5. At 9 a.m. this morning, only .03 inch had been measured at the KTRF weather station while a heavy rain was falling.

As a result of the frequent rains, no progress has been made in combining grain this week.

Monday, Aug. 3, the area south of Warren received its fifth severe hail storm of the year which resulted in damage ranging up to 100% for small grain crops. Hardest hit was the area from Angus to Euclid and north of Angus to within a few miles of Warren. The storm was of long duration and was accompanied by strong winds. Hail stones as large as golf balls fell and were rough

The forecast for the Thief River Falls area is for partly cloudy and jagged in appearance. and cooler today and fair tonight. Tomorrow, partly cloudy and warmer are predicted.

The high temperature today is expected to be in the upper 70's and the low tonight near 55.

SPEAKS Evangelist Arthur Mueller will be the speaker for the remainder of the second week of tent meetings sponsored by the Lutheran Brethren Church of this city. The tent is located on the Rev. South St. Paul Livestock Market Report — Monday

Steers and Heifers: About a half-dozen loads average to high-Choice slaughter steers sold at $27.75-28.00. A variety of weights was included, ranging from around 1,050 lbs. to slightly in excess of 1,300. Most Good and Choice steers cleared at $25.50-27.50, a few loads of low-Choice selling as low as $25.00. Standard steers brought $22.50-24.50, while Canners, Cutter, & Utility grades cleared at $15-21.00. A load of average to high-Choice 838 lb. heifers sold at $27.50 and some 806 lb. weights cashed at $27.25. Several loads low to average-Choice heifers moved at $26.50-27.00, while bulk Good and low-Choice made $21.50-26.00. Standard heifers cashed at $22.50-21. Canner, Cutter and Utility grades $15.00-21.00.

Cows and Bulls: Buyers preferred Canner and Cutter cows for boning purposes rather than beef grades. This caused a little sluggishness on the western-type beef cows although for practical purposes the cow market was steady. Utility and Commercial grades held at $15.50-17.00, while Canners and Cutter bulked at $13.50-15.00. There were shelly Canners at $12-13.00. Most Cutter and Utility bulls were taken at $20-22.50. Commercial and Good grades went at $20-21.50 and Canners $15.00-19.00.

Vealers and Calves: Trading in both vealers and slaughter calves was fairly active at steady prices. Most Good and Choice vealers moved at $27-30.00, high-Choice and Prime $31-32.00. Standard grade cleared at $25-26.00, Cull and Utility $20-21.00. Sales of Good and Choice slaughter calves were generally at $26-28.00, Utility and Standard $18-25.00, and Culls $15-17.00.

Legion Jrs. to Enter District Tourney at Ada; Trim Bagley 14-4

In a final tune-up in preparation for the district tournament at Ada on Saturday and Sunday, coach Ralph Skay took his local American Legion junior baseball squad to Bagley on Wednesday night for a game against coach Bob Setterberg's Bagley juniors. The locals scored a 14 to 4 win over the Bagley juniors.

Both junior clubs are entries in the district junior baseball tournament at Ada, with Bagley meeting Fergus Falls in a first-round game at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday; and Thief River Falls playing Hawley in a first-round game at 8:00 p.m. The district championship finals will be played on Sunday night at 8:00 p.m.

Pitchers Arlan Hjelle and Jack Goulet, who shared the hurling chores for coach Skay's club on Wednesday night, gave up but one hit, that a looping single into right field by Phil Anderson off Hjelle's delivery in the second inning.

Leading the locals' 12-hit attack on Bagley pitchers Lloyd Anderson and Ken Theis, was Paul Saurdiff, who clubbed out four hits in four official at bats (he was hit by a pitched ball in the third inning) and drove in five runs. Paul Klungness connected for three hits in five tries; and Gary Klungness, in the seventh inning, raked a three-run triple to the fence in right-center.

The four Bagley runs were of the tainted variety, with errors accounting for the tallies. In the second inning, a walk, a sacrifice, a single, and a throwing error, plated a pair of Bagley runs. And in the fourth inning, an error, a hit batsman (Bagley's first baseman, Ken Brustad, was hit in the head by one of Hjelle's fast pitches), two walks, and a wild pitch, added the other two Bagley runs.

Schedule, Sunday, August 9: Greenbush at Plummer; Badger at Grygla or Goodridge.

The Pen-Ro-Shall league completed its 1959 schedule last Sunday, and this week, on Sunday, the first-round league playoff games will be played.

The Thief River Falls Bums, with an undefeated record of nine wins and no losses, won the league championship, and were given a first-round playoff bye.

Deadlocked for second place in the league standings were Grygla and Goodridge, and it is probable that the two teams will engage in a playoff game to determine the second place winner.

At a meeting held here on Sunday, the league directors completed plans and pairings for the league playoff. First-round games will find Greenbush meeting the Plummer Red Sox at Plummer on Sunday afternoon; and the Badger team playing either the Grygla or Goodridge teams.

The semi-final pairings will pit the league champion Bums against the winner of the Greenbush vs. Plummer game; and the league's second place team, either Grygla or Goodridge, playing the winner of the Badger vs. third place game. These games are tentatively slated for Sunday, August 16.

Since then, he has been a Lutheran chaplain at Glen Lake sanitorium, Hennepin county home school for boys, and university hospitals.

Mrs. Seltz, formerly a deaconess-nurse in China, and their daughter, Natalie, 12, will accompany him when he leaves for Hong Kong in late August.

Not Very Impressive

The 284 paying fans who were in Grand Forks' Municipal park one night last week to witness the Chiefs vs. St. Cloud Rox Northern league game, weren't treated to a very classy brand of baseball. Except for the lusty hitting, with St. Cloud getting thirteen hits, including a pair of home runs, and Grand Forks collecting ten hits, the game, which was won by Grand Forks, 11 to 8, was very ordinary.

But what made the game attractive and of interest to the fans in this area was the fact that Bemidji's Clark (Corky) Johnson was given the pitching assignment for St. Cloud.

Corky, who is compiling a pretty fine record, especially in the earned-run category, with the last place St. Cloud team, had control troubles against the Chiefs. He whiffed but three batters, considerably less than his usual quota, and he issued eight walks. And these walks proved costly, for they were followed by some extra-base blows.

The game, though, wasn't a fair test to pass judgment on Corky's progress in the Northern league because in the stands to watch the game were Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Johnson, Corky's parents. And there was also a contingent of fans and friends from Erskine in the stands.

It was only natural that Coky would make an extra effort to pitch well, and as a result he appeared tense and seemed to be pressing. In addition to the eight free passes that he issued, Corky was behind on the ball-and-strike count to numerous batters, and then was forced to take something off his pitch to get the ball over the plate, and the batters would clout the pitch for base hits.

That Corky's performance at Grand Forks, and before his folks and friends, wasn't a typical game can be judged by the fact that on Friday night, at St. Cloud, he shut out the Grand Forks Chiefs, 2 to 0. That game, his fourth win against eight losses, was the third shutout that he has pitched this season. Corky is still a major league potential.

On To Ada

Coach Ralph Skay and his squad of local American Legion junior baseball players will leave town late Saturday afternoon for Ada where, at 8:00 P.M., they will meet the Hawley juniors in a first-round game of the American Legion Ninth district junior baseball tournament.

Fergus Falls and Bagley, in a game that is slated for 2:30 p.m. on Saturday, will open the tournament.

The district championship finals, with the winner gaining a berth in the state tournament that will be held in Austin, will be played at 8:00 p.m. on Sunday at Ada.

According to present plans, righthander Arlan Hjelle will be given the pitching assignment for the locals' first-round game against Hawley.

Fair Grounds Attractions

The Fair Grounds diamond will be the scene of a pair of interesting games this week. Tonight, Thursday, in an 8:30 p.m. game, the highly-rated Fertile team of the Norman-Polk league, will meet the Thieves in an exhibition game. In a game between the two clubs, played at Fertile last week, the Fertile team notched a 5 to 4 win.

On Friday night, the Grygla Red Sox and the Goodridge team will meet in a game to decide the second place team in the Pen-Ro-Shall league. The two teams are currently tied for the runnerup position, having five wins and five losses apiece. We'll be completely neutral on Friday, for in the Grygla lineup will be Paul Saurdiff, a member of coach Skay's local junior club, and in the Goodridge lineup will be Mike McEnelly, also a member of Skay's local juniors.

Well Integrated

The NAACP cannot possibly voice a valid complaint about the lack of integration for their race as far as the National league All-Star lineup was concerned. At one time during the All-Star game at Los Angeles Monday evening, the following lineup represented the National league: Jim Gilliam at third base, Ernie Banks at shortstop, Charlie Neal at second base, and Frank Robinson at first base, all Negroes. And in center field was the incomparable Willie Mays, and in right field, the Milwaukee Braves' potential Hall of Famer, Hank Aaron, Negroes; and pitching at the time was the San Francisco Giants' Sam Jones also a Negro. The only whites in the lineup were Wally Moon, outfielder, and Hal White, catcher.

Thieves and Cass Lake Teams to Seek to Break Tie for Loop Leadership

Northern Minny League

Thief River Falls	8	3	.727
Bagley	7	3	.700
Erskine	5	5	.500

Winger	3	8	.273
Eldred	1	10	.091

Results of the week's games: Cass Lake, 7, at Thief River Falls, 20. Eldred, 8, at Winger, 3.

Schedule, Sunday, August 9: T. R. Falls at Winger (afternoon); Eldred at Cass Lake (afternoon); Erskine at Bagley (night).

Except for a smattering of postponed games, the Northern Minny league 1959 schedule will be concluded on Sunday. The league leaders, Cass Lake and Thief River Falls, will be meeting the league's low-ranked teams, Eldred and Winger, respectively, and are favored to register victories and complete their league schedule in a deadlock to first place.

The Bagley Merchants, trailing by the league leaders by one-half game, have an opportunity to gain a share of league lead by defeating the Erskine Merchants in a game to be played at Bagley on Sunday night, and score a win in the postponed game between Fosston and Bagley.

Last Sunday's play was featured by Cass Lake at Thief River Falls game, and which, in an uninspiring exhibition of baseball, was won by the Thieves, 20 to 7. The Thieves made short work of lefty Jerry Daniels efforts to halt the local batsmen, with the nifty southpaw being taken off the mound after one and one-third innings of play, and the Thieves leading by an 8 to 1 score. The game marked the second time this season that Daniels has failed to go the route in pitching against the Thieves.

In the other game played on the league schedule on Sunday, the ever-trying Eldred club finally moved into the win column by scoring an 8 to 3 victory over the Winger Tigers in a game played at Winger.

Eagles Midgets Win Two Games; Lose in Tourney

The Eagles' Midgets baseball team had a busy schedule this past week. On Friday, in a pair of games played on the Fair Grounds diamond, the locals defeated the Goodridge and Plummer Midgets. The score in the Goodridge vs. Thief River Falls game was 16 to 5 for the locals; while Plummer dropped a 6 to 2 decision.

30-day State Season on Pheasants Slated

In St. Paul today, James W. Kimball, state game and fish director, announced a thirty (30) day statewide season on pheasants this fall.

The season is scheduled to open at noon on Saturday, October 24 through November 22, both dates inclusive. Shooting hours on all days except the opening day will be from 10 A.M. to sunset. Daily bag and possession limits are three (3) and six (6), cock birds only.

Substantial increases in the pheasant breeding population have been noted throughout the range. Reports from the marginal areas of the pheasant range are even more encouraging than those in the prime range.

While game officials are still awaiting the final results of the brood census, it is apparent that a mild winter, a good breeding population and, in most areas, a satisfactory nesting season have combined to provide a potentially good supply of birds this fall. Field reports indicate, however, that nesting conditions were not good in some local areas. Locally heavy rains were reported during the nesting season in places located within the pheasant range.

Minnesota is not alone in having a good supply of birds. South Dakota reports the boom in their pheasant population is continuing. Some South Dakota counties show increases in excess of 100 per cent.

Minnesota hunters killed 1,562,000 pheasants last fall, an "all time high" for a cocks only season. This record kill virtually doubled the 1957 harvest of 775,600 birds.

Hungarian partridge may be taken beginning at noon on October 24 through November 22, inclusive. Shooting hours on all days except the opening will be from 10 A.M. to sunset. Bag and possession limits will be three (3) and six (6). Slight increases in the hun population have been reported around the state, while some counties show local decreases.

There will be no open season on bobwhite quail this year. Quail populations remain low, and in spite of local increases, game officials indicate a closed season is in order. It is thought that less than 3,000 quail were harvested last year. Generally restricted to southeastern Minnesota, quail populations exhibit a normally low population, and hence have not received much attention from upland game shooters.

Air Force Station at Baudette Gets $398,385 Addition

A second major construction project will start within a week at the Baudette air force station in Lake of the Woods county, the St. Paul district of the army corps of engineers announced Wednesday.

Lt. Col. Herbert H. Howard, district executive officer, said Lenel, Lenel and Englund, Inc., Virginia, Minn., was low bidder at $398,385 to build an electric distribution and emergency power plant at the radar station. Completion is scheduled for June 1960.

Howard said award of contract would bring to $1,061,844 the value of current work at the site. A contract for $663,499 to build a radar tower was awarded last week to M. J. McGough Co., St. Paul.

Sheep Producers to Vote on Renewed Advertising Plan

President of National Group Asks Continuation of Self-help Program

Sheep producers in this area will have an opportunity to vote during September on whether or not to continue their promotion and advertising program conducted by the American Sheep Producers Council, headquartered at Denver, Colo.

Don Clyde, president of the council and himself a sheepman from Heber City, Utah, said it would be a tragic occasion for the sheep industry if the program is not continued. "It is self-help programs such as this that are removing some of the stigma from agriculture in the eyes of the general public," Clyde declared.

In its three years of operation the ASPC has developed a program of advertising and promotion for lamb in 21 major marketing areas across the country and a nationwide program for wool.

We are trying to educate the consumer to eat more lamb and wear more wool. The sheep industry, if it is to survive, must broaden the demand for its products, Clyde asserted. No one is going to do it for us, he added.

He pointed out that it has taken time to stop the downward trend in sheep production and the corresponding drop in markets for lamb and wool. That trend has been stopped, and sheep production is on the increase. The sheep industry, Clyde declared, has a bright outlook if it continues to expand markets for its products.

"We can't expect increased production of lamb and wool to find a good market at a fair return to the producer unless we help to create such a market," Clyde said.

Seven Men from This Area Enlist in Army in July

Sgt. L. J. Clemenson, Army recruiter in Thief River Falls, announced today that seven young men from the surrounding area had enlisted in the U.S. Army in July. They were Roland A. Amiot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Armand Amiot of Thief River Falls; Eugene C. Weckwerth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Weckwerth; and James R. Harbott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Harbott, both from St. Hilaire; Bruce E. Erickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Erickson of Plummer; Richard E. Smith and Allen O. Brazier, both of Greenbush. Re-enlisting in the army was Orville W. Sevre of Red Lake Falls. All are at Fort Ord, Calif., taking their basic training.

Record Pear, Plum Crops Reported

Other Fruits Also to Be Plentiful This Month

Pears and plums will be easy to buy during August, reports Mrs. Eleanor Loomis, extension consumer marketing agent at the University of Minnesota.

The Bartlett pear crop this year is the largest on record, 19 per cent larger than last year. California plums, another record large crop, also will have top billing on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's plentiful foods list for this month.

You'll be wise to buy friut several days in advance of use and allow it to ripen at home since much fruit is shipped at the firm-ripe stage. Pears should be held for ripening at a temperature under 80 degrees F. Don't set fruit in a sunny window because overheating is likely to cause fruit to decay before it can ripen.

Peaches, lemons and limes also will be in heavy supply. Consumer-size or family-size turkeys will be good buys this August.

As for eggs, though all sizes will be on markets in August, the small and medium sizes will be in heavier supply than usual.

Vegetable fats and oils for cooking and salad use will continue in heavy supply.

Youngsters will like the fact that grocery shelves will be heavily stocked with peanut butter.

What we have to do is to be for ever curiously testing new opinions and courting new impressions.

Stop It Before It Starts

Public school construction completed in Minnesota during the past year cost $57,675,000, according to a report made Monday to the state Board of Education. Guy Tollerud, director of school plant planning, presented a report showing that 213 building projects had been completed compared to 175 during the previous year.

This construction program did not include expenditures by the state for added facilities for higher education. Of the 1,280 new classrooms provided, 717 were for high and junior high schools and 563 for elementary schools. Rising enrollments are said to require from 600 to 700 classrooms a year so we may assume that the state's classroom shortage was reduced by about 600. Mr. Tollerud estimated the present classroom shortage at only 1,194, so with another $60 million going into classroom construction during the coming year, the condition here in Minnesota certainly is not critical.

And what is true for Minnesota is true generally for the country as a whole. The clamor for federal aid for school construction comes largely from the organized educators who have been using this appeal in their effort to get a program of federal aid started. Once they get their foot in the door they know federal aid will be with us forever, gradually shifting more of the control of our schools from the local level to the state and federal government bureaucracies.

The best way to keep this from happening is not to let it get started.

The Best Solution For All

There is no evidence of progress in settling the issues of the steel strike. Labor continues to point up the large profits of the industry as justification for pay increases. Management is talking about increased foreign competition and possible price cuts if moderate wage increases are offset by the elimination of costly "featherbedding" practices.

There is reason to believe that the industry's concern about foreign competition is sincere, and that is a wholesome development. Exports of steel have been declining steadily during the past two years, due in part to the recession, but in recent months clearly because American mills have been underpriced by foreign producers. And more significant is the fact that steel imports have been steadily increasing, indicating that American mills are not meeting foreign competition in our own markets. For the six-month period that ended June 1, imports were substantially greater than exports.

In recent years the industry has settled strikes with a token resistance, yielding to the demands of labor and passing the costs along to the consumers. It seems certain that the present strike is not going to be settled in that way, voluntarily, and that further price increases are out. That is encouraging.

The best solution from the standpoint of all concerned however would be a hold-the-line on wages and then cut prices. Certainly it would be best for the national economy and the stability of the American dollar, and what is best for the economy is also best for the industry and those who depend upon the industry for their pay checks.

Redistricting

Minnesota is expected to lose a congressional seat following the coming census and that will mean another redistricting job for the legislature. The redistricting will be based on population, which means that the cut from nine to eight will be felt mainly in the outstate districts. The Twin Cities area will strengthen its control of the state.

Fortunately the legislature, in its recent session, recognized area as well as population in the election of our state lawmakers. Under this arrangement the outstate communities will always control the senate and the metropolitan area will gradually increase its control of the house. This will mean that in state government the outstate communities will always have bargaining power, as the smaller states have in the United States Senate, in which body all states are equal.

Law making is generally a matter of compromise, but minority groups can bargain effectively only to the extent that they have bargaining power. Without control of one house of the legislature the outstate communities would have no bargaining power, and their only hope for consideration would be as supplicants, asking submissively for favors.

Governor Freeman and the Minneapolis bosses are not happy with this arrangement and there probably will be organized opposition to the proposed constitutional amendment that will assure its permanence. Outstate Minnesota will have to be well organized in the next election if the present balance is to be made permanently secure. But with a fair presentation of the facts the proposed amendment will have the support of the fair-minded citizens of the metropolitan area.

Hawaii Voted

Hawaiians went to the polls last week to elect the first officers who will direct their government as the youngest state of the United States. The fact that more than 90 per cent of the eligible voters availed themselves of their right to vote is proof that the islanders are proud of their new status and recognize their responsibility as citizens.

The election is looked upon as a conservative victory, which was unexpected. There was fear of the Bridges influence and the defeat of the Democratic candidate for governor was looked upon as a repudiation of Bridges rather than as a defeat for the party. The winning Democratic candidates are not looked upon as radicals. Besides naming the governor, the Republicans named one U. S. senator and gained control of the state senate.

The Hawaiian representatives to Congress will bring with them a touch of Oriental color, and that should be a wholesome influence in the consideration of international problems.

The official proclamation of statehood, bringing the total number of states up to 50, is expected later this month. In view of the fact that no other territory is knocking at the door, that 50 count is likely to be with us for many years.

Price-Fixing: Legal & Illegal

(New York World Telegram)

Congress is being asked once again to write into law a special violation of one of its own most cherished principles, spelled out in the anti-trust laws.

The House Commerce Committee has reported out a misnamed "fair trade" bill, sponsored by the committee chairman, Rep. Oren Harris (D., Ark.).

This bill proposes to give the federal government's blessing to a system of price-fixing. It would permit a manufacturer to set the prices of his product and prohibit retail sale of the product at any less price.

It is the same scheme, on a national scale, which the courts in 16 states have declared unconstitutional.

The Harris bill proposes to legalize one kind of price-fixing while the Justice Department, acting under the anti-trust laws, is prosecuting hundreds of other business firms for similar offenses.

Egged on by a potent lobby, the Harris committee approved this bill over the uniform and unreserved objections of the Justice Department, the Commerce Department, the Agriculture Department and the Federal Trade Commission.

The FTC said this kind of price-fixing was economically unsound, tended to destroy competition and in some instances favored large concerns, although it is ballyhooed as an aid to small business. The FTC said this type of state law was used to conceal illegal price-fixing agreements, to divide the market and to restrain trade.

This is an anti-consumer bill, pure and simple. It should be defeated.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

The minister was reaching the climax of the marriage ritual. "Do you take this woman," he spoke up loudly and clearly, "for better or for worse, through sickness and health, in good times or bad, when things go wrong and—"

The bride began tugging at the minister's coattail. "Reverend," she gulped, "if you're not careful, you're going to talk him right out of it."

Your Office in Washington

by Congressman
ODIN LANGEN

As this is being written, the House Committee on Ways and Means, (that is, the committee charged with the responsibility of finding the ways and means of paying our country's bills), has just announced its decisions relative to the financing of the federal highway construction program. Because of the amount of mail which I have received relative to this subject, I thought it would be in order to devote this newsletter to a rather detailed discussion of it.

As most of you know, the Federal Highway Act was adopted in 1956. At this time, a Highway Trust Fund was established, additional taxes were levied, and road construction under the act was placed on a pay-as-you-build basis. No, however, due to anti-recession speedup authorized by the last session of Congress, the fund is faced with an anticipated deficit of $241 million by next June 30. Under the present law, this deficit will swell to $2.1 billion by June 30, 1962.

Committee Recommendations

To change present law so as to get the road-building program over the present hump and back on the "pay-go" principle, the ways and means committee has agreed to the following proposals: (1) Up to $1 billion in revenue bonds will be issued against the assets of the Highway Trust Fund, with these bonds being paid off from the fund within five years. (2) To provide additional funds to help repay these revenue bonds, 2% of the excise tax on new automobiles will be transferred from the general revenue fund to the highway trust fund. (3) Taxes which go into the highway trust fund will be levied until June 30, 1976, instead of the present cut-off date of June 30, 1972.

In addition, the ways and means committee recommended to the public works committee that it stretch out the highway construction program an additional four years, cutting anticipated fiscal 1961 and 1962 apportionments to the states for federal highway program, and spreading construction in subsequent years to match the recommended spread in financing.

Other Proposals

Other proposals recommended to meet the needs of the highway program were an increase in the federal gasoline tax, transfer of a larger amount of the excise tax on new automobiles to the highway trust fund, and the issuance of a larger amount of bonds. The committee, however, agreed instead to the above proposals. These proposals will now be drafted in bill form before further action is taken.

During the mid-portion of July swimming participation reached a new high. Three trips weekly were made to the beach in Thief River Falls with an average of about 40 children per trip.

Summer Recreation Program Ends

July 31 marked the end of another summer's recreation program for children of the Plummer area. The program had been operating Tuesday through Friday of each week since June 9.

Two innovations to the program were introduced in this year's activities. A regular special outing for girls only was scheduled each Thursday with enthusiastic participation. These outings varied from softball games with girls from Gonvick to a contest in picking wild flowers.

The idea of "Family Night" recreation on Wednesday evenings did not prove such a success but on several occasions adults as well as younger members of community families made use of the facilities available, both indoors and out.

A total of 23 baseball and softball games were played with competition from neighboring towns. The break down of games was as follows: Midgets-7, Peewees-12, Peanuts-2 and girls softball-2.

WHY DO WITHOUT A LITTLE LUXURY LIKE THIS... LET ALONE THESE BIG CHEVY VIRTUES!

Chevy's the only car of the leading low-priced three that gives you the convenience of crank-operated vent windows. No awkward latches to fumble with . . . your knuckles and fingernails will appreciate it.

greater roominess

Automobile Manufacturers Association records carry the facts on this. In a Chevy sedan, for example, you've got more front seat head room than all but one of the high-priced cars! And Chevy's front seat hip room spreads up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

bigger brakes

Bigger, yes, and built with bonded linings for as much as 66% longer life. And how's this for proof that Chevy's a real stopper: in a NASCAR*-conducted test of repeated stops from highway speeds, Chevrolet outstopped both of the "other two" time after time.

*National Association for Stock Car Advancement and Research.

You're the expert on ride, so you'll want to try Chevy's easygoing smoothness for yourself. MOTOR TREND magazine can give you a hint of what you're in for: ". . . the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." Full Coil springs, of course, never squeak, never need grease.

bigger savings

Here's solid proof that Chevrolet squeezes more miles out of a gallon: In the famous Mobilgas Economy Run, two Chevrolet sixes with Powerglide took the first two places in their class. Winning mileage: 22.38 m.p.g. And that, friends, took top honors for Chevy from every full-sized car!

award-winning engines

The NASCAR Outstanding Achievement award goes to Chevrolet! Chevy wins for "the creation and continuing development of America's most efficient V-type engines . . . for the establishment of new levels of V8 compactness combined with outstanding smoothness." And you can choose among eight V8's and the Six that won the Mobilgas Economy Run for its class.

fresh styling

POPULAR SCIENCE magazine gave Chevy's styling a thoughtful look, then said it this way: "In its price class, Chevy establishes a new high in daring styling . . ." You'll find your own happy way of saying that Chevy's the only unmistakably modern car in its class.

N.A.D.A.* Guide Books prove that your Chevrolet will keep its value. Chevy used car prices last year, for example, averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the other two cars in Chevrolet's field.

*National Automobile Dealers Association.

State Atlas Reports on Water Resources

The most complete summary ever compiled of Minnesota water supplies, conditions and statistics was recently published by the division of waters, Sidney A. Frellsen, director, under the title "Hydrologic Atlas of Minnesota."

The first of 2 articles condensing the introduction to the "Atlas" is published in the July-August issue of the Minnesota Conservation Volunteer, now in the mail.

"Water is a basic necessity wherever men live and work on this earth. Its abundance or scarcity can play a large part in determining where a man lives, how he makes his living and how well he lives. It elects all of man's activities, governs his behavior and his cultures. It is important in his total environment and limits his opportunities for survival."

To illustrate how important water is to each citizen of Minnesota the summary says:

Only recently each person used 60 gallons of water per day; today the average use is 150 gallons.

The average rainfall in the state is 25.5 inches. This amounts to 37,000,000,000,000 gallons per year.

The area of the state is 84,068 square miles, of which at least 5,000 square miles are water.

The water and snow which fall on Minnesota are drained away in three major watersheds—the Mississippi to the south, the Red River to the north and the Great Lakes to the east. No water flows into the state. Minnesota has the lowest annual rainfall of any state in the Mississippi Valley, but the topography left by the glaciers of long ago has depressions and valleys in which water flows and is trapped to make the many lakes and lowland swamps.

The atlas may be secured from the Documents Section, Room 115, State Capitol for $5.00 per copy. The second article will be published in the September-October Conservation Volunteer.

Industrial Clinic Slated at New Ulm

Development Meeting is Scheduled for Sept. 17-18

Governor Orville L. Freeman said today, that "Minnesota state government is continuing to vigorously stimulate and assist local communities in attracting new business." He made this statement in announcing the dates for the fourth annual industrial development clinic. This year's meeting will be held on September 17 and 18, at New Ulm. The previous clinics were conducted at Albert Lea, Moorhead, and Minneapolis.

James W. Clark, commissioner of the department of business development states that this year's program will again be of interest to all citizens attempting to get new business and industry for their community.

The topics for discussion this year will center around the theme of making your community ready, which Commissioner Clark said is probably the single most important factor in seeking new industries. "The industrial prospect is vitally concerned with the facilities available and the attitude of all members of the community. The prospect, large or small wants to know he will be welcome," Clark said.

In seeking new economic horizons and employment levels many segments of the community can offer special assistance. These will be discussed at the New Ulm meeting with special emphasis being placed on the work of the local editor, banker and lawyer.

FHA Housing Loans Termed Success

$12 Billion in Loans Made in Past 25 Years

In 1934, FHA introduced a new idea into consumer credit—property improvement loans made by lending institutions without collateral, cosigners, or endorsers and repayable in monthly installments over periods as long as five years, with a financing charge no higher than a $5 discount per $100 per year.

To make the innovation acceptable to lenders, it was backed by government insurance.

The experiment has been an outstanding success. Over 25 years, FHA-insured loans have enabled property owners to borrow nearly $12 billion to finance $23 million improvement jobs. Not only have the loans helped to upgrade the housing supply and keep it in repair; the record of repayment has proved this method of financing to be sound and profitable.

Now more than ever before, American families are determined to have their homes in good condition, and they are relying to a great extent on FHA-insured property improvement loans to make it possible. This is indicated by FHA reports for the first six months of 1959. Here are the figures:

From January through June, FHA insured 517,821 of these loans—62,340 more than in the first half of 1958. This is an increase of nearly 14 per cent over last year. In the month of June alone, about 102,000 loans were insured.

Mercury Hit 90 Mark Two Days During July

Although high temperatures during the month of July were in the 90's only twice and the average high for the month was 79.7 degrees, residents of the area will remember the past month as a hot, muggy period.

Coupled with high humidity much of the period and 16 days when readings were in the 80's, the month was hotter and more humid than was July of last year. Eight days, the highs were in the 70's, and 5 days were in the 60's. The high temperature for the month, a 91 on the 28th, was 48 degrees warmer than the lowest temperature for the month, the 43 recorded the night of July 1.

Rainfall for July of this year totaled 4.5 inches compared to 6.14 inches during the month last year. The heaviest single rain was 1.43 inches July 14.

Despite the heat and humidity, the area was fortunate to have cool evenings with light breezes to make sleeping comfortable nearly every night.

The dry period from July 23 until the end of the month ripened small grains and barley harvesting was started the last week of the month on the ridges and was general by the end of the month.

Here is a summary of the temperatures and precipitation for the month of July:

Farmers Told to Look into Social Security Status

Farmers know there is a time to plant, to cultivate, and a time to take in the crops. But asks Walter D. Kistler, manager of the Grand Forks Social Security office, how many know there is a time to look at their social security protection. Finding out about social security too late could be worse than planting a crop too late.

Mr. Kistler explained by pointing out that many farmers have not reported their farm earnings and that it will soon be too late for many, especially in the older age group, to gain the social security credits that may mean the difference between protection and no benefits at all.

Kistler said he wanted to emphasize that farmers, especially in the low earnings group and those approaching retirement age, should look into their social security this year for their own protection and that of their families. If there is any question about how self-employment farm earnings should have been reported in the last three years, it is a good idea to contact a social security representative, with a copy of the tax returns for those three years.

Ten Area Young Men Enlisted in Navy During July

Ten men from this area enlisted in the Navy during July, according to Doug Richardson, Navy recruiter in Thief River Falls.

Wendell Johnson, son of Albert Johnson; and Robert Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Anderson of Thief River Falls; Arnold Champagne, Brooks; August Wehmeyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wehmeyer of Holt; Bruce Walker, Red Lake Falls; David Hill, Warren; Robert Sustad, Hallock; Rolland Laurin, Argyle; Delmar Lofstrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hjalmar Lofstrom of Newfolden; and Walter Hanson, Stephen.

All men were assigned to a training station of their choice. Bruce Walker and Arnold Champagne chose Great Lakes Training Center in Illinois, and the remaining group picked the training center in San Diego, Calif.

Law Violations Cause of Mishaps

Held to Blame for Most Automobile Accidents

"The major cause of traffic accidents is the man behind the wheel who violates safe driving rules known as traffic laws." This charge was made today by Harry A. Sieben, state highway safety director, in answer to the question of what causes accidents.

Sieben reported National Safety Council studies indicated that for every 100 drivers involved in fatal accidents, 77 violations of law were committed, with some drivers violating more than one driving regulation.

He said that failure to yield the right-of-way, unsafe speed, driving under the influence of alcohol, and violations of traffic controls and signals were the major causes of traffic accidents in Minnesota, all of which are within the driver's control.

"Our engineers plan and design the best and safest highways possible," Sieben said. "Our present laws will protect the public if they are obeyed. But ultimately, traffic safety is squarely up to the individual driver. He is responsible, not the car or the highway, for traffic accidents. Through him we can hope for an answer to the problem of accidental death on our highways."

When my ship goes OUT

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	John	6	15-21
Monday	John	6	22-27
Tuesday	II Samuel	22	22-28
Wednesday	Hebrews	6	1-7
Thursday	II Timothy	4	6-12
Friday	I Corinthians	12	7-13
Saturday	Matthew	22	34-40

The imaginative adult waits for his ship to come in. The child watches his ship go out.

And only the ship which has gone out, will ever come in!

Success, in other words, comes to those who venture. Discovery is the reward only of the explorer.

But failure can repay our venturing; futility can frustrate our exploring.

What shall we seek when our ship goes out? This is the crucial question! Shall we seek the qualities of faith and noble life which make honest ventures worthwhile; or the selfish lures which make searching our downfall?

It is no strange coincidence that so many of the happy, contented, successful people in our community are also faithful church-goers. Jesus said:

Seek ye first the Kingdom of God, and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you.

Fosston Man Tries to Drive Car over Wife

Mrs. G. Useldinger Sustains Serious Injuries When Hit

Gregor Useldinger, 61, of Fosston, was held in Polk county jail late last week after allegedly attempting to run over his 43-year old wife in a Fosston street intersection Thursday evening.

Sheriff's officers said Useldinger was seated in his car when his wife crossed the street in front of him. He drove toward her, but missed striking her.

He then backed up, apparently to make another attempt.

Mrs. Useldinger ran onto the sidewalk and Useldinger pursued in the car.

Mrs. Useldinger was hit by the car, knocked out of her shoes, and hurled through the plate window of the J. E. Schraeder auto parts company.

The car ended up against the front of the store. Useldinger was uninjured.

Mrs. Useldinger was taken to Fosston hospital with arm, head and back injuries, and multiple cuts and bruises. Her condition is serious.

Useldinger was arrested and charged with reckless driving and attempt to do bodily harm.

Sheriff Carl Knutson said the charges may be changed when County Attorney F. H. Stadsvold, who is out of the city, returns.

Useldinger is operator of a tavern at Fosston. Knutson said he had been unable to learn whether the couple had been arguing before the incident.

Newfolden School to Open Fall Term Tuesday, Sept. 8

School Building Has Been Completely Renovated During Summer Months

The Newfolden community school will open its doors for the 1959-60 school year on Sept. 8, in accord with the proposed school calendar set up by the state department of education, Supt. John P. Halvorson, announced this week.

The school has been completely gone over by custodians, Mr. and Mrs. Bernhard Nelson. They have washed or painted all walls scrubbed and refinished all floors and cleaned or replaced the filters for the hot air heating system in the new addition.

A crew put in new acoustical tile in the ceiling of the band and music rooms and rebuilt the east entryway in the oldest part of the building.

Attractive plastic drapes have been added in the third and sixth grade rooms to allow for darkening of these rooms for audio-visual use by the grades.

Dennis Borman, band director, is nearing completion of eight weeks of private lessons for band members. Plans for the coming year are to form a third band called a "Cadet band" for band members between the junior band and the senior band.

Wayne Ulferts, driver's training instructor, completed an 8-week course of behind-the-wheel driving for 27 students this past week. The board of education bought a 1959 9-passenger station wagon for use as a driver's training car and school car in May.

Red Lake Co. Fair Gets New Building

Work on a new 40x100 barn of the quonset type was started last week at the Red Lake County Fair Grounds for use at the fair.

The building which will be similar to the one erected last year was authorized by the county fair board recently and will go up north of the present quonset.

Volunteer workmen started pouring footings last week once the ground was leveled and cleared. Completion date will be in time for the 1959 county fair scheduled August 21-22-23.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe DuChamp and their house guest, Mrs. John Neshiem of Portland, Ore. and Mr. and Mrs. Harlin Lee of Grygla spent the Sunday at Union Lake.

FAMILY Shortly after arriving in Thief River Falls, where he will attend Lincoln high school under a program sponsored by the local Rotary club, Mochammad Sjachrani of Indonesia sat with the George Mostue family for this group picture. In addition to Rani on the left, the group includes Brian Mostue, Mr. and Mrs. George Mostue and Brooks Mostue. The picture was taken at the Mostue home at 248 Merriam ave. N.

Indonesian Boy Now Living Here

The newest resident of Thief River Falls is a slight, shy and likeable young man who traveled halfway around the world on an eight-day trip to attend high school in this city.

"Rani," whose full name is Mochammad Sjachrani, is the fifth foreign student to spend a year in Thief River Falls under a program sponsored by the local Rotary club in cooperation with an international agency. He, in company with 28 other young men and women from Indonesia, left their native land July 28 and flew to Manila, where they stopped for 2 days and 3 nights; to Tokyo, to Anchorage, Alaska, and finally to Milwaukee, where the party divided to go to their adopted homes throughout the United States.

Three Indonesian students came to Minnesota. In addition to Rani, another boy is at Fosston and a girl is living elsewhere in the state.

The Lincoln high school student is a graduate of a high school in his native land. During his year in the community, he will live at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Mostue at 248 Merriam ave. N.

When contacted Friday afternoon, Rani, refreshed by two days of rest, was already becoming a part of the Mostue family and was washing dishes with Brian and Brooks Mostue. The 18-year-old Indonesian, who speaks English well, was still slightly bewildered by the rapid transition to life in this country but expressed his pleasure in being here.

One thing above others worried Rani. He looks forward with some trepidation to his first winter of cold weather with its snow and ice and wonders if it will be as uncomfortable as he has been told.

Rani was born in Indonesia when the Dutch colonial government was still in power. At that time, his father was a jeweler in the little town of Malingping but the family fled into the forest at the time of the revolution. The family properties were sold to provide food.

In 1953, Rani's father returned to his birthplace, Serang, where he bought land and became a farmer. Rani and his younger brother helped their father each day in the fields after school.

Rani, who has finished public, secondary and high school, wishes to continue his education to become a doctor after his year in the United States. Now, he wants to learn all he can about the United States and its people to further his understanding of other people and to be able to return to Indonesia with things that will be valuable to his people.

In the meantime, he is looking for someone who will play badminton. It should be added, that badminton is the most popular sport of Indonesia and the world champion has been an Indonesian for many years.

Miss Thelma Conklin of Chicago arrived Saturday and spent the weekend at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Conklin.

Former Members of Jaycee Chapter Barbecue Guests

Past Presidents Give History of Organization at Riverside Park Affair

Nearly 40 past and present members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce turned out last Thursday evening for a barbecue supper in Riverside park. The occasion was an "Exhausted Roosters" night, designed to honor former members of the local Jaycee chapter.

Justus Larson and Walter Larson, both charter members, were presented with frozen chickens, as was Jack Forkenbrock, who, although he is not exactly venerable looking, was singled out as the oldest Jaycee in respect to age.

Each former president who was present, starting with Dr. M. D. Starekow who headed the chapter in 1945, reported briefly on activities during his term of office.

RLF Development Corp. Dealing with Firm In East

An agreement between the Red Lake Falls Development Corporation and an eastern manufacturing firm for the use of the former tow mill property was reached last week subject to final approval by the firm and its directors, says the RLF Gazette.

Meeting with officials of the Red Lake Falls corporation, the top officials of the company agreed on lease terms and other particulars relative to the use of the present site which would have to be improved to the extent of roughly $10,000 by local money.

The general terms would provide that the company would pay for the usual costs of operating the business plus paying the development corporation for real estate taxes and most of the costs of building improvements on a 20-year lease.

Should the eastern firm approve the agreement, it would be necessary for the Red Lake Falls Development Corporation to raise the necessary capital thru the sale of stock to finance the building improvements.

ASC Payments on Wool Total $17,697 Here

Payments Totaling $3,157 on Shorn Lambs in County

As of August 7, 1959, payments in Pennington county under the 1958 shorn wool program amounted to $17,697.50, Patrick W. Culkins, manager of the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, announced today. Payments on 1958 sales of unshorn lambs totaled $3,157.12.

Culkins explained that the county office started making these payments July 20. Applications for payments had to be filed by April 30. The payments are on shorn wool and unshorn lambs marketed between April 1, 1958, and March 31, 1959.

The wool incentive payments for 1958 are at the rate of $70.30 for every $100 producers received from the sale of shorn wool. The payment rate on sales of unshorn lambs to compensate for the wool on them is $1.02 per hundredweight of live animals sold.

Mr. Culkins reminded wool growers that a referendum will be held during the whole month of September on the question whether they wish to continue financing a market development program for wool and lambs. The market development program is financed by deductions from the wool incentive payments earned by growers under the national wool program. The referendum will not affect continuation of the wool incentive payment program, which has been extended for three more years.

City and School Employes Picnic

113 Fire Fighters at Instruction School Here Friday Evening

Firemen from 23 communities in the area gathered in Thief River Falls Friday night, Aug. 7, to attend a demonstration by Swan Anderson, state firemanship trainer, and to get together for a fish fry.

Registration for the evening began at 6 p.m. and was followed by the dinner. A total of 113 fire fighters attended the meeting.

Anderson, a former fire captain in Duluth, demonstrated various phases of fire fighting, rescue and first aid. Tips on handling equipment and ways to do things easier and better were watched by an attentive and appreciative audience.

Concluding the meeting, teams from Warren and Thief River Falls engaged in a water fight with high pressure hoses used to push a suspended barrel down a cable. The local team defeated the one from Warren in two engagements.

First Aid Course

Thief River Falls will be the scene Monday, September 14, of the first in a series of more than a dozen training sessions to be held throughout the state to teach Red Cross first aid to 2,000 or more Minnesota law enforcement officers. Police officers from four counties will be trained here. First aid training is required for all state policemen under a law enacted this year by the legislature.

AWARDS Three former members of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce were honored by the chapter at its first annual "Exhausted Roosters" picnic in Riverside park the evening of Aug. 6. Justus Larson, left, and Walter Larson, right, were recognized by the group as charter members of the club and Jack Forkenbrock, center, was honored as the one attending the picnic who was the oldest former member in terms of service.

P. W. Culkins Farm Near Hazel Suffers Heavy Grain Loss

A loss of 100% of the crops in an area south and east of Thief River Falls from hail which fell Sunday night, Aug. 9, has been reported but it is not yet known how widespread the damage may be. Some grain had already been combined or laying in swaths, while many fields had not yet been cut.

At the Pat Culkins place 10 miles southeast of the city, the hail did a "complete job." Culkins reported that three inches of hail was still on the ground on the north side of his house when he arose at 6:30 today. The stones ranged from the size of marbles to sleet and had stipped the leaves off oak trees. Less than 10% of the harvesting had been done preceding the storm, Culkins estimated.

The Mike Antonoff crop of vegetables was completely wiped out, Culkins reported. The Antonoffs live southeast of Thief River Falls.

At the Edwin Hanson farm one mile east and ½ mile south of the airport, little damage was reported. This also was the case for the city itself.

Heavy rain, amounting to .87 inch in a short period fell in Thief River Falls mixed with a little hail. The precipitaon, added to the three rains which had already fallen during August, brings the month's total up to 2.44 inches compared to only .94 inch during the entire month last year.

High temperatures over the weekend ranged from 81 Thursday to 68 the following day and the lows during the nights have been in the high 40's and the middle and upper 50's.

TRF Man Hurt Critically in Fertile Crash

Alfred Kimbrough Suffers Concussion in High Speed Chase

Alfred R. Kimbrough, 47, of Thief River Falls is receiving treatment in Northwestern Hospital for a concussion and other injuries sustained when a car driven by him Thursday night crashed at high speed into a 12-inch tree at Fertile after leaving Highway 32 and traveling 300 feet or more in the roadside ditch before hitting the approach to a side road.

The car hit the tree ten feet above the ground after flying thru the air for a considerable distance, and landed in the front yard of a home near the highway, coming to rest in the middle of the highway, a total wreck.

The wild ride got under way at Red Lake Falls, when the car, owned by Dr. George VanRooy of this city, and then driven by him, was stopped by RLF Police Chief Henry Thode on suspicion of speeding. Dr. Van Rooy got out of the car and walked over to the patrol car to show his drivers license.

Kimbrough, a passenger in the Van Rooy car, suddenly got behind the wheel of the doctor's car, and started off at high speed, traveling south on Highway 32, and altho pursued by the patrol car outdistanced it before reaching Marcoux, eight miles south, crossing Highway 2 at high speed.

Following the crackup, Kimbrough was taken by ambulance to the hospital here, where his condition was considered serious.

The highway patrol indicated that charges of reckless driving will be filed today against Kimbrough.

Oklee Youth, Age 12, Recovers from 3 Bullet Wounds

Richard Krossen Shot Accidentally by Friend at Home of Neighbor

A 12-year-old Oklee boy with three bullets in his body calmly directed his frightened playmates through an emergency Friday afternoon July 31, in a manner that may have meant the difference between life and death says the Oklee Herald.

Richard Krosan was on top of a porch at the Ingvald Olson farm home north of the village and stood up into the line of fire just as a playmate, James Sorenson, began squeezing the trigger of a .22 automatic from a position higher up on the roof of the house.

Richard caught one bullet throught the left shoulder and two bullets a little lower. One bullet struck a bone and deflected out of his body, another went through his body and a third is still in his body and doctors say it will be left there with no ill effects. Two ribs were broken.

The accident happened at about 4 p.m. Friday while Mr. and Mrs. Olson were away from home.

Lowell Sovde and Ed Nelson brought the ambulance to the scene and with the help of Alvin Jensen and Al Brandt brought Richard down from the roof on a stretcher.

Two registered nurses, Mrs. Gus Larson and Mrs. Roy Hokkanen, rode in the ambulance to Fosston where preliminary x-rays were taken and first aid treatment was given. Mrs. Larson stayed with the patient during the trip to Crookston where he entered Bethesda Hospital. He was released from the hospital Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ingvald Johnson of Minneapolis visited Friday afternoon at the Pete Sorter home.

Loralea Larson Becomes Bride of Eugene Nelson

The altar of the Trinity Lutheran Church was graced with baskets of white gladiola, pink carnations and lighted candelabra for the wedding of Loralea Jane Larson and Eugene E. Nelson, Saturday evening, August 1.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Thelma Larson of Thief River Falls and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Nelson also of this city.

Rev. Otto Dale performed the double ring ceremony with Mrs. Walter Larson at the organ. Soloist, Mrs. John Ulrich sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer", as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride, entering in on the arm of her uncle, Hans Newman, was attired in a floor length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over net and bridal satin. It featured a scalloped sabrina neckline on a fitted bodice with long lace sleeves, which came to a point at the hand. A tiara of pearls held her fingertip veil and she carried a bouquet of pink glamellias and white feathered mums. Her pearl necklace and earrings were a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Dale Hanson of Northwood, N. Dakota, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, followed by Miss Janice Harbott, friend of the bride and Miss Karen Anderson of Minneapolis, cousin of the bride. They were attired in identical street length dresses of pink crystallete with white frosted daisies. Their gowns were accented with sweetheart neckline, bouffant skirts and wide sashes and they carried cascade bouquets of purple asters. Their lace gloves and pearl earrings were a gift of the bride.

Little Kathy Jo Swanson was flower girl, wearing a short dress of white crystallete with frosted daisies with a large collar and sash. She carried a basket of white carnations and pink roses in her lace gloved hands. Her gold cross and gloves were a gift of the bride. Donnie Huot served as ringbearer.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was Dale Hanson of Northwood, N. Dakota, brother-in-law of the bride, while Don Naverud, cousin of the bridegroom and James Larson, brother of the bride, served as groomsmen. Ushers were Ted Larson, brother of the bride, and Dennis Swanson, friend of the couple. Joey Nelson and David Larson, brothers of the bridal pair, served as candle lighters. All the gentlemen of the bridal party wore white dinner jackets, black trousers and boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Nelson chose an aqua blue lace dress with white accessories while the bridegroom's mother was attired in a beige dress with beige and brown accessories. Their corsages were of white carnations and deep pink roses.

Approximately 100 relatives and friends attended the reception held following the ceremony in the church parlors. Mrs. Richard Swanson and Mrs. Arthur Anderson of Minneapolis, aunts of the bride, cut and served the four tiered wedding cake, which was baked and decorated by Mrs. Albert Harbott and Mrs. Henry Thorson. Mrs. Harry Harlow, aunt of the bridegroom, poured punch while Mrs. Julius Klien poured the coffee. Waitresses were Evelyn Duden, Eunice Chapman, Rosalie Koralewski, Marlene Harbott, Martha Uggerud, all friends of the couple.

Others assisting were Miss Janice Eggers, Miss Mercedes Everson, JoAnn Anderson, and Mrs. Mendley Norby, at the gift table, while Marcia Nelson was at the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson left on a short honeymoon trip, for which the bride chose a pink sheath dress with white and pink accessories. After visiting with relatives they will leave for Fairbanks, Alaska, where they will make their home for about a year, as Mr. Nelson is with the United States Air Force there.

The bride and bridegroom are both graduates of Lincoln High School. Mrs. Nelson has been employed in the office of L. B. Hartz Wholesale.

Amateur Airplane Builders Convene at Rockford, Ill.

V. M. Draper Represents T. R. Falls Community at National Gathering

Hundreds of amateur-built plane enthusiasts, including a good representation of Minnesotans, gathered at the Greater Rockford airport, Rockford, Ill., the past week-end for the annual fly-in of the Experimental Aircraft association.

Several members of the St. Paul and Minneapolis chapters of EAA attended the fly-in, as did many from other points in Minnesota. Thief River Falls was represented by V. M. Draper, one of several EAA members in this area.

The fly-in was a four-day affair, lasting from Thursday thru Sunday. Bad weather earlier in the weekend grounded many planes enroute, but by Saturday over 70 amateur-built and restored antique planes were on hand, according to Robert Nolinske, secretary-treasurer of EAA. All told there were approximately 300 aircraft of all types on the Rockford airport during the fly-in.

Crowds of local people in addition to the hundreds of EAA'ers present created standing-room-only conditions in the areas of the airport open to the public during the main events of the affair, Draper reported.

The 60-odd amateur-built planes at the fly-in showed outstanding workmanship, and represented only a small fraction of the hundreds of home-built planes assembled in recent years by EAA members.

Also present for the fly-in were many Canadians who are members of EAA or its Canadian counterpart, the Ultra-Light Aircraft association of Canada.

The Rev. Otto Dale to Hold Final Services Here Sunday, Aug. 16

The Rev. Otto Dale, for nearly five years pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, will preach his final sermon here next Sunday, August 16, before leaving by car August 17 to take over his new charge in Sarasota, Florida.

Accompanying him on the trip will be four of his children, Stephen, Gregory, Joan and Evonne, while Mrs. Dale will leave by plane Friday, August 21, along with Catherine and Bradley and her mother, Mrs. Anna J. Rustad.

The Rev. Reuben A. Wangberg, the new pastor at Trinity church, will arrive from Madison, Minnesota, to be installed at both services Sunday, September 13, with Dr. A. E. Hanson, president of the Northern Minnesota district of the ELC officiating.

Pastor Dale came to Thief River Falls from Minneola, Minnesota in late December, 1954. During the time that he has been in Thief River Falls, he has held a number of positions of responsibility both in the Church and in the community.

He has served as president of the Thief River Falls circuit for 4 years and, in that capacity, has also been on the district council of the Northern Minnesota district. He has also been on the faculty of Bible Camps during his ministry here.

In the community, he served as chairman of the Community Chest drive for one year and also served as president of the Northrop P.T.A.

During Pastor Dale's ministry here, the church was completely renovated, that work being done in the fall of 1957.

A farewell reception was held for the Dale family on Sunday, August 2nd in the church. A large number of people were present for the program and the fellowship hour which followed.

Public Opinion

Editor Times;

A while back I read in your paper a public opinion letter you printed on actual experience of Fireman Walt Leach, also Ira Pederson. Would you please publish this letter on my own true experience.

Twice while I have been on the road the engineer became ill and had to be removed from the engines only later to die.

First time was coming into the Glenwood, Minn. yards. The Engineer became so ill he had to be taken off the engine and I put the train away in the yard, also taking the engine safely to the roundhouse, the engineer remained on the critical list for a couple of weeks then he died.

The second time the engineer became ill and asked me to take over the controls because he was unable to perform his duties any longer, we had to have a brakeman take over my duties while I ran the train and this engineer never was able to work again because a short time later he had a recurrence of his heart attack and passed away.

Both of these incidents could have had a more tragic ending had there not been a second man in the cab of the locomotive.

Thank you,
Mr. Kenneth Halldin,
T. R. Falls, Minn.

Thieves Trip Fertile Here Thursday 10 to 7

A four-run flurry in the seventh inning, after two men had been retired, gave the Thieves a 10 to 7 win over the Fertile nine in an exhibition game played on the Fair Grounds diamond Thursday night.

Trailing by a 7 to 5 score entering the last half of the seventh inning, and after Charley Kankel and Marv Mansfield had been retired, the Thieves, on a walk to Glenn Carlson, a double by Frank Gunderman, a walk to Gene Leslie, a line single to center field by Rod Max, a catcher's interference on Dennis Bakke, and a single by Harley Drees, racked up four runs to take the lead, and go on to win the game.

The game was highlighted by a pair of home runs. In the third inning, with Arlan Hjelle resting on second base and Kankel on first base, Mansfield connected with one of Lyle Sannes' right-handed slants for a home run over the fence in left-center. In the sixth inning, with the singling Rex Haugan on first base, Fertile's Arlo Brunsberg, a power-hitting southpaw, drove one of Drees' pitches over the center-field fence.

The Thieves' pitching duties were shared by Drees and Leslie, with Drees hurling the first six innings and Leslie coming in for the final three innings, and gaining credit for the win over the Fertile team. Fertile, incidentally, is leading in the standings of the fast Norman-Polk league.

Vo-Ag Enrollment Down at Lincoln

J. Metusalem, Instructor Submits Annual Report

In his annual report to the board of education on the 1958-59 operation of the Lincoln high school vocational agriculture department, Jon Metusalem, instructor, voiced concern over a decline in enrollment from 49 in 1955-56 to a prospective 27 for the coming school year.

Factors involved in the reduction, he said, may include extensive soil banking, farmers' dissatisfaction with present prices and farm policies, and some boys' preference for other courses.

The report also lists the many activities carried on by the local chapter of the Future Farmers of America, conducted in connection with the vo-ag course. All students, Metusalem reported, are required to conduct a supervised farming program, their income in 1958 from productive projects aggregating $14,087, or an average of $140 for each student.

TRF Legion Jrs. Lose 3-2 to Hawley in Dist.

A high pop fly to the infield that fell safely between the pitcher's mound and third base provided the aggressive and hard-running Hawley juniors with the scoring opportunity to tally a pair of runs in the fourth inning and defeat the Thief River Falls juniors, 3 to 2, in a first round game of the American Legion's district junior baseball tournament at Ada on Saturday night. In another first round game played earlier in the day, the Fergus Falls juniors, by a 12 to 5 score, defeated the Bagley juniors.

In the district championship finals played Sunday night, Fergus Falls defeated Hawley, 10 to 6, to gain a berth in the state American Legion junior baseball tournament that will be held in Austin on August 13, 14 and 15. Fergus Falls, in scoring their win over Hawley, clubbed the offerings of righthanders George McDonald and Ted Hatlen for eleven hits. Hawley was able to garner but five hits of righthander Barry Johnson, the Fergus Falls hurler who collected his second tournament victory in as many days. Fergus Falls will meet the District Eight representatives in a first round game at 7:00 P.M. on August 13.

Saturday night's tilt between Hawley and Thief River Falls was a fine exhibition of junior baseball, and it developed into a pitcher's duel between the locals' Arlan Hjelle and Hawley's Ted Hatlen.

Hawley knotted the score in the top half of the third inning when Ted Hatlen led off with a triple to the fence in right-center. Hjelle whiffed Duane Halvorson, but Dean Whaley looped a single into right field, scoring Hatlen.

In the fourth, with one out, Dave Quam lofted a high fly to the infield. Hjelle made a call to take the ball, and then, seeing that the ball was to the third base side of the mound, called to Larson to cover the catch. The result was that the ball fell safely for hit. George McDonald walked, moving Quam to second. Ted Hatlen flied to right field, and Quam, showing good speed, advanced to third after the catch. With runners on second and third, Halvorson slapped a ground single past first base, scoring Quam, and when the ball was fumbled momentarily, McDonald raced in with what proved to be the winning run.

The locals picked up a run in the last half of the fourth inning when, with two men retired, Gary Klungness (who drew three walks during the game) was given a pass, stole second and scored on Paul Klungness's single to right field.

The locals made an effort to get back into the game when, in the sixth inning, with two men out, they placed runners on first and second. Jerry Larson gained a "life" when Hawley's Whaley muffed a fly ball, and Gary Klungness walked. But the rally ended on Paul Klungness ground ball to first baseman Ron Henrickson.

Oen's Appliance, 120, vs. Northern Chevrolet, 114.
Wilson Bros., 118, vs. Starekow Clinic, 109.

In an exciting conclusion to the 1959 league trapshooting schedule, Don Olson's Coast-to-Coast squad, with Emil Malwitz arriving late and shooting a 14-8 for a 22, edged out the Pharmacy squad, 112 to 106, to win the league championship. The Coast-to-Coast team succeed the defending league champion Times, who finished with a 117 to 101 win over Disse's Optimists to post a league-point aggregate of 20 points.

The newly-crowned league champions had only one "25", that the 22-5 chalked up by Darrell Wood.

The evening's highest team total was the 120 scored by the Oen's Appliance in scoring a 120 to 114 win over the Northern Chevrolet. Hank Storhaug, with a 20-6, and Dr. Paul Wendt, with a 17-8, had "25's" for the winners; while George Mackenroth's 21-7 was the "high gun" for the Chevy squad.

Leading the Times in their effort to retain their league championship were Mel Zitzow, with a 22-7, and Jim Rude, with a 20-7. Bill Ranta of the Disse team had an 18-7.

The Wilson Bros. squad, with Stan Wilson carding a 23-2 and Sandy Wilson scoring a 24-1, refeated the ever-losing Starekow Clinic team, 118 to 109. Bob Craik, with a 17-8, and Art Christianson, with a 19-8, were the "25's" on the Starekow scoreboard.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Trap Shooting Champions

In an upset that was comparable to Ingemar Johansson's defeat of Floyd Patterson, Don Olson's Coast-to-Coast squad—Don Olson, Walt Fisher, Fred Mittelstadt, Darrell Wood, Emil Malwitz, John Peterson, George Hale, Ivan Hoglin, and Arnie Johnson—won the Thief River Trap Shoot league championship. In the final standings, the Coast-to-Coast edged out the defending champion Times, 21 to 20.

In the league windup matches on Thursday, the Times, by a 117 to 101 score, defeated Dr. Jim Disse's squad; and the Coast-to-Coast defeated the Pharmacy squad, 112 to 106.

But there was considerable doubt about the outcome of the Coast-to-Coast vs. Pharmacy match, and for an hour or so it appeared that the squads would have ended in a two-day deadlock, with the Times sharing the lead with the Coasters.

With but fifteen or twenty minutes of shooting time remaining, the Coast-to-Coast, on Olson's 17, Fisher's 21, Wood's 25, Hale's 24, and Johnson's 20, were even-up with the Pharmacy on the score-board, with each team having 106's. Then Plummer's Emil Malwitz arrived, and his score of 14-8, for a 22, boosted the Coast-to-Coast aggregate to 112, and a two-point victory.

In fairness to the new champions it must be mentioned that they have proved their championship caliber for they have been in first place in the league standings since the first week of competition. For three weeks they shared the lead with the Oen's Appliance squad, but then they scored a 120 to 118 win over the Oen's and from then on they never looked back.

While it was a disappointed band of Times shooters who witnessed their championship hopes being blasted by Malwitz's 22, they did get some comfort and satisfaction out of finishing three points ahead of the Northern Chevrolet squad.

Like a Tonic

When, in the first inning of the Bridgeman's vs. Bjorkman's softball game at the East Side diamond on Thursday evening, John Drury poled a right-field home run to spark a five-run rally by the Bridgeman's, city softball was given a tonic-like lift.

For years and years it has been the Bjorkman's and Milt Reierson against the field, with the field usually ending in second place. Thursday evening's final result, 9 to 4 for Bridgeman's, may be an indication that a softball era is coming to an end.

But in spite of Thursday's loss, and at the end of the game Bjorkman's squad were a group that could be likened to the Supreme Court during President Franklin Soosevelt's second term in office, being "nine tired old men," we won't short-rate the "boys" too much in the city softball playoffs.

While it is true that the Bjorkman's aren't as fleet of foot as in years past, and that Reierson's raise-ball isn't as mystifying as formerly, and that manager Lowell Collin's strategy of bunt-and-run hasn't been as effective this season, the green-jerseyed squad can come up with a "big" game. Jimmy Anderson's presence in the lineup will give the Bjorkman's quite a boost, both on defense, he's a catcher and as a long-ball threat at the plate.

We hope that the Bjorkman's and Bridgeman's meet in the softball finals. But before that event can come to pass, they will have to sideline the Hamms, and that won't be easy.

And in the replay of the protested game between the Hamm's and Bridgeman's, which was played Saturday evening, the Hamm's, by an 8 to 6 score, reversed the decision, winning in nine innings. We don't know if that game was a tonic or not.

Thieves Score 17-12 Victory over Winger

The Thief River Falls Thieves clinched a share of first place honors in the Northern Minny league when, in a seven-inning game played at Winger on Sunday afternoon, the Thieves scored a 17 to 12 win over the Tigers. The win gave manager John Drury's club a league record of nine wins and three losses.

For four innings on Sunday afternoon, the Thieves vs. Tigers tussel at Winger resembled a ball game, with the Thieves holding a 5 to 2 lead. But in the fifth inning, poling out six base hits and getting the benefit of three walks and a pair of Winger errors, the Thieves racked up eight runs. Another four-run cluster in the sixth inning boosted the Thieves' lead to 17 to 2.

The game started off in fine fashion, and after a scoreless first inning Kinger, on a walk to Erv Rude, a double by Gordy Sonstelie, and a single by Glen Nansen, scored two runs in the second inning to take a 2 to 0 lead.

The Thieves, in the top of the third inning, shoved across three runs on singles by Joey Poole, Glenn Carlson, and Frank Gunderman, and Gene Leslie's double. A walk to Rod Max, an error on Arlan Hjelle's ground ball, and Marv Mansfield's ground single to left field plated a pair of runs in the 4th inning, giving the Thieves a 5 to 2 lead.

From the fifth inning the game was a parade of pitchers as manager Drury of the Thieves sent Charlie Kankel, Dennis Bakke, and Hjelle to the mound for the locals; and Winger sent in Bob Evenmo and southpaw Glen Nansen.

National American Legion Convention Set for Minneapolis

Several outstanding entertainment events slated during the 41st annual national convention of The American Legion in the Twin Cities, Aug. 22-27, will be open to the public as well as to Legion members and their families.

An estimated 50,000 persons are expected to view the largest and most colorful parade ever staged in the Upper Midwest on Monday, Aug. 24, when scores of Legion contingents will swing up Nicollet ave. in Minneapolis.

Slated to begin at 9 A.M., the mammoth parade will continue for at least eight hours with more than 40,000 parade participants including dozens of bands, drum and bugle corps, color guards, drill teams, floats, military equipment, clowns and marching units.

Some 16,000 parade seats at $1.50 each will be available to public and Legionnaires alike in Parade Stadium.

Memorial Stadium on the University of Minnesota campus will be the scene of one of the country's outstanding drill and musical events as top-rated Legion drum and bugle corps from all sections of the U.S. vie for the coveted national championship.

Legionnaires hope to pack 60,000-seat Memorial Stadium for the Parade of Champions, the senior drum and bugle corps finals, beginning at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 23. The cream of Legion musicians, garbed in brightly colored uniforms, will perform highly complex drill formations while playing tricky musical scores before the critical eyes of professional judges. Special lighting is being installed at the stadium for the evening championship performance.

For football fans, two hand-picked squads of state high school grid stars will square off in Parade Stadium on Wednesday, Aug. 26, at 8 p.m., in the 11th annual Legion All-Star classic.

While Legionnaires will have priority for balcony seats in the Minneapolis Auditorium during formal convention sessions, the general public will be admitted free to whatever seats are available.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon will be keynote speaker during the opening session on Tuesday, Aug. 25. Other top speakers will include former president Harry S. Truman; General Lauris Norstad, who commands all NATO forces in Europe; AFL-CIO president George Meany and Senate majority leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas.

Non-Legionnaires may purchase tickets to the parade, drum and bugle corps championship and All-Star football game thru any Legion post or by writing: American Legion, 14 So. 9th St., Minneapolis 2.

GOP Women Plan Fund Drive Sept. 15

Seek Money to Finance Year-round Campaign

Thousands of Republican women thruout the state will take up the man-sized job of soliciting party funds on Sept. 15 as they fan out through their neighborhoods to "ring the bell for a better Minnesota."

On that day they will conduct a one-night "Neighbor-to-Neighbor" drive to raise 20% of the total party budget through "a little bit from a lot of people," announce Mrs. Evelyn Heberling of Winona and Mrs. Dorothy Congdon of Duluth, drive co-chairwomen.

For the first time this year, the "Neighbor-to-Neighbor" campaign is being waged on a statewide basis, headed by a special women's finance committee.

The doorsteps fund drive, according to Mrs. Heberling, is part of a total party effort to raise a record "peace time" Republican budget to finance a year-around campaign program which includes placing of professional workers in each district, stepped-up public relations and communications program, research and candidate development.

Each contributor will be issued a card identifying the giver as a "1959 GOP Campaigner."

The height of human wisdom is to bring our tempers down to our circumstances, and to make a calm within, under the weight of the greatest storm without. —Daniel Defoe

Stable Steel Prices

Business Week reports hopefully that "stable steel prices are in sight." Industry leaders, it states, are pledged to hold the line against further price increases, if the steel strike is settled on a voluntary basis, which means, in effect, if a settlement is not forced upon the industry by government interference.

And there are indications that the industry is willing to make some wage concessions to the workers if the workers will make some concessions to management in the revision of rules that the industry says encourage "featherbedding" and reduce eficiency. It would seem therefore, that a strike settlement that would be favorable to the American public as well as to both labor and industry, is now a definite possibility.

The Business Week report also encourages the hope that there will be price cuts for some steel products before the end of the year, and that would be a very welcome wage increase for all of the American people, a step in the direction of increased buying power for the dollar. These cuts probably will come because they will be forced upon the industry by foreign competition.

But the biggest gain that will come to us with a hold-the-line on wages and prices in steel will be the affect of such a settlement in other industries. The steel settlement is important mainly because it will establish the pattern for settlements throughout the country and will be a deciding factor in determining whether or not we are headed for another round of inflation and a further cut in the buying power of our dollar.

Dairy Surplus Down

An Agriculture department report gives us the encouraging information that the government-owned stocks of surplus dairy products are running "sharply below those of a year ago."

On July 31 these stocks totaled 126 million pounds, down from 310 million pounds a year earlier. Butter was down from 96 million pounds to 50 million; cheese from 58 to 30 million pounds, and nonfat dry milk from 156 to 46 million pounds.

According to the department report this 60 per cent reduction reflects a small decline in milk production and an increase in consumption of milk and dairy products. If this trend continues, another year should complete the disposal of the government-held surpluses, a tremendous achievement in terms of the enormous holdings of a few years ago.

Now would be a good time for the government to serve notice on the industry that it must prepare to assume the responsibility for its own production and marketing controls. The industry should be given a reasonable period of time in which to organize. Maybe that time limit should be one year—maybe it should be five. The important thing is that a time limit be set and that the industry must take steps to set up its own control organization.

Most of the industry leaders who speak for the producers are agreed that this should be done. Unfortunately too many of the big wheels in the industry are interested primarily in the processing and marketing of dairy products and they are well satisfied with things as they are. They never had it so good. Their primary interest is in the spread between what the producer gets and the consumer pays. That is where they get theirs. Whether or not the producer gets enough is a matter of only secondary concern to them. They are dealing in a market in which there no longer is any middle-man's risk. They have been the principal beneficiaries of the government's price guarantee at the expense of the taxpayers.

We still think John Brandt had the right idea, that the industry should control its own production and marketing and that the producers should control the industry. He had little confidence in politicians and was satisfied that the industry would be able to achieve reasonable security only to the extent that it controlled its own operations.

Arry Still Gives 'em Ell

The visit of Vice President Nixon to Russia reminded former President Harry Truman of some other recent visits by prominent American officials that brought forth some interesting comparisons. While he thought well of Nixon's journey to Moscow, he held out little hope that it would accomplish much good. But it was the amateur diplomats that he took after in his usual colorful manner.

"I am disturbed by the continuing spectacle of so many well-intentioned, distinguished Americans travelling to Moscow on their own and intruding into the conduct of our foreign affairs," he said. "Seldom have we been so badly served as we are now by a procession of visitors who come back and rush into print and tell us what Khrushchev intends to do. They are being used by Khrushchev to serve his own purposes."

Mr. Truman didn't make any attempt to conceal the identities of those who had irritated him, some of whom are men prominent in his own party. His reference to eight-hour interviews could mean only Senator Humphrey. More directly he said Averell Harriman shouldn't have been so eager to tell the public what Mr. K. had said to him and what he had said to Mr. K.

All of which brings out the following sensible observation by the Christian Science Monitor:

> "Well, we aren't as disturbed about this as Mr. Truman. We suspect Americans know with what seasoning to take statements by Mr. Humphrey and Mr. Harriman, accustomed as they are to political utterances. This being so, the net result is probably no more confusion about Mr. Khrushchev than already exists. Furthermore, we are staunchly opposed to silencing American politicians on any subject, a rather impractical thought anyway.
> "All the same, we hope Mr. Truman's barbs will pierce the next political visitor to the Kremlin. If one of the dangers to world peace is that Mr. Khrushchev will be misled about U.S. policy, we can think of few things more calculated to confuse the man than a parade of American politicians. Even when you grow up with them, it can be pretty bewildering."

Harmony Prevails

It appears that our Democrat-controlled Congress is going to hold the present session's appropriations down to a figure substantially lower than the total asked for by President Eisenhower. That's a commendable record for which the party may take justifiable pride. The fact that such a record was achieved mainly because the President made effective use of his veto power does not detract from the contribution made by the conservative leadership of the "opposition" party. Without that cooperation it would not have been possible to restrain the spenders, many of whom classified as Republicans.

As a matter of fact, President Eisenhower has been getting along better with some of the members of the opposition party than he has with some of his own When he has disagreed with Congress the differences have not been based on partisan considerations. Those who have spoken for the majority group have been considerate of him. For a government that has been divided there has been unusual harmony.

With a national election in the making we may assume that from now on party considerations will be more pronounced. The political campaign will bring with it much of the usual bitterness. But our guess, and our hope, is that President Eisenhower will not let himself become involved personally in campaign issues that will be strictly partisan. When he was called upon to serve as president he was neither a Republican nor a Democrat, but a great leader to whom the country turned with confidence. We are sure he will complete his present tour of duty with that confidence undiminished, respected not as a great Republican but as a great soldier and statesman.

The Buffalo Miracle

(Financial Post, Toronto)

Old timers must have rubbed their eyes when they saw a brief report from Ottawa last week: There will be an open season for buffalo hunting this fall.

True, only about 30 licenses are expected to be issued and they will be good only in the Northwest Territories. But this will be the first open season of any kind for buffalo since 1893.

It's a miracle that there are any of these big animals alive in North America today, let alone so many that limited hunting is to be permitted again.

Less han 50 years ago it was exceedingly doubtful whether the buffalo could survive—except for the famous pair of bronze ones in the Manitoba legislature buildings. By the end of the century the vast herds that once roamed the western prairies had completely vanished. Only a handful of animals were left, all in zoos or private reserves.

Rapid and total extinction was certain when the Canadian government stepped in, purchased the only sizable group available, and gave it protection in a special preserve in Saskatchewan. Now there are several thousand buffalo and for years a substantial surplus has been shipped to the open range in the north.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

A young mother told her 7-year-old daughter, Ann, that she would be bringing her a baby sister or brother before long.

The child's reaction was not at all enthusiastic. "I don't want any sisters or brothers," she said flatly.

A few days later, her mother decided to bring the subject up again. "Well, Ann," she asked, "did you tell any of your friends we are having a baby?"

"No, I didn't," snapped the child, "I'm still hoping to talk you out of it!"

As a sales gimmick, a company sent a salesman out from door to door to sell one-dollar bills at a special price of 75 cents. Naturally people were very suspicious and he couldn't sell a single bill. One woman turned him down with: "You're trying to gyp me. My husband said only this morning that the dollar is only worth 50 cents today."

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

Minnesota is one of the nation's leaders in fishing, and in other uses of water for recreational purposes. I often wonder how many Minnesotans realize the importance of our water resources, particularly at a time like the present when water is becoming more important than ever before, for both work and play.

Trend in Outdoor Sports

Throughout the United States water sports are enjoying a boom of major proportions. Our population has increased approximately twenty percent during the past ten years, while the estimated increase in numbers of people enjoying recreational boating has reached 150 percent. Retail expenditures on boating have gone up by 167 percent. Increases in sales of boats, outboard motors, fishing tackle and fishing licenses all indicate the trend toward water recreation.

Water for Both Work and Play

At the same time as we have been increasing our use of surfacewater in our lakes and rivers for recreational purposes, we have tremendously increased our demands for adequate supplies of water for use in industry and in everyday living. Population increase is a factor here, too, but the present per capita use of water is twice what is was fifty years ago.

Not long ago a capacity that would supply 60 gallons per person per day was considered satisfactory for a municipal water supply, but today 150 gallons or more are used.

New and Old Uses of Water

Many new developments, such as the air conditioning of factories and office buildings, require large volumes of water. Much of our manufacturing, such as food processing, pulp and paper mills, oil refineries, production of steam and of electricity, all depend upon an adequate water supply. And in Minnesota the new taconite industry requires immense quantities of water.

Resources for the Future

Water is therefore becoming much more important each year. An adequate supply for industry and commerce is a real factor in economic growth. Minnesota has a real advantage in this factor now, and we must make the most of this advantage by wise planning and wise use of our water resources.

Minnesota must also plan to make the best use of its tremendous advantage in water for recreational uses. Every indication is that our lakes and rivers will increasingly attract many times the tourists and vacationers that now enjoy them particularly if we make sure that they are improved.

Conflicting Interests

The different uses of water often conflict with each other. Disposal of industrial waste may contribute to water pollution, and this must therefore be controlled. The maintenance of a uniform water level in a lake by means of a dam is helpful to those who live on the shores of the lake or who have resorts there, but it may have an opposite effect on street flow and floods. Many agencies of the state government are therefore concerned with the control and use of water resources.

It is because of the public interest that a written permit from the Commissioner of Conservation must be obtained before any work is done that would affect the beds of lakes or streams, and before any surface or underground water is appropriated for other than domestic use.

More Information

The Minnesota Department of Conservation has this year published a very attractive and informative Hydrologic Atlas of Minnesota, which presents for the first time an overall view of the water resources of our state. It regard to each of the 39 separate presents specific information with watershed units that are found in Minnesota.

YOUR SENATOR REPORTS

from the Desk of SENATOR HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

Corn and Hogs—All signs point to a massive increase in corn production this year, with official predictions of more than 4.2 billion bushels of corn this year. And a consequent price disaster for hog-producers is imminent. Best estimates are that a 10% surplus of hogs over consumption levels results in a 25% drop in hog prices. The keystone of this impending disaster was laid a year ago when the Administration succeeded in getting Congress to pass a bill "to take care of corn." Once again the impossibility of reducing agricultural production by lowering farm prices and taking off production controls is demonstrated.

Bushels and Trucks—In 1952, a farmer could buy a half-ton truck for what he could sell 818 bushels of wheat, or 936 bushels of corn for. By 1958 he had to raise 1,165 bushels of wheat or 1,619 bushels of corn in order to pay for his 1958 half-ton truck. In other words, the dollar cost of the truck went up, at the same time that the price the farmer was getting for each bushel of wheat and corn went down. What else, then, can the farmer do — in the absence of a workable system to manage production— except work harder, use more fertilizer and better seed, and generally expand his producion to the limit?

Expanding consumption — In the long run, the growing world population will demand all the farm production possible. Even today, there is much that can be done to turn so-called "surpluses" into assets. My Food for Peace program, moving to early Senate action, will provide additional impetus to our program of using food and fiber to strengthen American foreign policy. I also expect to get at least a pilot plan food-stamp program through Congress to permit broader distribution of farm products to the needy here in America. Last week we got through the Senate and Industrial Uses bill which will put on a full-time team in the Department of Agriculture to develop new and expanded industrial uses of farm products.

Family Farm Problems — In the meantime, however, in the absence of any workable farm program of orderly marketing and income protection for farmers, steps must be taken to keep the family farmer from going under. Having taken a 15% cut in income over the past six years, the average farm family must still try to pay the monthly bills and keep the farm in production. In the case of hog-producers, I introduced last week an incentive plan to encourage marketing of light-weight hogs and thereby reduce the total amount of pork coming on the market. This would help to stabilize hog prices. More broadly, I am introducing this week, legislation calling on the Secretary of Agriculture to present to Congress a program for the orderly development of family farm income and market supply stabilization. We are setting forth guidelines by which we hope the Secretary will be able to revise his hopelessly confused and unworkable policies of recent years.

Hail Continue to Plague N.V Area this Week

Devastating Storm Hits Kittson Co. Area Sunday Night

Hail Sunday night, Aug. 9, and again Tuesday destroyed crops and did other damage in the northwestern section of the state including the area southeast of Thief River Falls.

Cliff Bouvette, editor of the Hallock Enterprise, reported that 80 to 100% of the crops in a 22,000 acre section of the best crop land in Kittson county was wiped out by a storm from 7:30 to 8:30 Sunday night. The storm entered the northwest corner of the county near St. Vincent and continued southeast about nine or ten miles.

Some hailstones, too large to fit in a coffee cup, were photographed by Bouvette and much of the hail was the diameter of a quarter. Many roofs were badly damaged and windows broken at St. Vincent and Pembina preceding the storm in Kittson county which destroyed 8 to 10% of that county's crop.

In addition to the storm damage in the Pennington county area southeast of Thief River Falls which was reported in Monday's Times, insurance agents have reported hail damage claims from farm owners west of St. Hilaire and from around Plummer.

The Warren Sheaf reported hail damage up to 100% in the Alma area and that the Old Mill and Alma Creamery areas were particularly hard hit. The same storm which hit the Hallock area Sunday night struck near Angus and another storm struck the area Tuesday. Damage to late barley and sugar beets was particularly severe.

The skies over Thief River Falls looked ominous Tuesday evening, Aug. 11, and residents of the area were seen anxiously examining the clouds as the temperature rose, the wind stilled and the mugginess closed in. Rain began to fall about 7 o'clock and was accompanied by some light hail about a half hour later but no storm damage was reported. A total of .35 inch of rain fell before 11 p.m. and an addilonal .37 inch was registered later that night.

High temperatures this week have ranged from 67 Wednesday to 83 Tuesday and lows from 49 Tuesday night to 54 Monday night.

A total of 3.16 inches of rain have already fallen this month compared to .91 for the entire month of August, 1958.

The KTRF weather forecast is for cloudy with scattered showers and thunderstorms today and tonight with continued cool temperatures. Decreasing cloudiness may be expected tomorrow with little temperature change.

The high today is expected to be from 65 to 70 and the low tonight from 45 to 55.

Indonesian Boys Guests of Rotary

Pres. Mickelson Tells of Club Plans for Year

Two visitors from Indonesia who will attend school in Minnesota this year were special guests of the Rotary club at its Monday meeting.

Mochammad Sjacharani, who will be the guest of the George Mostue family at 248 Merriam ave. N. while attending Lincoln high school, and Makmun Hasbullah, who will stay at the home of Rev. Paul Johnsroy, pastor of Hope Lutheran church in Fosston, are two of 29 Indonesian students to attend school in the United States under the exchange program. Both boys are from the community of Serang.

Irwin T. Mickelson, Rotary president, reported to the club on tentative plans made at the board of directors meeting in June. Included are an indoctrination program for new members, the foreign students program, club teams for bowling and curling and programs for the meetings during the year.

A film on the beginning of the arms industry in the United States was shown at the conclusion of the program.

lysterious Blazes amage 3 Cars Near Gentilly Last Sunday

Sheriff Carl Knutson of Polk county said Tuesday his office is continuing its investigation of the burning of three cars on the road between Crookston and Gentilly early Sunday.

Assisting in the investigation is C. A. Cherry, deputy state fire marshal from Detroit Lakes.

Knutson said they are following several leads in the case and hope to make an arrest soon.

The Crookston fire department was called at 4:05 a.m. Sunday when it was reported that a car was on fire on the Gentilly road. When firemen arrived, three cars were found burning.

Two of the cars, one of which was stolen from Saul Motor Co., were in the ditch and the third car was about a mile away. One of the cars in the ditch belonged to Kenneth Noesen of Crookston who reported to the sheriff's office that he had run in the ditch about 1:30 a.m.

The car down the road belonged to Del Hanson of Red Lake Falls, who said he had left it there since Friday night because of a flat tire.

'Make It Yourself with Wool' Sewing Contest Open Here

Mrs. Frank Heinze, County Chairman, Invites Local Seamstresses to Compete

Home seamstresses planing their fall and winter wardrobes would do well to add a wool garment to their plans so that they may enter the "Make It Yourself With Wool" home sewing contest, advises Mrs. Frank Heinze, county director of the contest.

Besides a chance to make their own garments, entrants can also compete for a whole series of prizes on a district, state and national level. In the past, girls in this area have proved very successful in the sewing competition. In 1958 Phyllis Bernard of Minneapolis was statewide senior winner and represented Minneasota in the national finals and Jo Ann Odegaard of Gonvick was the junior winner.

The four classes, sub-deb, junior, senior and adult permit competition among groups of similar age and ability. The sub-deb class is for girls 13 to 15 who are having their first experience with wool garments. Sub-debs may exhibit a skirt, jumper or vest and skirt. Ensembles, coats and dresses can be made and modeled by the junior and senior girls.

The junior division includes 14 to 17 year olds while the senior class consists of the 18 to 22 year olds. The adult category is for women over 22. The purpose of the contest is to show young girls and women how easy it is to sew with wool.

Full information and entry blanks on the contest may be obtained from Mrs. Frank Heinze, Rt. 3, Thief River Falls, Minn. All entries must be in by October 15. The district contest will be held on Nov. 7th at the city auditorium in Thief River Falls.

To Report on Hay Supplies in Fall

To Help State Farmers Solve Shortage Problem

County agents, other University of Minnesota agricultural extension service specialists and the Minnesota department of agriculture will help farmers solve the hay shortage problem this year.

They are organizing a hay supply information service, to find sources of hay for farmers who need to buy it and to find markets for those with hay to sell.

The project is being coordinated by William Hueg, extension agronomist at the University.

Hueg urges farmers who wish to either sell or buy hay to notify their county agents. Then the agents will pass the information along to other farmers in the county, or to agents in other nearby counties.

Starting Sept. 1, a state-wide hay supply report will be issued jointly by the extension service and the department of agriculture to newspapers and radio stations, giving the current overall situation. County agents and other agricultural workers will receive complete reports, too.

With good market prospects, Hueg urges farmers who have surplus hay to take good care of it. Where hay is stacked in the field, cover it with 8-mil plastic sheets to prevent spoilage. If hay is baled, get it picked up and under cover as soon as possible.

The hay shortage is worst in central and southwest Minnesota and much of South Dakota, where the cold, snowless months of last winter and drouth this year killed a lot of legume stands.

Wool Market Promotion to Be Voted on

Referendum Set for September on Continuing Program

Patrick W. Culkins, manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, announced today that sheep producers will have the opportunity to vote in September in a nation-wide referendum on the question of continuing to finance a market development program for wool and lambs.

The program of advertising, promotion, and related activities is carried out under an agreement with the American Sheep Producers Council. It is financed by deductions from wool incentive payments earned by growers under the national wool program.

The agreement has been in effect since the 1955 marketing year and, if approved in the September referendum, will be continued for another 3 years. Approval requires the favorable vote of producers having two-thirds of the volume of production represented in the referendum.

The new agreement, Culkins said, would provide that deductions may not exceed the rates of 1 cent per pound for shorn wool and 5 cents per hundredweight for lambs that have been in effect under the original agreement.

The referendum will extend over the entire month of September to make it as easy as possible for all growers to participate, Culkins said. Ballots will be mailed to producers from the county ASC office before September 1 and may be voted and returned through September 30.

The referendum relates only to the wool and lamb market development program. It will not affect the continuation of the payment program under the three-year extension of the wool act last summer.

To Discuss Soil Bank Expansion Friday Evening

Patrick W. Culkins, manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, announced today that a meeting would be held Friday night, August 14, for the purpose of discussing the feasibility of adding more land under soil bank contracts in Pennington county in 1960.

He said that limitations established by the U. S. Department of Agriculture restricted the opening of a soil bank program in any county in the nation which had 25% or more of the eligible cropland in the soil bank program at the present time, and he stated that the percentage of cropland in Pennington county exceeded this limitation.

Mr. Culkins stated further that all businessmen, farmers, and laborers who were interested in the results of the program on the general economy of the area were invited to attend this meeting and cast their ballot either for or against further participation in the program.

Ballots will be distributed at the meeting and interested persons will vote by secret ballot.

The meeting will be held in the assembly room in the auditorium basement, and will begin promptly at 9:00 p.m.

Full Enrollment for Aviation Mechanics Course Here Assured

Eighteen applicants for the airframe and engine mechanics course were given a series of intelligence and aptitude tests on Thursday of last week at the Thief River Falls area vocational schol, Stan Nelson, director, announced today. The local office of the Minnesota state employment service administered a series of tests in the morning designed to measure special aptitudes and abilities.

In the afternoon a new series of Flanagan aptitude classification tests were administered. The results of these tests were very pleasing, said Nelson, thus assuring the schol of a high calibre of students for the first class in aviation mechanics.

These test results together with high school records and personal interviews will be used as the basis for final class selection.

A number of Thief River Falls students were among the applicants. Additional applications are still being reviewed and any students wishing to enroll are urged to make formal application immediately. The class will be limited to eighteen students.

Those interested may write or contact the Area Vocational School for further information.

Child Visitor Here Suffers Injury in Unusual Accident

Steven Hymer Sustains Abdominal Puncture When He Falls on Knifeblade

Fish being cleaned on the back porch of a home and a gust of wind which slammed open a screen door combined to send a 1½-year-old Thief River Falls visitor to Northwestern hospital Tuesday afternoon.

Steven Hymer of San Francisco, Calif., who is visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hymer, was the victim of a severe abdominal puncture which resulted from this usually hamless combination of circumstances. After a fishing expedition to the Red Lake river which is near the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray T. Nelson, at the east end of First st., the boy's father was cleaning the fish on the back porch of the home. Steven came out the back screen door, a gust of wind suddenly blew it further open and the boy lost his balance and fell on the knife.

Steven was admitted to Northwestern hospital at 12:40 p.m. Tuesday by Dr. Leo Herber. An examination by Dr. Herber and Dr. K. L. Stensgaard revealed that the knife had pierced the abdominal wall and had punctured the small intestine in two places.

A check at the hospital Wednesday morning revealed that Steven's condition is "good."

Probation Agent Addresses Lions Club at Luncheon

Milton Olson, Newly Named Supervisor for Seven Counties, Tells of Work

Addressing the Lions club Wednesday noon, Milton Olson, supervisor of probation services for seven Northwestern Minnesota counties with headquaters in Thief River Falls, commented that, despite the unfavorable reputation this city and county have experienced in some quarters, the community has been fortunate in having less than the average amount of juvenile delinquency.

Olson pointed out that it is far less expensive to keep offenders on probation or parole than to confine them in institutions. An important function of his office, he added, is to rehabilitate the individual.

Probate Judge Herman A. Kjos introduced Olson and stated that he is well qualified by education and experience to handle his new duties in a competent manner.

School Board Accepts Bids Monday Night

Awards Contracts to Supply Fuel Oil, Coal, Bus Insurance

At a lengthy August session Monday evening, the Thief River Falls board of education accepted bids on the winter's supply of coal and fuel oil for the school buildings, as well as bids on insurance and on equipment for the area vocational school.

Western Oil & Fuel Co. was awarded the contract to supply fuel oil on its low bid of 11.9 cents per gallon. Five other bids were received. O'Hara Fuel & Transfer Co., lowest of five bidders, was given the contract to furnish washed and treated screenings at $17.60 per ton.

The Robert J. Lund Insurance agency, on its proposal of $922.08, was authorized to write insurance coverage on 17 school buses, a truck and a station wagon. Lloyd Spray also submitted a proposal of $942.87. The board also accepted the proposal of the Ihle Insurance agency to cover individual students with accident insurance on a voluntary basis.

Following receipt of word from the state department of education that reimbursement aid for the teacher training department will be paid for the 1959-60 school year, the board decided to continue the department for another year. Miss Bernice Troumbly is the teacher.

Also approved was a contract with Northwestern Hospital to continue to supply facilities for clinical experience for students in the pratical nurse course. Bids totaling $3,500 were accepted for supplying equipment needed for the aircraft and engine mechanics' course to be conducted at the airport by the area vocational school.

The salary of Stanley Nelson, director of the school, was raised for the coming year from $8,200 to $9,000 a year, and an additional payment of $400 for adult evening school was continued.

Three new teachers were approved, and the board accepted resignations of Dennis Rolle, guidance director, and Mrs. Glenna Wefald, who had recently signed a contract to teach the sixth grade here.

Teachers appointed include Joann Gregory, graduate of St. Cloud state college, who will teach art; Robert Egge, graduate of St. Olaf college, who will teach English; and Mrs. Marilyn McGinley of Thief River Falls, who will teach commercials subjects in the vocational school, taking the place of Harry Vaughan, who is on leave of absence.

Three appointments remain to be made to complete the faculty for the coming year: a guidance director, science and mathematics teacher and a sixth grade teacher.

Local Boy Admits Try at Burglary

Admits Trying to Enter Northwest Beverage Co.

A 15-year-old local boy was apprehended this week by city police for the break-in and attempted burglary of Northwest Beverage Co. July 30.

A dog belonging to the occupants of the apartment in the building scared the would-be burglar off before anything could be taken.

The youth was picked up by police after a local man tipped them off of the youth's activities at the fairgrounds on the same date. The youth had been caught in the act of burglarizing a concession there by men working at the place early that morning and one of them reported the incident to police.

Upon questioning by police, the youth admitted the attempted burglary at Northwest Beverage Co. He will probably be brought before juvenile court, pending further investigation of the case, police said.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Burstad and family were Sunday evening supper guests at the Alvin Burstad home at Kratka.

By STAN PETERSON

In these days of increasing enrollments in our schools, mounting taxes to support them and growing resistance of the public to part with an even greater part of their pay checks for various activities including education, the time has come for everyone to take a more active interest in where the money is going.

A discussion of any aspect of the educational system of our state and nation by an "outsider" is immediately met by the pedants with the hackneyed question, "Don't you want our young people to have a good education?" The answer is, of course, "Yes." Few critics of educational spending are trying to reduce the quality of training young people receive—in fact they want better education.

For some reason, any criticism of the way schools are run is considered an attack upon a phase of our society tantamount to questioning the virtue of motherhood, the "American way of life," the wrongness of sin or the rightness of the church. Through the years and by a long indoctrination by schoolmen, EDUCATION has become one of the holy of holies above the comprehension of mortal men and, therefore, above his right to question.

However, the ones who pay the bills have become more and more aware of a growing pain in a most vital and tender spot—their wallets. The malignancy is characterized by the deflation of this region with attendant complaints and unease. The final result has been a closer and closer scrutiny of school expenditures and works.

Two areas of educational spending have commanded the greatest amount of attention—physical plants and faculties—and the expenditures for both have been defended by administrators as providing better educational facilities for pupils.

"If a building costs more and if we have more teachers, education is better in—," seems to be a common defense when either aspect is questioned. This follows the undesirable tendency which has grown recently that anything newer, bigger, shinier and more costly must necessarily be better.

The commencement speaker of an area school graduation, a school administrator's administrator, recently made some disquieting statements which are indicative of this unfortunate trend. The speaker defended, without reservation, any expenditure for schools and verbally spanked the community for a voters' revolution against school board members who had been free spenders.

With a few exceptions, the audience greeted these statements with stoical silence — a silence which was more expressive than anything that could have been said or done by those who did not agree with the speaker. The "gravy train" had made its last run in the community.

What do people expect for their educational dollars today? What do they expect school boards and administrators to do? First of all, let's consider what they don't want.

Taxpayers today do not believe that walnut panels on the walls or gold-plated handles on the doors give pupils any better training than plastered walls and aluminum handles nor do they last any longer and "lower the overall cost." Expenses for new buildings can be cut, in many cases, without sacrifice as to quality.

Building plans, too long a matter of closed session between an architect and some school administrators without the benefit of those who use the facilities, should be considered over a longer period of time and should involve more people.

Outmoded ideas of construction such as immovable walls and large expanses of glass requiring expensive drapes need overhauling.

And, in the final examination of newly constructed schools, buildings should be scrutinized more closely before they are accepted and the final payment made.

From the standpoint of a school faculty, does its size determine its excellence? Is a school with 100 teachers better than one with only 50? Let's examine this "old chestnut."

The only acceptable yardstick by which we can measure the excellence or lack of excellence of a school is the job it does in training its pupils. Voluminous reports, prepared by those who will be most affected by adverse findings, can be so phrased that even the most interested reader becomes lost in their profundity and multisyllable words.

Does a school furnish ample training for those who will terminate their training with the end of the twelfth year? Does a school prepare those who go on to college in a way which allows them to meet other high school graduates on an equal basis or do they find themselves lacking in some ways? These are the only measures of a school's success that mean anything.

To prepare these young men and women for the years beyond high school, teachers with adequate training and the ability to pass on what they know are necessary.

Are we hiring teachers like this, teachers with backgrounds broad enough to do the job we expect of them, or are we signing contracts with many who have never had experience in their field or any background other than their four-year transition from high school to college to teaching? Are we confining our teacher recruitment to a small and limited area or are we reaching further to find others who could do the job better?

And, after we engage staff members, do we distribute the work load as equally as possible or do we find some who are bearing too large a load while others spend all their time merely trying to justify their existence?

School boards, administrators and the teachers themselves will find it increasingly difficult to get more money from the taxpayers until they answer these questions.

Fertilizers

In not too distant a future there may be a big change in the fertilizer label. It will state the analysis in elemental form for all three nutrients: nitrogen, phosphorus and potash.

As it now stands a 5-20-20 fertilizer has 5 pounds of nitrogen, 20 pounds of phosphate, and 20 pounds potash in that order. Now the nitrogen is already stated in amount of actual element, so that wouldn't change. The switch will be in phosphate and potash.

"Phosphate" and "potash" refer to what chemists call "oxide" form of phosphorus and potassium, respectively. To state either in elemental form would make the numbers smaller. So the fertilizer now known as 5-20-20 would turn out to be about 5-9-17 if all three nutrients were expressed as elements.

If you are interested in the arithmetic of the thing, the phosphate content is 44 per cent elemental phosphorus and the potash is 84 per cent elemental potassium. Minnesota already has a law allowing the State Chemist to make the conversion as he sees fit—depending on the action of nearby states. Most fertilizer manufacturers will probably make the change as painless as possible. Some companies are already giving the grade in both elemental and regular oxide form. Such dual labeling will no doubt be common until everybody is accustomed to the idea. From the practical standpoint, the elemental analysis is more realistic.

New Oats on the Way

A release of Minton oats was made this spring to seed growers in the state. The new variety was developed by the University of Minnesota agricultural experiment station. It is a lightly-awned oat and yellow in color. Minton is mid-season in maturity and from 1956 to 1958 it averaged higher in yield than any other variety tested at eight locations in the state.

Farmers increasing the oats under contract for the university are Melvin Scholin, Wilbur Hallstrom, Leonard Skaar, Warren Wilson, LeRoy Krbechek and Silas Hanson. All are members of the Pennington Crop Improvement association.

Control the Rodents

Don't let rats and mice eat up the grain profits. A thorough rodent proofing of storage bins can save money. Here are a few rat proofing materials: cement, hardware cloth ¼-inch thick, sheet metal 26-gauge or heavier.

All the openings larger than ¼-inch need to be closed up to keep out the rats and mice. Wooden sills and doors at ground level must be sheathed in sheet metal to prevent gnawing. And windows less than four feet from the ground should be screened with hardware cloth. No single method is best to control rodents. It takes a combination of several methods to keep them in check, such as poisoning and trapping, removing food and harboring places, and then keeping the yard in such condition that it wouldn't attract rodents.

Mud Lake Waterfowl Population Reported Well Over '57 and '58

Ducks and geese at the Mud Lake national wildlife refuge, located east of Holt, have not felt the impact of drouth. Herbert H. Dill, refuge manager, states that conditions at the refuge have been favorable and waterfowl populations are high. This situation is the opposite of that reported from many parts of the country.

Dill explained that food produced at the refuge was an important factor in attracting waterfowl last spring.

The spring migration followed the same general pattern as in 1958. Geese commenced nesting in April followed by mallards and pintails. However, blue-winged teal increased substantially over past years. Total breeding populations are 65 per cent higher than for the past three years, and over 85 per cent higher than in 1958. Final production figures have not been compiled. But the picture is bright. Brood sizes are large and success has been above average.

Breeding populations in 1957 and 1958 were approximately 9,000 and 7,000 respectively which represented an average of from 30 to 35 pairs per square mile of habitat. This figure jumped to approximately 70 pairs per square mile in 1959.

Dill explained further that refuges, like Mud Lake Refuge, are intensively managed to provide high-quality waterfowl habitat. "This becomes especially important in times of drouth," he stated.

Thieves & Bums Join to Defeat Ada 6 to 2

In an interesting and well-played exhibition game played on the Fair Grounds diamond on Wednesday night, a team composed of players from the Thieves and the Bums defeated the Ada Athletics of the Norman-Polk league, 6 to 2.

Ada, on singles by Sam Samuelson and Orry Holland, and a solid double by Tony Sipe, scored a pair of runs in the 1st inning.

The Thieves-Bums aggregation took control of the game in the 3rd inning. Dennis Bakke opened with a single inside the third base line; Pat Poole, attempting to sacrifice, lifted a foul pop to the catcher; Mickey Hanson was brushed by a pitched ball; Hjelle sent a fly ball to center-field, and Bakke, who earlier had stolen second and advanced to third on a wild throw, scored after the catch. Dean Anderson singled to center field, scoring Hanson. Rod Max was safe on an error, and then Glenn Carlson, who banged out a pair of doubles and a single in the game, laced a 2-bagger to the fence in left-center, giving the locals a 4 to 2 lead.

Carlson's double and Bakke's single plated a run for the Thieves-Bums in the 6th inning; and a single by Anderson, an error, and Carlson's single added another tally in the 7th inning.

Ada threatened to get back into the game in the 9th inning when, on a pair of walks and a single, they loaded the bases with two men out, but Hjelle, the third of three pitchers to hurl for locals, struck out clean-up batter Tony Sipe to end the game.

Fosston, 1, at Bagley, 4.
Thief River Falls, 17, at Winger, 12.
Eldred, 0, at Cass Lake, 9.
Erskine, 3, at Bagley, 1.

The seven-team Northern Minny league concluded its 1959 schedule on Sunday. The league championship and the playoff position remain in doubt, with Thief River Falls and Cass Lake sharing first place honors with nine wins and three losses each, and Fosston and Erskine deadlocked for fourth place with six wins and six losses each. Plans are being completed for a first place playoff game between Thief River Falls and Cass Lake, and a fourth place playoff game between Fosston and Erskine.

Following the completion of these playoff games and a determining of the final standings, pairings for the league playoffs will be announced. The winner of the league playoffs will represent the Northern Minny league in the Class B regional tournament that will be played at Bagley.

The highlight game of Sunday's league schedule was the Erskine vs. Bagley game played at Bagley on Sunday night. The Erskine Merchants, with right-hander Bob Hallameck turning in a seventeen-strike-out and three-hit performance, defeated Bagley, 3 to 1, in a tense ten-inning contest. The win was a "must" for Al Carlson's Erskine club who needed the victory to keep alive their playoff hopes.

In a mid-week game played at Erskine, Fosston scored an 8 to 6 win in the playing off of a postponed game. The game was called at the end of six innings when the supply of baseballs became exhausted.

In other games on Sunday's slate, Thief River Falls rolled up a 17 to 12 win over the Winger Tigers; and Cass Lake marked up a 9 to 0 shutout over Eldred.

Softball Booster Buttons

Members of the various teams in the city softball league are making a canvass of the city for the purpose of selling softball booster buttons. These buttons, selling for the modest price of twenty-five cents, are numbered serially, and on September 3, when the city league champions play the league All-Stars in an exhibition game, some button owners will be pleasantly surprised.

The purpose of this button sale is to raise a sum of money which will be used to provide a trophy-awards banquet. The league directors adopted a resolution setting up a committee to make plans for an end-of-the-season gathering of the softball players.

The Northern Chevrolet has provided a trophy to be presented to the league champions.

We think it is a splendid idea for the league to have a banquet. It will give the boys an opportunity to mend their friendships, for during the heat of the campaign some of these friendships have become unravelled.

Trap Shoot Tournament

Jerry Amundgaard will be on hand Thursday evening to make a defense of his city trap shooting championship when the local club conducts the second annual championship shoot at its layout north of town.

The traps will be open at 4:00 P.M., and the championship event, which will be limited to club members, will be a fifty-bird shoot. The shooters will be divided into three classes, with the divisions being made according to the league averages, and the winners in each class will be awarded trophies.

In addition to the championship event, there will be merchandise shoots, open to all shooters, and a woman's trap shooting event.

We're quite certain that the Class A championship contenders do not have to worry about lawyer Gordon LaBree being a threat for the city title. Gordon, to hear him relate the story, opened up this part of the west along with his grandfather John Baptiste LaBree. And it was his, Gordon's, marksmanship that depleted the vast herds of bison that roamed this area. So when Gordon approached the firing line at the traps last Thursday a hush of expectancy was evident. So what happened? Gordon managed to break two of twenty-five birds. Why, Dennis (Cotton) Langevin, whose only claim to fame is that he helped open up the east, is a better marksman than that.

Joey to Denver

Joey Poole, a smooth-skating center-ice player with the North Dakota Sioux for the past three seasons, and prior to that a Prowler hockey star here, has decided to follow his college coach, Bob May, to Denver and join the professional hockey ranks. May is to be coach and general manager of the newly-organized Denver club of the International league.

Joey, who has completed his college hockey eligibility, has a semester of college study remaining before he obtains a degree in education, and he has made plans to continue his studies at Denver University. With the International league schedule due to start on Ocober 30, and more than seventy games on the slate, it is doubtful if Joey will be able to attend Denver U during the fall and winter quarters.

From all reports, coach Bob May will rely heavily on former college players in organizing the Denver club. In addition to Joey, it is expected that Bill Steenson, a former All-American defenseman, and Bob Peters, a goalie, will be joining the new team.

Shortstop Golf Tournament

The recent rains, which have been as a plague to the farmers in this vicinity, have benefited the local golf course tremendously, and the golfers who will participate in the shortstop tournament here on Sunday should find ideal playing conditions prevailing.

It is hoped that Hawley's young George McDonald, the winner of the shortstop tournament held here last month, will be an entry in Sunday's tourney. Lyle Hornbacher, a championship flight contender, in the recent Pine-to-Palm tourney at Detroit Lakes; and Ted Listug, who just missed qualifying for the state amateur tournament, are other top flight golfers who are expected to enter Sunday's shortstop.

Pen-Ro-Shall Loop Semis Set Sunday

Thief River Falls Bums Will Force Plummer Here

The Pen-Ro-Shall league semi-final playoff games will be played on Sunday afternoon with the league-champion Thief River Falls Bums entertaining the Plummer Red Sox on the Fair Grounds diamond, and Badger meeting Goodridge at Goodridge. Both games will start at 2:30 p.m.

In games played last Sunday, to determine playoff positions, Badger scored a 13 to 4 win over Grygla in a game played at Grygla; and Greenbush dropped a 12 to 10 decision to Plummer at Plummer.

In a tune-up game for the playoff series, manager Wally Grovum's Bums played the highly-regarded Baudette team of the Lake of the Woods league on Sunday afernoon, and the Bums scored an 8 to 4 win.

The game, played at Baudette, found the Bums raking the offerings of Ron Hagstrom (who was a "pitcher of the week" a week ago) for six hits and five runs in the 2nd inning. Lefty Freddy Jensen went the route for the Bums and scattered eight hits.

V.F.W. vs. Bums

The Hamm's Beer team, defeating the Bridgeman's, 8 to 6, in the replay of a protested game, moved into a two-game lead (in the loss column) in the city softball league standings.

The Len's Tire Service team, winning a pair of games during the week's competition, made quite a boost in the league standings when they took over second place, holding a one-half game advantage over the third place Bridgeman's club.

Next week's schedule will find a pair of important games on the slate. Jerry Stevens's Hamm's Beer team will be playing the Bjorkman's on Monday evening, and a win in this game would just about clinch the league title for the Hamm's. In their remaining two games, the Hamm's meet the Sportsman's Store and the Dow-Key clubs and will be heavily favored to win those games.

On Tuesday evening, the Bridgeman's will attempt to get back into the championship race when they meet the Len's Tire Service squad.

Over Million Autos in Twin Cities by 1980

Nearly 300 miles of freeway will be needed in the Twin Cities metropolitan area by 1980 to accomodate the 1,033,000 vehicles expected at that time, it is estimated by the Minnesota highway department.

These are two of the preliminary conclusions resulting from the current Twin Cities area transportation study which was initiated a year ago by the highway department in cooperation with the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

The study is under the direction of Chester C. Burdick and his assistant director of analysis, Russell B. Adams, of the Traffic and Planning division of the highway department.

According to Burdick, the study will provide data that will form the basis for the planning and design of a modern system of freeways and major streets capable of alleviating present traffic problems and of accomodating traffic 20 years from now.

Presently, 1,350,000 people, or 40 per cent of the state's population, reside in the 900 square miles comprising the Twin Cities metropolitan area, the thirteenth largest in the nation. This is the area covered by the transportation study, and it includes Ramsey county and parts of Hennepin, Carver, Anoka, Washington and Dakota counties.

The study showed that residents of this area make some 1,700,000 passenger car trips on the average week day in 463,000 cars registered in the area, or 39.5 per cent of the state's passenger cars.

According to preliminary forecasts made by the study group, by 1980 the population will increase by about 800,000 to a total of 2,170,000; at that time 46.4 per cent of the state's population will make their homes in this area. They will make about 3,300,000 daily trips in about 860,000 automobiles, or 44 per cent of the state's passenger cars.

Other preliminary forecasts show that the total of all types of vehicles will increase from the present 565,000 to about 1,033,000 by 1980.

The number of households is expected to increase from the present 414,000, with 3.3 persons per household, to about 675,000, with 3.2 persons per household.

These preliminary forecasts, and others like it, were arrived at through mathematical projections of the tabulations of the data which the study group has accumulated and compiled over a period of more than a year.

The study involved inventories of the number of trips made daily, trip purpose, land use, dwelling-unit expansion, past trends in population and vehicle ownership and all other factors affecting traffic patterns.

Before the final report of the study is made, the study will have determined and analyzed all trip movements by every means of transportation on the average week day, according to Burdick.

To Honor 4-H Key Members at Fair

Pennington Recipients to be Guests at Luncheon

Pennington county 4-H club members who have received key awards will be honored at a luncheon during the Minnesota State Fair, according to Home Agent Roberta LeBourveau.

The luncheon, scheduled for Tuesday noon, September 1, will be the fifth annual luncheon given for 4-H'ers throughout the state. During the seven years the key award has been offered, 2,500 Minnesota 4-H'ers have received the award.

The award, a gold key on a necklace for girls and a key mounted on a gold tie clasp for boys, is a means of giving recognition to outstanding 4-H club members who have provided leadership in their local clubs and in their county.

To be eligible for consideration for a key award, a 4-H member must be 16 years old, have completed three years of active junior leadership and five years of 4-H work.

Junior leaders may get application blanks for fall awards from their county extension office, says Miss LeBourveau.

The University of Minnesota Agricultural Extension Service and the Cities Service Oil Company sponsor the program.

Hunters' Guide Is Due in September

To Be Available Shortly from County Auditors

A colorful 1959 Hunting Synopsis will soon be coming off the printing press and sent to license agents around the state.

Merton Christian, conservation administration assistant, reports the synopsis is presently being assembled.

"The response to our 1958 centennial year hunting synopsis was so enthusiastic, we have decided to do a repeat performance", explained Christian.

"The new synopsis will be much the same as last year in size and shape, but will feature a larger deer zone map, and a distinctive cover designed by James L. Artig, wildlife artist."

"The synopsis will carry a great deal of information of interest to hunters, and they should take time to carefully read and study it."

Christian expects county auditors and license agents to have synopsis available to the public by the first week of September.

Border Cities on River Road Route

Road from Bemidji Part of Mississippi Parkway

International Falls and Fort Frances are definitely on the route of the Great River Road, Highway 71 from Bemidji to the twin border cities, having been designated as part of the new Mississippi River Parkway that extends from New Orleans into Canada.

Formal announcement of the project locally was made recently at a joint meeting of members of a Fort Frances and Falls committee representing political and civic interests. The announcement was made by W. G. Noden, Fort Frances, and Rep. Ed Chilgren, Littlefork.

Years of planning and effort have gone into the parkway. Its aim is to develop and preserve historical and scenic values — a parkway for each side of the Mississippi river, for the pleasure and general welfare of the people.

Slow-moving Cars Required by Law to Stay at Right

Slower moving vehicles must keep to the right in Minnesota traffic, the highway department safety division reminded motorists today. The 1959 legislature provided for this in an amendment to the highway traffic regulations by saying that.

"Upon all roadways any vehicle proceeding at less than the normal speed of traffic at the time and place and under the conditions then exhisting shall be driven in the right-hand lane then available for traffic, or as close as practicable to the right-hand curb or edge of the roadway, except when overtaking and passing another vehicle proceeding in the same direction, or when preparing for a left turn at an intersection or into a private road or driveway, or when a specific lane is designated and posted for a specific type of traffic."

Benton County Soil Conservationists Tops in Minnesota

Wins Goodyear Award for Doing Best Job in State During Past Year

Names of the outstanding soil conservation district in Minnesota and the two individual winners of grand awards in a national, annual conservation program, were announced in Akron, Ohio, today by Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., sponsor of the competition.

The Minnesota judges cited the Benton county district for doing the best job of advancing the cause of land and water conservation in the state between May 1, 1958 and April 30, 1959.

The two winners of individual grand awards for the state are Donald Talbert, of Rt. 1, Oak Park, a member of the first place district governing body and James Latterell of Foley, selected for his outstanding conservation accomplishment as a farmer-cooperator, by the winning district.

Talbert and Latterell will be guests of the program sponsored at Wigwam resort hotel and Goodyear Farms, Litchfield Park, Arizona, in November or December for an all-expenses paid vacation as a reward for their achievements.

Second place honors for the state were won by the Dodge County soil conservation district, which nominated Merrill Martig of Dodge Center as its outstanding farm cooperator. Both will be presented plaques for permanent possession.

Most popular way to get a home loan today

Like millions of Americans you may be dreaming of building or buying your own home. If you are, chances are you need two important things—first, money for a down payment; second, a home loan to make up the difference. Our association specializes in helping you get both these things.

Last year, associations like ours throughout the U.S. made one out of every three home loans—1,000,000 of them totaling more than $10 billion. The Insured Savings and Loan way has, in fact, become America's most popular way to finance a new home. Here's why:

1. We know more about home loans because we make more of them.
2. You get friendly understanding from our staff which is experienced in home financing.
3. You repay your loan just like rent. A monthly repayment is usually set up to include principal, interest and property taxes.
4. While you're saving for the down payment, your money earns excellent returns, and is insured up to $10,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, an agency of the U. S. Government.

Our Water Rates

The audit report of the city's operations for 1958 reveals a substantial operating deficit for the water department. In pointing up the fact that the city is providing this service at a financial loss, the auditor suggests that consideration be given to rate increases.

We are much in favor of giving this problem the consideration it deserves, not because we favor a rate increase, but because giving consideration to this problem might stimulate a little much-needed public interest in the city's overall financial condition, which, we are happy to report, is excellent.

The one thing that is seriously out of adjustment in the city's operations is its debt retirement program. We are paying our funded debt too fast. We are like the foolish fellow who sacrificed everything to get out of debt and paid off the mortgage so fast he couldn't afford to buy food. Under the pressure of needlessly high taxes we not only are denying ourselves some necessities but we also are discouraging development.

At the end of this year our funded debt will be $1,127,000. Under our present debt retirement schedule we will pay off half of this total in the next four years. To carry out this crazy schedule we will pay off $178,000 in 1960; $148,000 in 1961; $128,000 in 1962, and $108,000 in 1963. These are the payments we will make on the principal alone. At the end of the four years the interest load will be greatly reduced.

At the end of four years the city's debt service cost will be less than half of what it is now, even with generous allowances for improvements we will need during the interval, if their cost is properly projected over a reasonable period of time. At the end of four years there would be no need for a tax levy for municipal purposes. With that prospect there is no justification for continuing the present high tax levy, most of which is spread for debt service. It should be substantially reduced for the coming year and further reduced in each succeeding year.

Now getting back to this question of water rates. The main reason why the operation is showing a deficit is because of the item of depreciation. The water plant last year had an earned income of $73,439. Expenses, including an item of $3,038 for interest on the unpaid water plant bonds, totaled $71,905. Without taking into consideration the item of depreciation, $20,314, the operation just about paid its own way.

For a privately owned business depreciation is an important item, mainly for tax purposes. For the city, as it has financed its various activities over a period of many years, it is a meaningless bookkeeping entry.

Our water plant was completed in 1949 at a cost of approximately a half a million dollars. In two more years we will have it paid for. The plant has been depreciated at a rate of four percent a year, meaning a complete write-off in 25 years. With proper maintenance and occasional expansion it should serve the city through several generations. We will pass it along to them largely as a gift. It has been paid for by us partly as water consumers, partly as users of electricity, partly as taxpayers and partly as consumers of liquids other than water.

Maybe there would have been justification at the time the new plant was built to set up a rate structure that would have passed the cost along to the water customers. That was not thought necessary at that time because at that time it appeared it could be paid for with revenue from other sources, and until recent years this was true. We now are on the threshold of an era in the city's affairs when, with good management, it will be true again.

But it will require good management and an informed public. That is why we think consideration should be given to the proposal that we increase water rates. It would be encouraging to discover that such rate increases are not now needed and that a substantial reduction in taxes is immediately possible with a more realistic approach to our debt problem, spreading the load over a few more years.

Minnesota Not Alone

Minnesota's legislature came in for considerable criticism this year because its members could not agree upon some of the major questions within the allotted time limit of 90 working days. These matters were finally disposed of in an extra session that lasted longer than any previous extra session in the state's history.

But Minnesota is only one of many states that has had unusual problems to contend with in recent years. In fairness to our own law makers they deserve a pat on the back for having resolved their differences in much less time than is being taken by the legislatures of some other states.

Down in the one-party state of Texas, for instance, the legislature is in its fourth session since the first of the year, when the regular session started. When the members failed to agree on money bills in the regular session, Governor Price Daniel called a special session. Following the adojurnment of this special session without agreement a second special session was called, and when that was adojurned the governor kept the lawmakers on the job by immediately calling a third special session.

Time is now running out. The state's relief funds will be exhausted by August 15 and on September 1 many of the state's services will end because of a lack of funds. Commenting on the Texas situation, Bicknell Eubanks, writing in the Christian Science Monitor, says, "There are so many feuds, personal and factional, so many potential candidates for state office, and so many lobbyists taking advantage of the confusion here in Austin that a solution seems as far away as ever."

The problem, in simple terms, is to find enough dollars to pay off a $38 million dollar deficit and to raise $90 million a year of new revenue to pay the inflated cost of an expanded government.

Ours is not the only state that has troubles. In Texas, as in Minnesota, however, there probably would be fewer political problems if there were fewer politicians.

We'll Keep Our Guard Up

It is interesting to note that the announcement of the coming exchange of visits between President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev resulted in a sharp decline in the market value of the stocks of corporations that are financially interested in the government's expanding program of space-age war preparedness. While the market as a whole experienced only a moderate decline, the electronic-missile-rocket fuel stocks "took some staggering losses" according to an Associated Press analysis.

Such extreme fluctuations probably represent the panicky reactions of speculators rather than the considered judgment of investors. While most Americans would welcome an easing of international tensions, along with less hysteria among those who speak for us in the direction of our defense activities, there are few among us who will favor a letting down of our guard because Khruschev will appear before us as an apostle of peace.

It is not likely that we will act hastily in curtailing our defense program. We will listen courteously and attentively to Comrade Nikita when he visits us, but his promises will be accepted cautiously. There will have to be performance as well as promises before we start beating our swords into plow shares.

Segregation & the Churches

(New York Times)

A century ago white church leaders in the South were usually able to reconcile Christianity with slavery. Today, as John Wicklein reports, "no major denomination in the South and few leading churchmen assert that segregation can be reconciled with their religion." That is to say, the religious conscience of the South is uneasy about a far less horrifying problem than that of chattel slavery.

This is a situation whose roots and causes we in the North should understand. Even here, where there are no memories of even a century-old system of slavery, integration in the churches is not actually universal. In the South, old fears and old customs hold sway, although the intensity of the fears and the rigidity of the customs are certainly diminishing. The lessons of history and the influence of the Sermon on the Mount work their leaven in every community. More is happening, some of Mr. Wicklein's informants said, than is publicly proclaimed. Perhaps a little more Christian charity on both sides of the Mason-Dixon Line would help.
